Diabetes panel claims disease may now be No. 3 killer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new National Commission on Diabetes said today the disease may have become the nation's third-ranking killer.

"Last year 38,000 persons died directly from diabetes, and there is strong evidence that perhaps as many as 300,000 deaths could be attributed to diabetes and its complications," the commission said. "This would make diabetes the third-ranking cause of death, after heart disease and cancer."

In its first report to Congress, the 17-member commission urged that federal funds for diabetes research be tripled by fiscal 1979.

"Diabetes is a major health problem directly affecting 10 million Americans," the commission said. "The prevalence of the disease is increasing rapidly."

The economic toll of the disease is estimated at $5.3 billion a year, while federal spending for research into treatment and prevention amounted to only $43 million last year, the report said.

The introduction of insulin therapy for diabetics helps control but does not cure the disease, which can cause blindness and kidney and heart complications, the report said.

Emphasizing the rising incidence of diabetes, the commission said that one out of five Americans born today and living to the age of 70 can expect to become a victim.

Diabetics, the report said, are 25 times more prone to blindness than nondiabetics, 17 times more prone to kidney disease, twice as prone to heart disease and five times more prone to gangrene, which often leads to amputation.

"These and other complications result in about 15 per cent of all diabetics being bedridden for 1½ months per year," the commission said.

Half of all young diabetics die within 25 years of their diagnosis, the report said. The victims are more likely to be women, nonwhite and poor, it said.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., who serves on the Senate health and HEW appropriations subcommittees, said he intends "to spearhead congressional efforts to implement the commission's major suggestions," especially the call for more research funds.

"To further postpone a massive and coordinated attack against the nation's third-ranking killer would be a tragic waste of lives and resources," he said in a statement.

Supervisors seek major reform in property taxes

Hope to aid middle class and elderly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The County Board of Supervisors has asked Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and the state legislature to adopt major property tax reforms that would aid middle-class families and the elderly.

A motion by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn instructing many county agencies to endorse legislative changes in 1976 was passed unanimously by the board Tuesday.

Hahn said all school financing and welfare costs should be borne by the state and federal governments.

He claimed middle-class families in Los Angeles County are being forced to sell their homes because of rising taxes. Hahn asked for the exemption of the first $25,000 market value on all homes from property taxes.

He also called for a review of the possibility of exempting senior citizens' homes from taxes entirely, and said when home owners reach the age of 65, their assessments and taxes should at least be frozen.

Hahn's motion was seconded by Supervisor Baxter Ward and adopted without debate. The motion instructs Assessor Philip E. Watson, the county Grand Jury Aduit Committee and the Economy and Efficiency Commission to recommend assessment and tax reforms.

In another action Tuesday, the board directed Chief Administrative Officer Harry L. Hufford to negotiate transfer of the city of Los Angeles' Saugus Rehabilitation Center to the county for treatment of alcoholics.

ROCKY FIELDS A QUESTION

Heavenly Sun Cake! missing recipe is found

The missing recipe for the Heavenly Sun cake, which aroused numerous inquiries from readers of food pages in Progress Bulletin's Wednesday publications, have been located.

The recipe, plus a picture of the cake, is printed on page 36 of today's PB.

Only a picture of the cake was originally printed several weeks ago. The recipe was omitted.

The next day the telephones rang and in succeeding days there were letters. Where was the recipe? The deluge was only exceeded by the response to the current crime situation.

To each inquiry we could only reply: We don't know. We didn't know from where the picture or the lost recipe came. We get many such pictures and recipes from various agencies and unless there is an identification printed on the back of the picture, we don't know the source after the envelope has been thrown away.

Mary Remillard, the PB's family editor, persisted in the matter. She located what she thought was the agency, an advertising firm in New York. She sent a copy of the picture to the agency. Her hunch was right. In due course of time back came a new picture and the recipe.

Now the question is: "Is the cake as good as it looked in the picture?"

Policeman foils suicide in drama under bridge

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I remember thinking as he jumped off the ledge and I dived after him, 'My God, I haven't finished the bathroom yet,'" said police Sgt. Richard Hoedl.

The jump took place Tuesday from a narrow 18-inch ledge beneath the Paseo Bridge, 60-feet above the muddy, cold Missouri River. The temperature was 36 degrees.

The man on the ledge determined to take his own life was Erwin Cornstubble, 29, of Des Moines, Iowa.

The other man about six feet from Cornstubble was Hoedl secured by a rope around his chest. Three officers on the roadbed of the bridge, V. L. Davis, Curry Bates and Chuck MacCray, held the other end of the rope.

"He said he didn't want to talk anymore, that he had to prove he had the guts to do it. Then he jumped and I dived after him," said Hoedl.

When the man jumped, the bathroom Hoedl is building off his daughter's room entered into the police officer's mind, but his arms managed to reach out and grab Cornstubble in the air.

The sergeant hung from the rope, two or three feet below the ledge, while Cornstubble tried to kick his way free.

"He was struggling so much that at one point I was holding him by one arm. I grabbed his shirt but he started sliding out of it. Finally I got a finger through one of his belt loops.

"I haven't been that cold since Korea," said the 40-year-old Hoedl. My fingers were so numb I couldn't feel them. But it's a hell of a feeling when you know you're holding a man's life and it's slipping away."

Hoedl finally regained his footing on the ledge and pulled the man up, wrapping his arms around the man's chest.

"He'd start crying and squirming and then he'd begin struggling again," said Hoedl. "That must have happened a half dozen times."

During the hour or so that Hoedl held the struggling man they slipped from the ledge several times. Each time the rope caught Hoedl and he kept his grip on Cornstubble.

"I told him, 'I'm 40 years old and this cold is killing me, but one of us is going to freeze to death before I let you go.'

"At one point he said to me something like, 'Why do you care about a long-hair like me?' I told him that I had a son with long hair and that the fact that he was another person made him worth saving."

Finally, a fireman and another police officer worked their way onto the ledge. They subdued the man and he was lifted to safety by a rope.

Hoedl was too numb to climb the ladder to safety and was pulled up by the rope. He suffered bruises and rope burns on his ribs, a wrenched shoulder and scraped knees.

"Hell, this was only my job," said Hoedl. "Don't forget those three guys holding onto that rope. I owe my life to them. They got some nasty rope burns trying to keep us out of the water."

Cornstubble was held overnight in the Western Missouri Mental Health Center.

2 young Claremont women are raped

Two young Claremont women were raped Tuesday afternoon in separate and apparently unrelated attacks within the city, authorities reported.

One attack reportedly took place shortly after 5 p.m. in an area between the Rancho San Antonio Botanical Gardens and the Claremont Colleges infirmary.

The other was at 6:30 p.m. and began with a kidnaping on or near the college campus. Both victims were 17 years old. Descriptions given police by the victims indicated that the same man was not involved.

The first victim said she was walking home from Claremont High School and was near the infirmary when she said she heard someone running up behind her. She said she was not alarmed because the area is frequented by joggers, so she did not look back.

Suddenly the runner grabbed her from behind, she said, clamping his hands over her mouth and eyes, and dragged her into a grove of oaks. She said he covered her eyes with a material of some kind and attacked her. Later he warned her to remain where she was and fled. The man was a Caucasian about 30 years old. He was 5 feet 9, and light-colored hair and wore khaki trousers.

Details of the second attack were sketchy this morning, but Claremont police reported that the victim, a coed attending one of the colleges, apparently was kidnaped from the campus. She was driven to the Mt. Baldy area, where she was held prisoner for about two hours before she managed to jump from her abductor's car and run.

Her attacker was described as a Latin in his late 20s or early 30s. He had long, black hair and was 5 feet 8 and weighed about 200 pounds.

Zumwalt fires new broadside at Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt says that despite denials from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger he is standing by his statement that Kissinger withheld information from President Ford about alleged Soviet violations of 1972 arms accords.

"He knows that the charge is absolutely true. He knows that he negotiated a secret agreement with the Russians in July of 1972," the retired chief of naval operations said

"He knows that neither the secretary of Defense nor the secretary of State nor the Joint Chiefs of Staff knew about it for 11 months. And he knows that the only reason we found out about it was that the Russians told us about it."

Too many holdups, beatings, shootings; mom and pop quit

STOCKTON (AP) — For 45 years, Clementina Gianelli and her husband, Domenic, operated Dom's Market, despite holdups, beatings and burglaries, but it's all over now.

Ms. Gianelli, 61, returned from St. Joseph's Hospital to recuperate from a gunshot wound in the neck, and reinforce a family decision that Dom's Market will be no more.

"We agreed not to push our faith any longer," she said this week. "The store will be closed."

The decision was cast Nov. 24 by a nervous gunman who shot Mrs. Gianelli during an attemped robbery. The Gianellis have withstood an assortment of robberies and burglaries. Her arm was been broken and her scalp grazed by a bullet.

Each time, until this time, the Gianelli's carried on.

"Right now, I feel as if part of my life is gone," she said. "It's lost forever."

Weather

Lower daytime temperatures with cloudy mornings and sunny afternoons. High today 77, low tonight 43, high Thursday 74. The high Tuesday was 86 and the overnight low was 39. Thursday's sunrise 6:46, sunset 4:42.

Richardson OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee today approved the nomination of Ambassador Elliot L. Richardson to be secretary of commerce, his fourth cabinet post.

The action was by voice vote without dissent.

Butz sees 4 to 5% food price hikes

CHICAGO (AP) — Food prices will increase 4 to 5 per cent in the coming year, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz predicts.

Butz told a news conference Tuesday that the reason for continuing complaints about food prices is that "food is the only thing left that you pay cash for."

Butz also repeated early criticism of George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO. He said Meany and some other top labor leaders are "more powerful than the president of the United States."

Grand jury indicts Teamsters official

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted Teamsters Union official Anthony Provenzano and two other men on charges of conspiring to kick back money from a union pension fund loan to a union official.

The indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in New York on Tuesday and unsealed today.

Provenzano, 58, is secretary treasurer of a Teamsters local.

The others indicted are Anthony Bentrovato, vice president of a New York sanitation firm, and Lawrence Paladino, owner of a luncheonette in Brooklyn.

The indictment charged that Paladino told Herman Goldfarb in April 1973 that he could arrange for loans from union employes welfare and pension funds "at a 12 per cent interest rate plus a 13 per cent kickback."

Rocky reports public view on government: fed up, fed up, fed up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If there's one message he's picked up in his series of domestic policy forums throughout the United States, says Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, it's that the American people are "fed up" with red tape and government bureaucracy.

The message was loud and clear at the final forum here Tuesday, with two western governors urging Rockefeller to make Washington bureaucrats "get off our backs" with increasingly complex regulations and guidelines.

"Everywhere we went we found the American people fed up with government bureaucracy and red tape. If there's one message we've gotten, that's it," the Vice President said.

"We found people fed up with waste and duplication, with confusion and contradiction in federal aid programs.

"We found people...fed up with the mountain of federal paperwork that is necessary just to move even a molehill of a project. We found people fed up with government overregulation of state and local government..."

Jobs and red tape were the dominant subjects in the day long forum that attracted about 1,000 government officials and private citizens.

Washington Gov. Dan Evans, a Republican, complaining about contradictory rules attached to federal grant programs, used the "get off our backs" phrase. Minutes later, Arizona Gov. Raul Castro, a Democrat, used the same line in his attack on red tape.

Evans, an 11-year veteran of the governor's mansion, said that during the past two years he has found "a geometric increase in the level of frustration in conflicting rules and regulations coming from the federal government."

One federal agency, he said, withheld funds from his state for "reverse discrimination" due to minority hiring efforts. But at the same time, he said, another agency threatened to cut funds because not enough was being done to hire minorities.

President Ford's economic recovery plan was termed "a moral fraud and a pragmatic failure" by labor leader John Henning.

Henning, head of the California AFL-CIO, said administration projections of an average 7.9 per cent unemployment rate next year amount to "unemployment by government design" caused by the "ruinious policies of the national administration."

Republican Mayor Pete Wilson of San Diego and state Employment Director Martin Glick proposed federal tax subsidies for small business in hopes of providing new jobs. Glick, appearing on behalf of California Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., urged creation of a publicly funded works program to be operated by private industry, easing of fiscal policies to encourage business expansion and tax laws that would discourage American business from creating jobs in other countries.

Tet celebration being planned for Viet refugees

The Claremont Red Cross Chapter is planning a Tet celebration for Vietnamese residents in the valley.

The party is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 1, from 4:30 to 8 p.m. at Taylor Hall in Claremont.

Tet is the traditional Vietnamese New Year's celebration. It also serves as a birthday observance for each individual. It has been described as the American version of Christmas, Easter or Thanksgiving.

This will be the first observance of Tet for the Vietnamese refugees who left their homeland last April. It is estimated that more than 500 Vietnamese now living in Claremont, Pomona, Upland and Ontario will attend the party.

Entertainment and decorations in the Vietnamese motif are being planned. Mrs. Ruth Iredell is chairman of the celebration committee.

"We hope to make this Tet celebration party as true to the Vietnamese culture as possible," said Mrs. Iredell.

"We will ask the Vietnamese people to bring food that is fitting for the occasion, such as rice cakes and other Tet specialities," she said.

Nation too dependent, Indian says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Increasing dependence on the federal government has placed the nation in the same predicament that Indian reservations have been for years, says Peter MacDonald, chairman of the Navajo tribe.

"Since the treaty of 1868 our biggest enemy has been government programs, the federal bureaucracy, the paternalistic effort to run our lives," MacDonald said Tuesday.

"For years only Indians suffered from the bureaucratic hand. Now all of us share that problem."

MacDonald, speaking at a World Affairs Council meeting, said New York turning to the federal government to rescue it from its financial crisis was a prime example of the trend. "We just can't get along without the federal government there to bail us out," he said.

But the problem is worse for Indians on reservations, he said, "because the government has been affecting our lives there for 100 years."

MacDonald said 1975 "is the high water mark for big government. To us the government has always been uncomfortably big. Now the government appears to be too big for everyone's comfort."

"Outlandish reporting requirements, overregulation and ever-growing programs have produced an economy where no major project can be commenced without bureaucratic approval or an act of Congress," he said.

MacDonald said his tribe wanted to end the dependence and, along with western tribes, has formed a Coalition of Energy Resources Tribes aimed at protecting tribal interests in mineral reserves.

Cranston, Tunney action

Senate spending proposal includes Baldy, Tujunga aid

The Senate has passed unanimously an amendment by Senators John Tunney and Alan Cranston to provide desperately needed federal funds for future flood prevention work in the fire ravaged Angeles National Forest, north of Claremont.

Under that amendment the U.S. Forest Service would receive $3.4 million for reseeding, reconstructing roads and reinforcing drainage structures in the Big Tujunga Canyon and Mt. Baldy areas.

"Because Southern California's rainy season is about to begin, the Forest service has at best one month in which to repair ravaged areas in those areas," the California senators said.

"Failure to act now could result in additional damage to the watersheds and homes from mud slides and flooding, brought about by the severe rain prevalent in December and January."

The Tunney-Cranston amendment is included in the fall supplemental appropriations bill now before the Senate.

In a related action, Tunney and Cranston called for reinstatement of $1 million in the Senate version of the Interior Appropriations Bill for forest fire protection on national forest land.

In a letter to Sen. Robert C. Byrd, chairman of the Interior Appropriations subcommittee, Cranston and Tunney said "funds to develop techniques which will prevent the spread of future fires from national forests into populated settlements are severely limited. By investing sufficient funds to develop fire breaks and other means of curtailment, we will be able to protect it against future holocausts."

"It is clear to us that this investment is a good one. It is the ounce of prevention Southern California has needed," they said.

The $1 million would provide additional protection from fire damage in the Los Padres, Angeles, Sequoia and Cleveland National forests in California.

60 Marshall pupils to give concert

More than 60 music students at Marshall Junior High School in Pomona will perform in the annual Christmas concert at 7 p.m. Thursday in the school gymnasium.

The concert is under the direction of R. Kirk Hadley, music instructor.

Performers will include a concert band, a guitar ensemble, the mixed chorus and instrumental soloists.

The band will feature a rock arrangement of "When the Spirit Moves," the "William Tell Overture" and "Tutti Flutti" with flute soloists.

The same groups will also perform at Roosevelt, Arroyo and Kellogg elementary schools before the Christmas holidays.

At the Marshall concert a fashion show will display Christmas attire, and refreshments will be served.

The concert is open to the public admission is free.

Parents and Teachers

GAREY HIGH School PTSA executive board will hold its Christmas party tonight at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Nollie Glover in Pomona. Members are asked to bring a food dish and an inexpensive exchange gift.

PHILADELPHIA School PTA executive board will celebrate the holiday season with a party at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the home of its president, Mrs. Gary Blyther.

Each member is asked to bring a food treat and inexpensive gift for a woman. The gifts will be distributed to needy mothers at the Pomona school.

"Spirit of Christmas" will be the theme of the Christmas program presented at PALOMARES Junior High School PTA unit meeting at 7:30 Thursday night in Pomona.

The music department will present the program in the school gym. Christmas music of 200 years will be featured.

Jo Bugley, POMONA COUNCIL PTA president, will head the council delegation to attend the executive board meeting and Christmas luncheon of First District, California PTA Thursday at the Hungry Tiger Restaurant in West Covina.

Others representing the Pomona council will be Shirley Abrams, Rose Yezek, Velda Miller, Christine Brodersen, Valerie Espeseth and Judy Riggs. Vera Mae Gephart of La Verne, first vice president of the state PTA, is chairman of the planning committee for the annual holiday luncheon meeting.

PTA representatives in the first district will present Christmas gifts to juveniles from Los Angeles County Probation Department special facilities. Joseph New, director of Camp Afflerbaugh in La Verne, will accept the gifts for boys at Camp Afflerbaugh, Camp Glenn Rocky in San Dimas and Camp Paige in La Verne.

Camp directors and two boys from each camp will also be luncheon guests.

The West Covina High School Chamber Singers, directed by Thomas Kessler, will provide musical entertainment. Each council president will give reports on outstanding projects, special committees and resumes from chairmen and officers, who have represented the district at outside meetings.

Santa due in Montclair

Santa Claus will make his yearly visit to the Montclair Civic Center at 7 tonight.

The program is jointly sponsored by the city and the Montclair Chamber of Commerce.

The Montclair High School Chamber Singers, directed by Harold Barger, will provide music at 6:30 p.m. until Santa arrives.

The singers include James Arlow, Celeste Fondario, Doug Gibbs, Don Gonzalez, Sammy Gonzalez, Fernando Gonzales, Kristi Helm, Sandy Helm, Deann Howard, Lori Knickerbocker, Julie Lyda, Vanessa Maire, Debbie Mhoon, Dan Neuenschwander, William Owen, Jim Owens, Max Villeda and Leann Ruff.

Alligator issue is raised in Claremont

The Claremont City Council Tuesday night ordered that an investigation be made in cooperation with the Humane Society of Pomona Valley of the "wildlife" animals being kept at 184 Brown Drive.

The request for the investigation came from the humane society's executive director, Bruce Richards, who said he understood that Mrs. Jackie Jacobsen has several adult American alligators, a few monkeys, and possibly other species of animals.

Mrs. Jacobsen, Richards said, is making a study of the alligators in captivity and had received a grant to continue her research.

Noting that alligators are not covered under the present wildlife animal code, Richards asked the City Council to make a ruling on the special case so "I may know how to handle it when someone else wants to care for a certain specie of animal not covered under the code, but want to keep it for a study project."

Richards asked that the city animal ordinance be amended to specify whether a $10 permit covers all wildlife animals at a single residence or just one.

City Code Enforcement Officer Gary W. Richards recommended that a $10 permit be issued for each permitted wild animal, excepting pigeons, which would require only one permit for all.

City Planning Director Don King noted that the city's animal ordinance allows alligators up to 30 inches, but that the alligators at the Jacobsen residence are adult size.

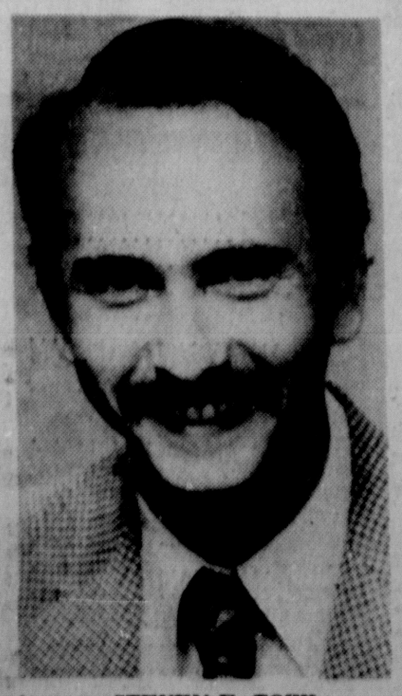
Mayor Pro Tem Claire McDonald asked if Mrs. Jacobsen couldn't have a variance to keep the animals.

"Not everybody wants to study alligators," she said. "That is a landmark. Let's amend the ordinance."

Councilman Frank Hungerford said that once an inspection is made, the city must act quickly.

Health advisory unit elects chairman

Group aims to improve, expand services in valley



STEVEN E. TOTH

Steve E. Toth, human resources coordinator for Pomona Valley Mental Health Center, has been elected chairman of the newly organized District Advisory Council of the Pomona Health Services District of Los Angeles County Health Department.

Other officers named are Nelson Lortie of Pomona, vice chairman, and Sharon Vidaure, secretary-treasurer.

The council is seeking new members to complete its board which, according to its bylaws, can have 24 members representing the various communities served and health interests in the district which extends from Rowland Heights to the San Bernardino County line.

Goals of the council include extending community involvement and client participating in the development of health programs; to review, guide and evaluate ongoing health planning and operating activities in the community; and to relate to such agencies, organizations and governmental units when considered useful to promote the needs of local health services.

Although the council has been established only a short time, it has already presented two resolutions to health officials in the county which have been praised for their awareness of community needs, Toth said.

The first resolution concerns the establishment of the Health Systems Agency for Los Angeles County as required under the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974. The advisory council recommends that the Health Systems Agency for the county be established as a free-standing, community-involved effort meeting all the requirements of the new law, PL 93-641.

The second resolution urges the development of county health services to meet the local community needs in the Pomona health district area.

The council seeks to develop effective round-the-clock emergency health care in the local community, regardless of the ability of a person to pay. Toth said this is not to be confused with life-threatening emergency care, which is available. Instead, this would be medical care not available to many people in the community when the Pomona Health Center is closed.

The council also hopes to develop the better local utilization of already existing medical specialty care, such as dental, opthalmology, orthopedics and dematology either by contracts or other programs.

The development of a Pomona Comprehensive Ambulatory Care Center no later that January 1977 is also urged by the council in its resolution. The council requests that these services be open to the public no later than January 1981.

Toth added that the advisory council believes that a new approach in the allocation of country resources is needed to stress local community services as prime priority and the expansion of centralized specialty centers, such as the County-USC Medical Center, as secondary.

"We feel that medical facilities should be brought to the patients, whenever reasonable, instead of taking patients into a central, often distant, medical facility," Toth said.

Persons interested in working with the new advisory council are invited to contact Toth at 623-6131, or Dr. Annabel Teberg, district health officer, at the Pomona Health District Office, 623-6811.

Court to rule on Pomona union conflict

A ruling is expected today in Superior Court in Los Angeles on what organizations will be listed on a ballot for possible unionization of Pomona's miscellaneous city employes.

The matter was taken to court when the leaders of the employe group protested the city's inclusion of the present employe organization, Pomona City Employes Association (PCEA), on the ballot.

According to association spokesmen, the PCEA board of directors has decided that PCEA should not be on the ballot, preferring instead that the ballot list only the Service Employes International Union (SEIU) Local 660, AFL-CIO.

The city claims, however, that since the current salary agreement is with PCEA, it should be listed until the full membership decides by vote that they no longer wish to be represented by that organization.

Today's ruling will be subjected to appeal.

Once the ballot is approved by both sides, a secret ballot election will be held to determine if employes join the union.

Affidavits ordered in information leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Staff members of the Senate intelligence committee have been ordered to swear in affidavits that they were not the source for news stories linking President John F. Kennedy, a female friend and organized crime, committee sources say.

The sources say staff members were asked to reaffirm their loyalty oaths and that senators on the panel also were asked to sign affidavits saying they had not leaked information from committee files.

A committee spokesman denied reports that staff members have been asked to take lie detector tests as part of an effort to identify the source of the apparent leak. He refused to comment on what other steps may have been taken.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, was not immediately available for comment but was said by friends to have been "mad as hell" about the news stories last month which represent the first major leak in the committee's 10-month history.

Vice Chairman John Tower, R-Tex., refused to comment when asked whether lie detector tests have been ordered, saying the matter is "internal committee business."

The news stories stated that while in the White House, Kennedy received 70 or 80 telephone calls from a California woman who had served as a volunteer in his 1960 campaign. The number of calls was tabulated from Kennedy's office records, the report said.

The articles identified the woman as Judith Campbell and said some of her calls were made from the Oak Park, Ill., home of Chicago crime boss Sam "Momo" Giancana. The articles called her a friend of California gambling figure John Rosselli, a Giancana associate.

And they said her association with Kennedy in the early 1960s coincided with the period when Giancana and Rosselli were assisting the CIA with plots to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

The Kennedy-Campbell situation was detailed in the Senate panel's Nov. 20 report on official U.S. government involvement in plots to assassinate foreign leaders. However, the report referred to the woman only as "Kennedy's friend" and did not identify her by name or sex.

The episode was included in a section of the report entitled, "Did President Kennedy learn anything about assassination plots as a result of the FBI investigation of Giancana and Rosselli?"

The report concluded it was impossible to say for sure whether Kennedy knew of the plots against Castro but that he could have.

The news accounts were published last month by the Washington Post and the Scripps-Howard newspapers before the committee's report was released. The articles were attributed to the committee's staff logs and to sources on the staff.

The committee's published report states that the dual relationship between "Kennedy's friend" and the president and between the friend and organized crime figures came to the attention of the FBI and Director J. Edgar Hoover through the FBI investigation of Rosselli.

One published account says the FBI may have stumbled on the situation because of a tap on Giancana's home telephone.

Giancana's testimony on the matter was not available to the committee because he was murdered in his home last June 19, shortly before he was to appear before the panel. His murder is unsolved.

The committee report says that on Feb. 27, 1962, Hoover laid out the bureau's information about "Kennedy's friend" and Giancana in identical memos to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the president's brother, and to Kenneth O'Donnell, a special assistant to the president and his close personal friend.

The committee report notes that FBI files on Giancana contained information at the time showing his connection with the CIA. The report says that could have led a reader to conclude that Castro's murder was being planned.

The intelligence committee now is taking testimony on proposals to establish more control over FBI and CIA activities.

Tuesday, William Ruckelshaus, former deputy attorney general and acting FBI director, said Congress and the executive branch had allowed too much unchecked power to accumulate in Hoover's hands.

Ruckelshaus endorsed creation of a special congressional committee to keep the FBI under tight rein and said future directors should be limited to one term of no more than eight or nine years.

Wife of dissident Russ Nobel Peace Prize winner subs

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Andrei Sakharov's wife accepted the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize for her husband today and read a message from him saying he shared the honor with "all prisoners of conscience in the Soviet Union and in other Eastern European countries as well as with all those who fight for their liberation."

King Olav and other members of the Norwegian royal family watched as Yelena Sakharov received the prize check, gold medal and diploma from Aase Lionaes, the chairwoman of the Norwegian parliamentary committee which nominated the Soviet nuclear physicist for his fight for human rights in the Soviet Union.

Later today, at companion 75th anniversary ceremonies in Stockholm, Sweden the other five 1975 Nobel Prizes were to be presented to 10 scientists and Italian poet Eugenio Montale, the winner of the Prize for Literature. Special guests there were 70 previous laureates, including 30 Americans, and all of last year's science prizewinners.

Sakharov, the first Russian to win the Peace Prize, was unable to receive it in person because the Soviet government refused to let him leave the country. His wife was able to attend because she was in Italy for medical treatment.

The statement she read was in addition to her 54-year-old husband's Nobel address, which she will read for him at another ceremony Thursday night.

"For all those who went through the experience of the most terrible war in history, World War II," Sakharov's statement said, "the conception of war as the worst catastrophe and evil for all mankind has become not only an abstract idea but a deep personal feeling, the basis for one's entire outlook on the world. To keep one's self respect one must therefore act in accordance with the general human longing for peace, for true detente, for genuine disarmament."

Looks like House will drop Kissinger contempt action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appears ready to drop consideration of a contempt of Congress citation against Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for refusing to turn over classified information about covert U.S. action abroad.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, chairman of the House intelligence committee, which subpoenaed the secret documents, said today "I really believe" a compromise can be reached that will end the contempt action.

His comments on the CBS-TV "Morning News" followed a White House briefing Tuesday for a committee delegation on 19 State Department requests for covert operations dating back to 1961. The committee had subpoenaed information about the requests, but Kissinger refused to provide it, saying he was acting under White House orders.

Pike said if the delegation reports the briefing represented a satisfactory compromise, "obviously that ends the matter."

The New York Democrat said he had not talked with any members who attended the briefing. But two delegation members said the White House provided full details of the State Department requests for covert operations, including two that were rejected.

The two members also said they were confident the delegation would recommend that the contempt action against Kissinger should be dropped.

"It looks fine," said Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis. "Everybody went away happy. Every point that was raised was accommodated."

23 cents to mail letter by 1980?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said today the cost of mailing a letter could go up to 23 cents by 1980.

Asked at a congressional hearing about projections that the letter rate could go up to 15 to 17 cents by 1977 and 23 cents by 1980, Bailar said:

"If all the present circumstances continue, including the rate of inflation, that could happen."

He told a House Post Office subcommittee that use of the mail is dropping in all categories, especially parcel post, and further declines are expected.

The first-class letter rate, now 10 cents, is scheduled to go up to 13 cents Dec. 28.

Bailar has taken moves recently to cut costs without reducing service. He also is considering reductions in services, including eliminating Saturday deliveries.

The postmaster general said he would move to eliminate Saturday deliveries "only with great reluctance. I would much prefer not to do it."

Secret witness points finger in Hoffa case

DETROIT (AP) — A secret government witness has identified one of three New Jersey Teamsters who appeared in a police lineup in connection with the disappearance of James R. Hoffa, says a source close to the investigation.

The trio — Salvatore Briguglio, his brother Gabriel Briguglio and Thomas Andretta — were named by an informant in federal grand jury testimony as the alleged abductors and killers of the former Teamsters president, according to federal investigators.

The lineup Saturday was to see if another person the government says actually witnessed the abduction of Hoffa could corroborate the informant's story.

Official sources have refused to reveal the outcome of the lineup but a nonlaw enforcement source familiar with the Teamsters Union told The Associated Press that "the word for the past 24 hours has been that the witness identified one of the three."

The source did not say which of the three had been identified, nor did he say whether the other witness who provided the trio's names had viewed the lineup or identified any of the three.

Meanwhile, William Bufalino, lawyer for the three New Jersey Teamsters, was admitted to St. Johns Hospital in Detroit on Tuesday and placed in the cardiac care unit.

Last Saturday after the New Jersey Teamsters had entered the Oakland County jail in Pontiac, Mich., for the lineup, Bufalino said he and his son were punched and beaten by FBI agents in a scuffle over videotape equipment Bufalino wanted to take into the lineup room.

During the scuffle, Briguglio and the two lawyers were arrested.

Lebanese troops intervene

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese army troops, in their first major intervention in the eight-month-old civil war, captured much of Beirut's seaside hotel district from leftist Moslem militiamen during the night. But they failed to dislodge them from the plush St. Georges Hotel.

The Moslems charged the government troops had been sent in to rescue the Christians.

Moslem militia chieftain Ibrahim Kuleilat vowed to keep his "Ambusher" gunmen inside the St. Georges despite army attempts to root them out.

Right-wing Christian militiamen stayed put in the 25-story Holiday Inn along with army troops who had moved in under leftist fire Tuesday night.

At least 850 army commandos with heavy weapons, tanks and armored personnel carriers moved into the hotel area and the city's commercial center. At first they wedged between the battling Moslem and Christian militias, then pushed them out of key positions in sharp fighting.

The troops took control of the Phoenicia Intercontinental and the approaches to the St. Georges, security spokesmen said. They also joined gunmen of the Christian Phalange party in the unfinished Hilton Hotel and the battered Starco office center.

The seaside combat set fire to the St. Georges, gutting much of its once plush interior. The fire was largely extinguished, apparently by gunmen inside, but was still smoldering late in the afternoon.

Kuleilat charged army troops set the fire deliberately "to massacre our forces inside. But it didn't happen."

Spotlight on crime

Brother and sister, Taco stand robbed

Two robberies were committed Tuesday night in Pomona.

Mary Elizabeth Roach, 19, and her brother, Thomas, 17, were locking the door to the Likkor Lokker at 3440 Falcon St. at the close of business when a man approached them and threatened them with a knife with a 5-inch blade.

The robber forced the two back inside the store where they surrendered a money bag before they were forced to lie on the floor. The robber then fled.

He was a Caucasian 18 to 21 years old, 5 feet 11 weighing 150 pounds. He had medium build, brown hair and wore a heavy, blue ski jacket and hood and blue jeans.

Earlier, at the Mr. Taco shop at 1925 W. Holt Ave., three young men ordered food and then one warned employe Rosa Marie Castaneda, 18 "Stand back or I'll shoot." She stood back and a man reached inside the shop and took money from the cash register before all three fled. The victim did not see a weapon during the incident.

The robber was described as a Negro about 18, 6 feet tall weighing 160 pounds. He had his hair parted in the middle and wore a white T-shirt, mustard-colored windbreaker and dark trousers. One of his companions wore a blue beanie.

West End Sheriff's deputies have released Manuel Contreras, 21, of Pomona from the West End jail without charge after he was arrested Saturday night for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

Contreras, was incorrectly identified as Manuel Gonzales, in a Progress Bulletin news story about the incident Monday.

Deputies said today that Contreras was arrested after he and a group of other men pursued a group of youths who allegedly had attacked them at a party in front of 11173 Greenwood Way in Ontario Saturday night. One of the youths, according to deputies, stabbed Contreras, Paul C. Gonzales, 25; Phillip C. Gonzales, 26; and Daniel Contreras, 20.

During the pursuit deputies said a shot was allegedly fired from a car driven by Contreras. Contreras car crashed during the pursuit and the men in the vehicle fled. Contreras stayed behind to talk to deputies.

Robert M. Narez of 1329 S. Sultana Ave., ONTARIO, reported to police that a burglar ransacked his home Tuesday night while he was in Los Angeles and took guns, cash, jewelry and credit cards with a total value of $1,094.

Police said the burglar entered the home by first cutting a kitchen window screen and prying open the window. Narez's bedroom was ransacked with the mattress of bed being thrown on the floor and all the dresser drawers opened.

A man armed with a revolver and wearing a blue motorcycle jacket robbed the Stop and Go Market at Sixth Street and Grove Avenue in ONTARIO of a small amount of cash early today, police reported.

Store clerk Jose Guerrero said the gunman walked into the store about 1:30 a.m. and ordered him to hand over the cash from the register.

Guerrero described the gunman as a Caucasian in his early 20's, 5 feet 11, 175 pounds, with long dark hair almost to his shoulders and a full mustache without a beard. He was wearing a blue jacket with the name "Harley-Davidson" and silver wings on the back. He was also wearing a blue "T" shirt.

Result of Britain's doctors' dispute

Baby dies after hospital refuses admittance

LONDON (AP)—A five-month-old baby girl died Tuesday night after two west London hospitals refused to admit her because of a work slowdown by Britain's hospital doctors.

The baby was pronounced dead on arrival when she finally reached a third hospital 10 miles away.

As an urgent inquiry into the case was opened by health authorities today, the baby's father said:

"I would like to shoot them for what they have done."

The baby, Seema Bhaula, was found lying unconscious in her cot about 7 p.m. Tuesday night by her mother, Christina, 25.

She called an ambulance to her home in West Drayton, a London suburb, and a crew arrived within minutes to take the baby to a hospital.

But controllers had to divert the ambulance twice when the two nearest hospitals reported by telephone that they were closed to emergencies because of the two-week-old doctors' dispute.

The ambulance then had to drive 10 miles on a 20-minute journey to the next nearest hospital which was open. The baby was dead on arrival.

"Doctors are like God," said the baby's father, Harmesh Bhaula, of Indian extraction, who was at work in a food factory when the emergency arose.

"They are supposed to save lives. They shouldn't take their disputes out on human lives," he said. In a factory a dispute involves only money. Money can be replaced, my little baby cannot."

A spokesman for the London ambulance service said they contacted two hospitals within a mile of the Bhaula's home to see if they would treat the child.

"We hoped the hospitals might relent, but they refused," he said.

The hospitals had closed their emergency wards before 5 p.m. because of a lack of doctors, who are working 9 to 5 only in a nationwide pay dispute with the Labor government.

More than half of Britain's 19,000 hopsitals doctors are taking part in the protest which has crippled the socialized National Health Service — NHS.

Added to the health care crisis is a simultaneous slowdown by 5,000 of the country's 11,000 specialists who are fighting the government's plans to phase out private medicine from NHS hospitals.

The Northwest Thames regional health authority which administers the hospitals involved in the baby's death, said it would investigate why the baby was not admitted under an "informal understanding" that life-or-death emergencies would be treated despite the doctors' dispute.

A spokesman for the region's protesting doctors, Dr. Paul Copeland, refused comment on the case without further details.

"We do not know whether or not the baby would have died anyway," he said.

The baby's mother, who has three other daughters at home, criticized the government for not meeting the doctors' demands for a new pay contract.

She said pay raises should go to doctors, instead of the "people who make tea and biscuits."

END OF SEVEN-YEAR CASE — Detectives at Tokyo's Fuchu police station hold heads in hands in meeting with newsmen Tuesday and conceded that the man who stole 300 million yen from a delivery car seven years ago has gotten away with it. Statute of limitations ran out.

Japanese detectives lose yen for case

Gloom as statute of limitations runs out

TOKYO (AP)—In funeral gloom, police investigators sat with lowered heads at midnight Tuesday and conceded that the man who stole 300 million yen — $1 million — from a delivery car exactly seven years ago has gotten away with it.

The statute of limitations ran out, meaning there is virtually no longer any way the robber can be prosecuted on criminal charges.

Workers plastered paper over the signboard of the special headquarters set up for the case as the investigators met for final reports. They spent $3.3 million trying to catch him.

"I feel very sorry for the end of the investigation of this incident," a senior police official told newsmen, "but I want to make our failure this time a lesson for the future."

Police said the only possible way the robber could still face criminal charges is if it could be proved — if he is ever found — that he had been outside Japan for a period during the seven years and that the robber's actual time in Japan since the robbery totaled less than seven years.

The insurance company that covered the loss still can sue the robber for the 300 million yen, plus interest, within 20 years from the date of the crime.

The unsolved robbery, known as "The 300 Million Yen Case," dominated newspaper front pages and special late night television shows, whose commentators brandished stopwatches waiting for midnight.

Among the dozens of citizens interviewed on the television shows, a 26-year-old Tokyo office worker said: "After all, I don't think this guy was an evil man because he did not harm anyone except an insurance company, although I don't call him a man of good will."

On Dec. 10, 1968, a man disguised as a policeman and riding a white motorcycle stopped a car carrying winter bonus money for employes of an electric factory. Warning of a bomb in the car, he lit a smoke candle under it, and the driver and two other occupants ran for cover. The robber drove away in the car.

Police said they mobilized more than 170,000 men for the investigation and checked 117,000 persons. About 27,000 tips from citizens and a number of items left behind by the robber, including the stolen motorcycle and two stolen cars, didn't help.

Commie elected Nazareth mayor

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Arab Communist has been elected mayor of Nazareth, the hillside town were Jesus spent his boyhood.

Israeli government ministers warned that financial aid to Nazareth might be cut if the Communists took over the town council. But 67 per cent of the Arab town's 13,500 voters cast their ballots Tuesday for the Democratic Front headed by Tewfik Zayad, a member of the Israeli parliament from the Rakah Communist party.

The Democratic Front won 11 of the 17 seats on the town council, defeating progovernment candidates.

The campaign issues were housing, sewers and schools for the Galilee town of 38,000. But Israeli leaders fear Zayad may turn Nazareth into a center of Arab nationalism and support for the guerrillas of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The new mayor, a 46-year-old politician, said Nazareth would remain a loyal part of Israel. He said his campaign platform was based on things like new soccer fields, not Israeli-Arab politics.

Zayad said he supports some of the PLO's program, but his aim as mayor is to "turn Nazareth into a modern town, to run the municipal services more efficiently."

Despite $2 million a year in government aid, Nazareth is an underdeveloped town, and some of its streets are muddy donkey tracks unchanged since the time of Christ.

"Jesus lived here for 30 years and Nazareth is world-famous, but we are neglected," said one resident. "There is no bus station here and no public toilets — that's why the people voted for Zayad."

The last elected mayor resigned 20 months ago, and the Israeli government appointed an Arab civil servant to replace him.

Brush fire extinguished

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two helicopters assisted firemen early today to put out a brush fire which blackened five acres on the site of a proposed golf course in the Santa Monica Mountains, just off the San Diego Freeway.

A Fire Department spokesman said no structures were endangered.

Soviet-backed Angolans seen emerging as civil war victors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet-backed faction in the Angola civil war, outgunning its two rivals both militarily and diplomatically, probably will emerge as the dominant political force in that country, U.S. officials say.

The reported gains by the pro-Moscow Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) come at a time when President Ford is under fire from Chinese leaders as well as several Republicans for not taking a tough enough stand against the Soviets.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said last week the United States "cannot remain indifferent" to Soviet activities in Angola. Some U.S. officials say Kissinger is considering a more forceful way of expressing U.S. indignation over Soviet policy.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the U.N. General Assembly Monday night that Soviet involvement was an "effort to recolonize Africa."

The assembly is debating resolutions on foreign intervention in Angola, and Moynihan urged a condemnation of Soviet involvement.

The official U.S. position is one of complete neutrality in Angola, but it is widely believed that American arms are reaching the two factions arrayed against the MPLA. In addition, there are occasional reports that the United States is involved in covert activity there.

The two anti-Russian factions are the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), which also has the backing of China, and the Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), which also has the backing of South Africa. Both factions recently have lost ground in the face of massive Soviet arms aid to the MPLA and a Cuban expeditionary force which is well trained in the use of Soviet weapons. Some 3,500 to 4,000 Cubans are believed to be assisting the MPLA.

The Soviet objectives in Angola are not clear. Most officials believe Moscow has its eye on the deep water ports at Luanda and Lobito and the dozen or so airfields built by Portugal, the former colonial power in Angola. Access to these facilities would strengthen the Soviet hand militarily in the South Atlantic.

But U.S. officials caution that a MPLA victory would not automatically translate itself into Soviet control of the country. These officials say the Soviets have approached several friendly African regimes over the years about establishing military bases, but only one, Somalia, has gone along.

Qualified sources also believe there will be considerable pressure from the MPLA rank and file to keep the MPLA leadership from permitting Soviet colonialism to become a substitute for Portuguese colonialism.

The MPLA has been advancing in northern sector fighting in recent weeks, and the two non-Communist factions also have been on the defensive diplomatically.

The "paper government" established by the National Front and the UNITA groups has not been recognized by a single foreign country since its formation four weeks ago at the time of the Portuguese departure.

Meanwhile, about 30 countries have recognized the MPLA government set up in Luanda. These include about 12 African countries plus a number of Arab and East European countries.

Most of the arms used by the National Front have been channeled through Zaire, which is strongly anti-Soviet. The South African support for UNITA, with a stronghold in southern Angola, is viewed as a mixed blessing for UNITA.

The South African support — believed to include several hundred advisers — is seen here as militarily crucial to UNITA but as diplomatically disastrous.

The Organization of African Unity has called for the formation of a coalition government in Angola, a recommendation flatly rejected by the MPLA. U.S. officials report that MPLA sympathizers in the OAU are lobbying for an emergency OAU session on the Angola issue and are just a few votes short of the requisite majority required.

U.S. sources say they fear that if the session is called, the pro-MPLA forces could turn the meeting into an anti-South Africa propaganda show and deflect attention from the Soviet quest for influence in Angola.

These sources say that under that scenario, OAU neutrality could be weakend and added African diplomatic support for the MPLA could result, leading to the further demoralization of the non-Communist forces.

SANTA AND HELPER — Russell M. Roberts, the man who roams the halls of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare this time each year dressed as Santa Claus, chats with his wife and new helper Lee Roberts. She volunteered to help her husband in his job of collecting money for the needy this year after he drew criticism for using two miniskirted helpers last year.

Big move for Liberty Bell

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Amidst a parade and tight security, the Liberty Bell, one of America's most famous national symbols, will be moved from Independence Hall to its new home early New Year's Day.

Thousands of persons are expected to attend the ceremony, the first time since 1919 the bell will have been out of Independence Hall.

Elaborate plans for the ceremony were announced Monday, even though the 2,080-pound bell will only be moving across the street to a new building designed to accommodate the millions of persons who want to see it during the nation's Bicentennial.

The half-hour ceremony will begin one minute before midnight on New Year's Eve and will include a U.S. Army escort and a fireworks show.

Hobart Gawood, superintendent of Independence National Historial Park, said security measures will be taken, although he didn't say just exactly what will be done to protect the bell.

"Our biggest concern is to be sure we treat it gently and don't damage the crack," said Cawood.

The bell will be sheathed in plastic and secured in a bed of cement to keep the famous crack from spreading.

Cawood estimated as many as 14 million persons may visit the bell next year, far more than the 1.5 million expected to tour Independence Hall this year.

Santa ran afoul of libbers, but he's back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Santa Claus who incurred the wrath of womens libbers last year when he put two mini-skirted volunteers to work collecting money for the poor is back at his post.

But this time, he's accompanied by Mrs. Claus, clad in a floor-length ensemble.

"I volunteered," said Lee Roberts. "I knew Santa had had trouble last year." With a wink, she asked to be addressed as "Ms."

The Santa roaming the halls of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is her husband, Russell M. Roberts. He said he was instructed by a high-level official to "avoid controversy at all costs" this year. That means the two attractive young HEW employes who helped him gather donations last year will not be back.

Roberts, for the eighth straight year, is taking a 2½-week vacation from his job as HEW's freedom of information officer to collect donations of money, clothing and food from fellow employes for the capital city's poor.

Mrs. Claus, he said, will help when she can.

"She's got a house and family to take care of and shopping to do," said Santa, who relies on natural padding to fill out his red suit.

"Last year's controversy wasn't worth it. I spent much of my time justifying myself and the publicity probably made the difference of only $100 or $200."

Roberts said he had asked HEW's professional female employes who raised the roof over the miniskirted helpers last year to pitch in on this year's effort as a demonstration that there are no lingering hard feelings.

"I don't have any commitment from them," he said.

Last year Roberts was accused of "sexploitation" for accepting the services of the two young volunteers, who chose their own costumes of short red suits with white trim and matching red leotards.

The controversy erupted at a meeting between professional female employes and other HEW workers. The female employes accused Roberts of "using scantily clad women to entice men to contribute." The other side said the outraged women were just being jealous.

Drug addicts blamed for burglaries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than $40 million was stolen in burglaries in Los Angeles in 1974, and Dist. Atty. John K. Van de Kamp says much of this can be prevented by taking drug addicts off the streets.

In a report Thursday to he Board of Supervisors, the district attorney said more than 70 per cent of the burglaries were at residences and slightly less than $3 million was eventually recovered.

"A significant number of burglaries are committed by narcotics addicts," Van de Kamp wrote in his report. "Greater effort can and should be expanded to remove drug addicts from the street."

Van de Kamp urged the supervisors to reinstitute a civil commitment program for addicts that was discontinued in 1972. While such a program is expensive the district attorney wrote, the cost to the community of drug-related offenses is probably much more.

A DOG'S BEST FRIEND — Bob Franks plays with dog in his back yard, which is also the base for his newly-formed Society of St. Francis. Franks, a former bill collector, is dedicated to reuniting lost dogs with their owners.

Dog sleuth's hot line reunites pets, owners

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — Using his talent as a former bill collector, Bob Franks has become a dog sleuth dedicated to reuniting lost dogs with their owners.

"I incorporated in August as the Society of St. Francis, placed ads in newspapers with a dog-lost hotline number and so far have returned 84 dogs to their owners," said 41-year-old Franks, once collection manager of a Chicago bank.

Franks says his work as a dog detective stems from his love of the animals and the emotional satisfaction of saving strays from being put to sleep.

"My parents would never let me have a dog in my childhood and I guess I was determined to have as many as I wanted when I grew up," he says.

As for his corporation named after the saint of animals, Franks said, "I'm using my savings — which should last about a year — to run the operation. No donations are solicited, but sometimes they are sent in.

"In October and November, my phone bills were $390 and donations were only $110," said Franks, who has 11 unwanted old strays of his own at his home in Mount Prospect, a suburb northwest of Chicago. "My goal is to establish a national membership in the Society of St. Francis and get it on a break-even footing."

Franks' hot-line callers are those who have lost their dogs and those who have found lost dogs. Sometimes he is lucky in matching the dogs lost with those found.

"But mainly my service is telling people where to look — the dog pound, the Anti-Cruelty Society, Animal Welfare and various suburban shelters," said Franks, a director of the Illinois State Federation of Humane Societies. "You'd be surprised how many people haven't the slightest idea of how to go about finding a lost dog."

Franks said a man called with a description of his 130-pound German Shepherd missing 1½ months. Several days later a woman called that she had found a tagless dog that was skin and bones.

"I went to her house. It was a half-starved German Shepherd weighing about 65 pounds. But it turned out to be the missing one," said Franks.

"Another lost dog had a rabies tag from Miami. I called a vet down there, but the address he gave me was no good. I went through some Chicago area phone directories. In one I found a similar last name that was on the tag but a different first name. It turned out to be the name of a couple taking care of the dog for their son who was in college in Florida."

The U.S. Mint

The Bureau of the Mint manufactures all U.S. coins and distributes them through the Federal Reserve banks and branches. The Mint also maintains physical custody of the Treasury's monetary stocks of gold and silver and refines and processes silver bullion. The Mint also, for a fee and as scheduling permits, manufactures coins for foreign governments.

Late-night flights to be banned

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Port Commission says it will enforce its curfew against late-night jet flights at Lindbergh Field, without the help of the Federal Aviation Administration.

The FAA notified the commission Monday that its air traffic controllers will make no mention of the curfew to incoming pilots.

But port director Don Nay said the late-night ban enacted last week has its own built-in enforcement clause: any airline which violates it may have its landing permit at Lindbergh suspended or revoked.

Over the objections of the FAA and the airlines as well, the port commission set up a ban on all jet takeoffs from Lindbergh from midnight to 6 a.m. And only jets meeting federal noise level regulations would be allowed to land at those hours.

The FAA said it is "reviewing the impact of night operations restrictions at Lindbergh Field."

The curfew takes effect Jan. 5.

Bypass surgery ups heart disease survival

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The survival chances of persons with severe coronary artery disease rose dramatically after artery bypass surgery as compared to those treated without surgery, a new study shows.

The report, released Monday, showed a 98 per cent survival rate for 149 patients treated by coronary artery bypass surgery between November 1971 and October 1974 at Veterans Administration Hospital. The rate was the same for those studied after one, two and three years.

Dr. Daniel J. Ullyot, head of the study, said that in a comparison group of 47 patients treated without surgery the survival rate was 89 per cent after one year, 77 per cent after two and down to 68 per cent after three.

"Coronary artery disease is the leading cause of death in this country," said Ullyot. "The significance of these findings is that the basis for offering coronary bypass surgery, the relief of chest pain, can improve the quality of life, but in certain subgroups of patients it will not only improve the quality of life, but can prolong life."

Coronary artery bypass surgery, a technique developed seven years ago, consists of taking veins from the patient's own legs and grafting them to bypass the diseased heart vessels in order to improve blood supply to the heart.

Medical treatment involves use of nitroglycerine to relieve pain and monitoring a patient's diet and lifestyle.

"At the moment there is no medical therapy that will prolong life," said Dr. Edward Gertz, a member of the bypass team. "It doesn't change the prognosis associated with the disease."

Gertz said some hospitals prefer medical to surgical treatment of coronary artery disease patients because of a poor overall operative mortality rate, whereas this rate is exceptionally low at Veterans Hospital.

The average age of the surgical patients studied was 52. Of these, 54 per cent had extensive coronary artery disease.

Uhuru, harambee...watchwords of church parley

By G. MERRILL LENOX

(Editor's Note: Dr. Lenox, former executive director of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, is Progress Bulletin press representative at the Fifth Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Nairobi.)

NAIROBI — "Uhuru" (freedom) is a word frequently on the tongues of the people of Kenya and indeed is often heard at this Assembly.

Uhuru is the name of the spacious and beautiful park in which a spectacular, outdoor Sunday morning worship celebration was held and is the name of the boulevard on which the park is located.

"Harambee" (Let's pull together) is another popular word. A Harambee Rally is being held to lay the cornerstone of a new headquarters building for the All Africa Conference of Churches.

The 85-year-old President of Kenya, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, is scheduled to be the chief participant in the ceremonies. The office complex is expected to be an impressive symbol of Christian unity in this important East African country.

An estimated 3,500 persons attended the Uhuru Park celebration. Most of them, including many family groups, sat on the ground on the terraced hillside opposite the large platform which accommodated the speaker, the brightly garbed singers and the band. The allurement of this service was enhanced by the clear view the worshippers enjoyed of the remarkable skyline of this city.

The crowds were orderly and reverent as they listened to an eloquent sermon by Bishop Festo Kivengere from neighboring Uganda who spoke in Swahili. Matching his oratorical flourishes and expansive gesticulation was his interpreter who translated the discourse, sentence by sentence, into English. It was a fast moving, exciting sermon which emphasized the freedom which the Christian faith assures — freedom from the bondage of sin for the individual and freedom from the bondage of oppression for races, classes and nations.

In previous releases, we have referred to the concern for women's rights expressed many times and in many ways at this conclave. One entire morning session was devoted to series of powerful addresses by renowned leaders.

They were Julia Ojiambo, Kenya's assistant minister for social services; Dr. Prakai Nontawasee, principal of the Theologial Academy of Thailand; Justice Annie Jiagge of the Appeals Court of Ghana; Dr. Una Kroll, prominent London physician and feminist leader; Mrs. Dorothy McMahon, head of the Australian organization "Another Mother for Peace"; and Miss Teny Simonian, a staff leader from the Middle East Council of Churches.

All appealed for a recognition of the rights of women in all the relationships of life.

Interestingly enough, it was brought out clearly that women of the Third World were more interested in joining with others in a struggle for human rights in general in their countries where oppression was so widespread rather than, as is the case in the developed countries, battling for their own particular rights as women.

At the close of the first week of deliberations, the themes that seem to be emerging as holding major interest for the delegates are evangelism, liberation and Christian unity. In the discussion on evangelism, there is a disposition to harmonize the viewpoints of those who emphasize personal salvation and those who highlight the need for the application of Christian teaching to all the areas of human life and society. The tension still exists but there is a willingness by each side to listen to the viewpoint of the other.

Less explicit has been the emphasis on Christian unity. This is probably because the theme of unity is implicit in all that transpires here at Nairobi. After all this is a gathering of 286 denominations (including the 15 just received into membership) and thus the desire to manifest the spirit of unity assumed by all.

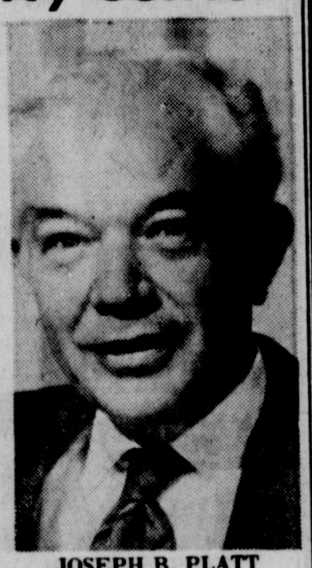
Platt named chief of university center

Joseph B. Platt was named president of Claremont University Center, central coordinating institution of the six Claremont Colleges, at a recent special meeting of the Board of Fellows.



JOSEPH B. PLATT

The appointment becomes effective during the next academic year, according to board chairman Thornton F. Bradshaw.

Platt, founding president of Harvey Mudd College, accepted the appointment with the understanding that certain conditions be met. These include that a new constitution which has been under consideration for some time be approved; that the reorganization plan of the six colleges, also under study, be implemented; and that the group's on-going program on "common planning toward common goals" be strengthened.

Claremont University Center is the central planning and coordinating institution of the Claremont Colleges which includes Pomona, Scripps, Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd and Pitzer colleges, and under the new organization will be responsible for the development, maintenance and conduct of the Claremont Graduate School.

It holds title to central facilities which serve the colleges, take the initiative in development of additional shared facilities, promotes intercollegiate cooperation and is responsible for the founding of new colleges in Claremont.

Recycle drive nets $32—and $50 bonus

The Upland and Cucamonga branches of the West End Boys' Club were paid $31.95 by Foothill Beverage Co. for 4,686 aluminum cans which members and their families collected and turned in for recycling.

In addition, the local Budweiser distributor donated $50 to the Boys' Club general fund.

Supported in part by the United Way, the Boys' Club is affiliated with Boys' Club of America, a nationwide effort to help boys stay out of trouble and work constructively in the community.

Terry Conner, environmental division manager of Foothill Beverage Co., said the firm's aluminum can recycling program has paid the public more than $50,000 in the past year.

Conner said the company will provide anti-litter and aluminum can recycling education programs to clubs and organizations interested in helping to keep the environment clean.

McVittie calls coastal plan next big issue...Udall backers speak

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., told a joint meeting of the Chino Rotary and Kiwanis clubs that consideration of the mammoth California Coastal Plan will be a major challenge facing the 1976 legislature.

"The coastal plan is probably the most comprehensive land use proposal ever made to a state legislature," he declared.

McVittie said the coastal plan, drafted pursuant to the public mandate of Proposition 20 in 1972, has reached the crucial stage of legislative consideration necessary to give it the force of law.

The statewide Coastal Commission and six regional commissions have spent three years drafting the 300-page coastal preservation plan. It is now up to the legislature to review its comprehensive recommendations.

"The task will not be an easy one. I envision a collision of values and rights, both political and economic, as the legislature weighs environmental and aesthetic values against hard economic realities," he concluded.

Six members of the California Democratic congressional delegation have endorsed the presidential candidacy of REP. MORRIS K. UDALL, D-Ariz.

They are Rep. George Brown Jr., Colton, Rep. Don Edwards, San Jose, Rep. Thomas Rees, Los Angeles, Rep. Robert Leggett, Vallejo, Rep. Fortney Stark, Oakland, and Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, San Diego.

"The six California members represent the key parts of the state and I hope to build my organization with their advice and help," said Udall.

Udall, who has served 14 years in the House of Representatives, said he was urged to seek the presidential nomination in 1974 when 45 of his House colleagues signed a petition backing his effort.

His brother, Stewart, former secretary of interior, serves as his campaign manager.

ROBERT H. FINCH, seeking the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate, has been joined in his campaign by his daughter and son-in-law.

Maureen Shaw, oldest of the four Finch children, will act as coordinator of volunteers in the Los Angeles area. Her husband, John, will be the campaign manager.

"With the addition of Maureen and John, the whole Finch family is now involved," said Finch.

Valleyites to perform in mission Posadas

When the annual Las Posadas ceremony is held Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the San Gabriel Mission, San Gabriel, several people from this area will be in the cast.

The event depicts the search for shelter by Joseph and Mary. The annual observance is a tradition begun in the early Spanish and Mexican periods of California.

Mrs. Donald Carpenter of San Dimas will portray the madrina (godmother).

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse B. Fages of Pomona and Mr. and Mrs. William Asendorf of Walnut will be among hosts at locations where the Holy Family will ask for shelter. Both couples represnet Los Compadrinos de San Gabriel, an organization dedicated to preservation of traditions of the mission.

The Asendorfs will be hosts at the mission doors. Mrs. Carpenter, as the madrina, will place the "Christ Child" in the crib in the sanctuary as all join in singing hymns.

The candlelight procession of Las Posadas will form at 6:30 p.m. on the grounds of San Gabriel Mission High School, Santa Anita Avenue and Broadway. The public is invited to participate and will be furnished with candles.

Following the procession, a pinata party will be held for children and chocolate and pan dulces (Mexican pastries) will be served adults. There is no charge.

Only about 50 to 60 California condors can still be found in the Southern Sierra Nevada and coast range.

Cal Poly expanding education for adults

Cal Poly Pomona is expanding its continuing education program this winter to meet the needs of people in the valley who want to pursue their education without formally registering in a degree program at the university.

According to Harold D. Crouse, dean of continuing education, Cal Poly will offer 2,464 classes of study in the winter quarter which starts Jan. 5.

While these courses are designed primarily for the student aiming for a degree, many are open on a "space available" basis to students who, for one reason or another, do not wish to formally register at Cal Poly.

To further help the general public in finding a class to suit their interests, the university now provides a "Course Seeker" service from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A "Course Seeker" answers a special phone number, 598-4988. The prospective student merely identifies the area or areas in which he is interested and the time most convenient to attend classes, either day or evening, Crouse said.

The resource person on the campus will search through the class schedule to match interests and hours and return the potential student's call.

Even registration has been simplified, Crouse added.

"Long registration lines are avoided. The continuing education student will be asked just to fill in a brief form and pay his fees," said the dean.

To make the continuing education program even more convenient, the department office is being moved to the Cal Poly Library in the center of the campus.

Crouse, who assumed the position of dean of continuing education at Cal Poly in September, previously headed the same department at the University of Wisconsin. There, he built the continuing education program at the college up to 26,000 students.

"The first thing to overcome for the adult student is his fear about the ability to learn and to compete with full-time students," said Crouse.

"Adult learners are purposeful students. They work hard and bring to their classes maturity, judgment and experiences that the 18- to 20-year-old student obviously can not have acquired," Crouse said.

He continued that the adult student who returns to school brings with him an empathy and background which often enriches the class for others.

Counseling is available to the extension student seeking direction and needing guidance in planning a curriculum which interests him.

Crouse pointed out that the continuing education program at a state university has to be self-supporting. Therefore, tuitions are somewhat higher than those of the regular undergraduate student, he said.

In the past, while there has been an increase in adult students Cal Poly has not had the image of an extended education university, Crouse added.

"But we have started a concentrated program to change that. We are actively seeking the housewife who wishes to continue her education, the businessman who needs knowledge in fields other than his major experience and the older person who just wants to keep abreast of current information."

The "Course Seekers" are now available for persons interested in starting classes in January.

Snoopy has a following

Snoopy seems high on the list of favorite cartoon characters of La Puerta Intermediate School students who are displaying their art work during December in the children's department at the Claremont Public Library.

The students directed by Mrs. Carol Harter drew and painted cartoon enlargements, and also completed art forms using first names.

Three movies will be screened Saturday at 11 a.m. during the monthly children's film program at the library.

The movies include "Marx Brothers Mosaic," "Up for the Cup" and "Scissors and the Little Boy."

Children are invited to construct Christmas tree trimmings for the library's Christmas tree Dec. 13 at 3 p.m.

The library will hold its annual Christmas program Dec. 23. Friends of the Claremont Library are sponsoring the appearance of John and Pam Wood known as J. & P. Nightingale in the Children's Department, at 1:30 and 3 p.m. performances.

The couple has performed at Cal Poly Pomona and recently were emcees at the Ahmanson Theater 10th birthday party.

S.D. still opposes secession

San Dimas officials remain opposed to secession from Los Angeles County and refused once again to join the San Gabriel Valley Association of Cities.

Mayor Jim Lough asked that the issue of membership in the association be placed on the City Council agenda this week to reexamine members opinions after some modifications in the position of the most ardent secessionist supporters.

The council unanimously opposed any secession move or establishment of a professionally staffed association of San Gabriel Valley cities on Oct. 13. The opposition was based primarily upon the intended purposes of the association and fees for joining.

Lough reported that the association has adopted more definitive bylaws and set the membership fee at $350 for the first year to defray operational costs. He said the $350 could not realistically apply to costs of a feasibility study on the secession issue because the participating cities could not raise the large amount needed, possibly $750,000, from membership fees only.

The mayor said he was "not strongly for or against San Dimas joining the association," but did feel that the city should have a voice in the matter. He refused to endorse any secession move or expenditures for a feasibility study, but said the city should "maintain a platform to air our views."

Councilman James McLean reiterated his opposition to membership, noting that there was considerable "duplication in the bylaws of this association in other organizations. I really don't see the need for it, except for maybe another meeting a month."

Councilman Ray Miracle, who has attended three of the four meetings of the valley cities, pointed out that the central topic of the discussion was always secession. Although secession supporters say they have modified their position, Miracle remained convinced that the main purpose of the association would remain secession. This secession movement fails to take into consideration the position of contract cities such as San Dimas which depend upon the county for fire and police services, Miracle added.

The "geographical area, political and social considerations are so diverse that a common goal might be impossible," commented Councilman Marvin Ersher. He added that the problem is at the supervisorial level with too few supervisors serving too large an area, and that a "peripheral organization will not solve these problems."

In declining to participate in the new association, the council agreed with McLean that "the invitation will be open to use in the future if we want to join at any time."

Nonteaching staffers will take brunt of Upland budget crunch

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

No teachers will be fired in the Upland Elementary School District to meet a budget squeeze but many district nonteaching employes face layoffs.

Trustees at Tuesday night's meeting discussed how many classified personnel would be fired in the money crunch during a closed door secret session preceding the meeting. But with the audience packed with classified personnel, awaiting a decision, board president William Rugg said action on the matter would be postponed at least until next month.

In other action, trustees:

— Heard Supt. Bill Plaster outline $16,000 in operational cuts not involving personnel.

— Learned pupils are slightly above state average in reading, math and language skills.

— Agreed to authorize Plaster and one trustee to meet with Upland city parks and recreation leaders to finalize a working agreement between schools, the city, Pop Warner Football and soccer league leaders over use and care of school property for sports activities.

Classified employes were prepared for a debate with board members during the session and appeared caught off guard by trustees' action of by-passing the issue. Jack Edmon, regional representative for California School Employes' union, asked board members to consult him before any action is taken against any of the district's 160 non-teaching employes who include custodians, bus drivers, clerks and secretaries.

In a related action, Rick Minnis, president of Upland Teachers Association, said his group will not pursue further wage demands during the 1975-76 school year, but would have a wage and fringe benefit package put together by February to present to the board before the 1976-77 budget is adopted next August. Negotiations with the board should be in July under the new state collective bargaining act for public employes, Minnis said.

Trustees did not say whether some teachers will be let go at the end of the 1975-76 school year in an effort to meet the money crunch — only that none will be let go before June.

Teachers earlier had asked for a 12 per cent pay hike after the board offered a 3.6 raise for 1975-76. During a stormy November board meeting packed with teachers, the board made a final 4 per cent raise offer to which teachers demanded the entire board resign.

That dispute, although not entirely settled, has been moved to the back burner with teacher efforts now aimed at better fringe benefits for the remainder of this year and a concentrated pay raise bargaining effort aimed at the 1976-77 school year.

Voters last month turned down a 30-cent per $100 valuation tax override forcing a cutback in services.

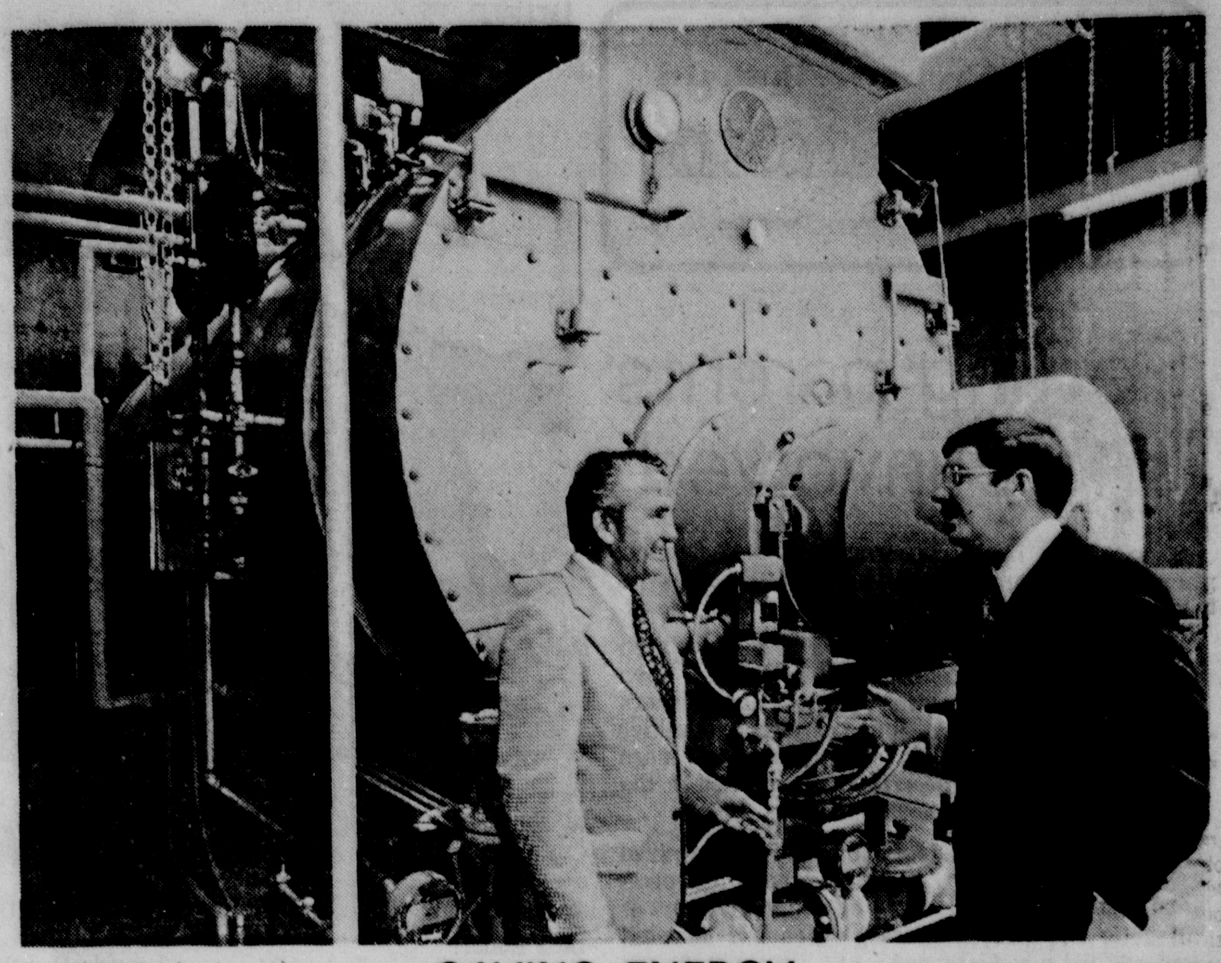
Rugg said he was disappointed that Plaster could come up with only $16,000 in proposed cutbacks so far. These budget cuts include most maintenance items such as repainting schools and reroofing others.

Trustee William Hutson introduced the soccer-football issue to the board, stating the city of Upland' parks and recreation department has no clear cut policy on bearing or sharing costs of independent league play.

School playgrounds where Pop Warner League teams now play are becoming badly worn and parking creates a problem, Hutson said.

Trustees said such costs should at least be shared by the city with schools, and authorized the district to negotiate with the city to define responsibilities and cost burdens.

Results of achievement tests also were presented trustees indicating that although only 10 per cent of the state's districts have a higher socio-economic level than Upland, the district's children rank just above the state average in reading, mathematics and language skills.



SAVING ENERGY

Hospital does a slow burn, curbing energy use 15-18%

Pomona Valley Community Hospital has earned a top award from the Southern California Gas Co. for its outstanding program of significantly reducing its consumption of natural gas and electricity.

Early in 1974, the hospital introduced a concentrated program to reduce its consumption of energy. In one year, the use of electricity dropped 15 per cent and the use of natural gas was cut by more than 18 per cent, or 11 million cubic feet annually.

Robert Burwell, hospital administrator and vice president, said at the Tuesday award ceremony "We felt that reducing our use of energy was a contribution to the community at this time when the nation faces a critical fuel shortage."

These energy savings lowered the hospital's 1974 utility bills by nearly $37,000.

Despite the fact that the hospital has nearly doubled its floorspace with the opening of the new wing this spring, the rise in the use of energy has been minimal, according to the Pat Shea, vice president of Southern California Gas Co.

The energy program at the hospital was formulated by Burwell and R. L. (Pete) Peterson, director of engineering service at PVCH.

Under the program, the hospital engineering staff disconnected unnecessary light fixtures, lowered the temperature setting of most hot water heaters from 140 to 105 degrees and shut off several laundry room exhaust fans at nights and on holidays.

In addition, the staff improved the efficiency of the hospital's burning equipment by adjusting pressure lines and by other modifications.

Pomona Valley Community Hospital is only the second medical facility to receive the Commercial CONCERN (Conserve Energy) Award since the program was initiated in late 1974 by the gas company to recognize governmental, business and other commercial organizations that demonstrate exceptional energy conservation achievements.

In announcing the award, Shea said there have been no new natural gas supplies in Southern California since 1969.

"The only new source of gas we have now is that which is obtained through conservation," Shea said. He added that the hopes for new gas supplies are still in the distant future.

"If we don't conserve energy, then we will end up having to shut off the supply to some consumers by 1979," Shea said. "But if the public conserves energy, we can delay the date until, hopefully, some new supply is obtainable."

Shea pointed out that the restriction of energy supplies in Southern California, if required due to shortages, could affect as many as 750,000 jobs.

The prime object of the program of the gas company is to gather and disseminate information about recent developments in energy saving commercial design, construction and energy.

Candidates for the award are selected and evaluated by an independent panel of experts from commercial design and operating fields.

Mulrooney leaving Virginia city exec job—too candid

Keith Mulrooney, former Claremont city manager and former assistant city administrator for Pomona, has quit his job as city manager at Alexandria, Va., effective Jan. 2.

When Mulrooney left Claremont in November 1974 after eight years as its city manager, he called the new position at Alexandria, a city of 120,000, a great challenge and one that he couldn't pass up.

Alexandria Mayor Charles E. Beatley Jr. reported that he had asked for Mulrooney's resignation "some time ago."

Beatley said that Mulrooney didn t fit in and that the Alexandria City Council didn't fit in with him. It was a mismatch."

All seven seats on the City Council, including the mayor's, are up for re-election in May.

Mulrooney declined to elaborate on his differences with the council, but he said, "I have no regrets in leaving here. I'm glad I came."

In his budget message this year, Mulrooney recommended closing three city schools to save $900,000, a suggestion which raised a furor in the community.

Mulrooney said that he "was encouraged in the belief that what was wanted was a person who would speak out on issues as he saw them."

He said he then realized that candidness was "not what some people wanted."

He really needs help!

This is the kind of book that a reader shouldn't forget.

But a spectator did just that recently when leaving the courtroom of Commissioner Thomas Peterson in Pomona Municipal Court.

The book is entitled "The Memory Book," and was written by former professional basketball player Jerry Lucas.

"We're holding the book for the owner — if he can remember where he left it," said Peterson.

Serranos resident stabbed

A 21-year-old Los Serranos man was listed in critical condition today at San Bernardino County Hospital with stab wounds of the chest and stomach after he was attacked in Los Serranos Tuesday night.

Michael Keith Marich of 15620 Ethel St., staggered to the back door of a home at 15481 Quail Street and asked for help about 10:30 p.m., said deputies. His shirt was covered with blood.

About five minutes after deputies arrived, Juan Ricardo Bush, 29, of La Puente was arrested in a nearby home for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon. Deputies believe that Bush stabbed Marich following an argument, but no weapon was recovered.

Marich suffered three stab wounds, two in his chest and one to the left side of his stomach, said deputies. Marich was rushed to Chino General Hospital where he was given emergency treatment and then transferred to county hospital.

Motorcycle hits 2 pedestrians

Two women pedestrians were seriously injured Tuesday evening when a motorcycle struck them on Foothill Boulevard near Wilson Avenue in Upland, police reported.

Mrs. Josephine Marsicano, 71, of Queens Village, N.Y., was listed in poor condition this morning with multiple injuries in San Antonio Community Hospital. A companion, Anna Louise Mayo, 63, of 1360 Springfield Ave., Upland, was listed in good condition at the Upland Hospital.

Police said the two women were crossing Foothill Boulevard northbound when they were struck by a westbound motorcycle driven by Bruce Keith Martin, 24, of 1102 N. Airport Drive, Upland. Martin was not injured.

Investigation into the accident is continuing.

Auto shop permit sought

The Pomona Planning Commission tonight will be asked to approve a use permit to allow a auto repair shop and brake shop to operate in an abandoned service station at 489 E. Mission Blvd.

Ralph Morrison, the applicant, plans to refurbish the structure. This would include planters, landscaping and a new seal coat of asphalt.

The commission meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Another agenda item includes a request by Harold J. Anderson for a zone change and use permit to expand an existing mobile home park at 1461 W. Mission Blvd.

Mishap ruins trip east

A car accident prevented Pomona attorney Maurice O'Connor from attending the ordination of his nephew into the priesthood in New York City last weekend.

According to reports, O'Connor had just left the New York airport by cab when his taxi was struck by another car. The Pomona lawyer suffered several broken ribs.

The ordination went on as scheduled at St. Patrick's Cathedral while O'Connor was undergoing treatment at a nearby hospital. He is reportedly in good condition.

Demo candidate

Ex-Claremont teacher in 62nd Assembly race

Sandy Baldonado of Covina, former Claremont school teacher, Tuesday announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the 62nd Assembly District a seat now held by William Lancaster, a Covina Republican.

She is the first candidate to announce in the district.

This district serves Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Glendora, Covina and West Covina.

Candidates must file declarations of intent to seek office with county clerks between Feb. 2 and Feb. 11. They have from Feb. 17 to March 12 to circulate petitions to gather required voter signatures and file nomination papers.

Voters must register before May 9 to be eligible to cast ballots in the June 8, 1976 primary elections, and Nov. 2, 1976 general elections.

SANDY BALDONADO

The prime reason for her candidacy, said Mrs. Baldonado, is the Legislature's inability to deal effectively with complex problems of tax reform, educational finance and quality health care.

"Citizens throughout our state are beginning to discover that the legislative branch of our government, despite thousands of new laws enacted each year, has failed to solve the important problems facing us."

Mrs. Baldonado, a leader in League of Women Voters, is past president of the East San Gabriel Valley League and currently is chairing the Los Angeles County League's research project on government.

She has been a League moderator at candidate forums since 1970.

Mrs. Baldonado was legislative assistantt to President Johnson when he was Senate majority leader. She also served two years as legislative analyst with the Senate Public Works Committee.

While in Washington, D.C., she also worked as an economic analyst for the Central Intelligence Agency.

She received a B.X. degree from Smith College in Massachusetts as an ecnomics major. She is a Fulbright Scholar and holds a master of arts degree in education from Claremont Graduate School.

Currently she serves as a director of the Valencia Heights Water Co., participates in the Regional Planning Association of Southern California and the National Women's Political Caucus.

She was a leader of Citizens Against Proposition 1 in 1973.

She is married to West Covina attorney Arthur Baldonado. They have four children, Charlie, 13, Jamie, 12, Andrew, 8, and Liana, 6.

She was born in Shanghai, China in 1935.

Marlo seeks Chino council post

Richard A. Marlo, owner of an automotive repair shop, Tuesday became the third person to declare his candidacy for a seat on the Chino City Council, in the March 2 election.

Marlo, 36, of 5995 Chino Ave., took out nomination papers for the seat being vacated by Edward Lynch.

Others who have declared their candidacies are Pete Grcia, chairman of the Chino Planning Commission, and Russell Folds, a planning commissioner.

Mayor Bob McLeod is the only one to announce his candidacy and take out papers for the mayor's post.

Marlo, a new resident in Chino, says he is concerned about the recent gang violence. "I'd like to see the senseless wars come to an end," he stated. "It has to stop before an innocent person gets hurt. I don't think these kids want to see their buddies or girlfriends dead."

The candidate also would like to see "more emphasis" on youth programs in the community.

Asked why he decided to run, Marlo said he felt he could "do something for the city. I'd like to get involved instead of sitting back and talking about it." He added that this is his first time he has run for any city office.

Marlo operates the D and R Garage in Fullerton. He is married and has a daughter who attends Chino High School.

Getting parents more involved

One of the basic concerns of school districts across the country is how to get parents more involved in the educational process.

Over the years, schools have organized such things as Parent-Teacher Associations, open houses, conferences between parents and teachers and educational fairs to induce parents to consider the school a part of the community and, more importantly, to become directly concerned in the success or failure of their children.

The U.S. Office of Education has also recognized the importance of parent and community involvement and has insisted that it be an integral part of all Title I-funded programs, which are directed towards the disadvantaged.

However, traditional methods of persuasion, such as advertisements, press notices, posters and sending children home with announcements (which don't always get there) have had a minimal impact. The number of parents visiting schools is not large, especially among disadvantaged parents who may not have fond memories of their own schooldays.

The Dallas Public Schools had much the same problem as other school districts in getting parents involved in what was going on in 20 of the city's Title I schools containing some 8,000 pupils.

They initially tried the traditional techniques but found them ineffective. "It then dawned on us to do something on a concentrated basis, not a brain storm but a logical approach," says Janice Arrendale, director of a reading program in the Dallas schools developed by Hoffman Educational Systems of El Monte.

"We didn't want it to be a case of parents coming to see films or hear speakers lecture on how parents should assist their children at home, since we knew these techniques wouldn't work."

Thus the Dallas administrative and teaching staffs decided to reach out into the community instead of expecting the community to come to them. Because the supermarket is a place most parents must visit, the first step was to hold reading laboratories in stores where parents for the first time had the opportunity to see teachers demonstrating how this basic skill was being taught to their children.

Once the schools had attracted the parents' attention through the supermarket demonstrations, they then had to develop ways of getting the parents into the schools where they could participate in workshops and learn games and other activities they could use at home to reinforce achievement in school.

Such inducements included providing a day care center or baby sitting service for the younger children of parents and serving everyone a hot lunch. Parents were given stars for coming to a workshop and at the end of the year the parent with the most stars received a trophy.

This may sound like kid stuff, but apparently it works. Last year more than 400 parents participated in workshops at one time or another. Previously, the schools were lucky if 50 parents came all year.

As one parent, speaking for others, said of a workshop, "We found it so interesting that we wanted to help out and work with our children at home. We have also found that the more involved and interested the parents become, the more interested the kids become in what they are doing in school — and they achieve more."

Since good ideas tend to be imitated, the Dallas approach to parent involvement has spread throughout the state to Austin, Waco, Galveston, Wichita Falls and other cities. It is also being tried in other parts of the country.

"Look what I found!"

A team effort

Dear Editor:

The smoke has now cleared, and the disastrous fires that raged through the Angeles National Forest are fully controlled.

I must take this opportunity to publicly express my appreciation and thanks to all of the agencies that put forth a tremendous team effort to suppress these fires and to minimize the structural damages and threat to life and limb.

The cooperating team included Los Angeles County Fire Department, California Division of Forestry, Los Angeles City Fire Department, Glendale Fire Department, California Office of Emergency Services, Mt. Baldy Volunteer Fire Department and other fire agencies along with the U. S. Forest Service. Local cooperating government agencies include Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, Los Angeles City Police and local police departments and the California Highway Patrol. The list also goes on to include the essential services of the news media, keeping the concerned citizens in this area and across the nation informed.

Equal thanks is due the residents in and near the fires for their cooperation and to the business people supplying needs ranging from food, shelter and transportation to equipment and clothing.

Unfortunately, it is only through experiences such as this that we truly learn the value of these relationships and concerns.

Our cooperative efforts are continuing as we now work together on emergency watershed rehabilitation and flood prevention work.

My sincerest thanks to everyone. We can all be thankful that the crises are past without serious personal injury to anyone and for the bond of humanity which enables us to meet such tests. — William T. Dresser, Forest Supervisor

A bowl re-run

Dear Editor:

I caught Don Bradley's column in Thursday's sports section, and thought further commentary to be in order relative to the up-coming Rose Bowl game.

We all look forward ad nauseum to that non-occupational disease known as TV repeats. The phenomenon is being thrust upon us a bit earlier this season in the form of the Ohio State-U.C.L.A. re-run. The burden of victimdom should be spread around, and the California Bears deserved some of the same action. Furthermore, it would have created infinitely greater potential for the creative Southland sports press. Instead, they will no doubt now have to revert to the dastardly old habit of tossing Nastygrams at Sweet Old Woody.

Meantime, U.C.L.A. Coach Dick Vermeil is toying with Dreamsville, loudly proclaiming that the Bruin defense is "vastly improved"! Speaking of repeats, isn't that what Napoleon said just before Waterloo? — Jim Wilce, Claremont

P.S. After the Buckeye Pasadena romp, stayed tuned for the Orange Bowl where the Wolverines ride heard on the Oklahomas. Michigan Coach "Bo" Schembechler says — "LATER, SOONERS!"

Usurping of boys

Dear Editor:

This letter is to protest the high handed tactics the California Interscholastic Federation (C.I.F.) has used in their usurping of soccer players.

Historically, the American Youth Soccer Organization (A.Y.S.O.) began in 1964-65 and fielded 9 teams in 1 age division. The intervening years have seen phenomenal growth so that for the 1975-76 soccer season A.Y. S.O. fielded 4110 teams in 6 age divisions; these age divisions range from 7 to 18 years, in two year increments.

A.Y.S.O. initially developed the soccer players (and therefore the soccer program) long before the C.I.F. ever fielded a soccer team. Now, after developing a growing and energetic soccer program, the C.I.F. enters the soccer picture and arbitrarily says that if a boy plays C.I.F. soccer, he cannot play any other soccer.

This view (to me) is ridiculous and unethical to say the least. In effect, it is telling youth what they can and cannot do in their spare time, time away from and out from under the jurisdiction of the public schools! Further, a recent court case in the state of Washington cited exercise of liberty and freedom under the first and fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution as grounds for allowing boys to play soccer outside of school. See the Progress Bulletin of December 4, 1975, Page 29, for details.

Also, A.Y.S.O. says that every boy who signs up will play at least half of every game. Can the C.I.F. say the same?

The usurping of boys from A.Y.S.O. soccer has emasculated the two divisions (5 and 6) from 15 through 18 years. For example, in the 1974-75 soccer season the entire city of Pomona had 10 teams; for the 1975-76 soccer season — 1 team and that team is in jeopardy of being disbanded.

This, in turn, has several side effects. For instance, the scheduling of teams, which means longer distances to and from games and at today's gasoline prices who needs more expenses?

The C.I.F. stand has had a disastrous effect on A.Y.S.O. soccer at the high school level.

So, instead of more boys playing more and better soccer, the net effect is to have fewer boys play less soccer.

It makes no sense to keep a boy or a man for that matter, "under contract" for literally 2 months before and 2 months after the soccer season begins and/or ends, as does the C.I.F. — K.W. Bibee, Pomona

Carl Albert: Getting smaller?

WASHINGTON — Carl Albert is too small for the great thronelike Speaker's chair. At five feet four inches, he is the smallest Speaker in history. Yet his colleagues expected big things of the Little Giant from Bugtussle, Okla., when in 1971 he took his place in the majestic chair.

For Albert had wrestled his way from a bleak beginning as the son of an impoverished coal miner to become the third most powerful man in the land. And he had reached the top without dishonor.

He is a rustic sophisticate, freckle-faced and sandy-haired, who can fade like a chameleon into the Oklahoma hinterland and yet was equally at ease as a Rhodes scholar on the Oxford campus.

He has the determination of a Demosthenes. As a young man, he practiced giving speeches under a local bridge to develop more depth and resonance in his voice. As an old man, he still hones his vocal cords by going through an elaborate, daily humming-chewing exercise.

No one questions Albert's integrity, his fairness, his decency. As one of his closest frinds, Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., told us: "I have always said Carl was one of only two men I know who would have to get a book to learn how to be crooked."

Yet the speaker is losing his hold on the House. The fire that once burned within him is flickering. He shows only flashes of his former brilliance. There is a lag to his step, a sag to his shoulders that weren't there before, as if the pressures are bearing down too heavily.

But most unsettling of all, his judgment is capricious. "It doesn't make any difference how smart a man is," his mentor, the late Speaker Sam Rayburn used to say, "unless he has judgment."

Albert has squired girls young enough to be his granddaughters to posh Washington parties, leaving behind a wake of wagging tongues.

His 8 a.m. "tea parties" with young pretties have become the talk of the Capitol powder rooms. His favorite tea pourer is a sweetly smiling missionary who also gives him flowers and hangs around to expound the religious-political philosophy of the controversial cultist, Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

Lobbyists and fund-raisers have easy access to his office where they mingle with distinguished visitors from around the world. He recently recited "Mary had a little lamb" on and on and on, while masticating an imaginary steak, to demonstrate his vocal exercises to flabbergasted visitors.

He is heroically fighting a weakness for liquor, but it is a struggle he has lost on more than one embarrassing occasion. He has been burned out of two apartments, incredibly, by mysterious fires.

"Carl Albert's biggest fault is his greatest virtue," explained Steed. "He thinks if he tries hard enough, he can please everybody. He's an innately nice guy."

His most severe critics don't disagree. "As a person a gentleman, he's a likable fellow," concedes Rep. Bob Carr, D-Mich. "But is Albert effective? The answer has to be no. The leadership is out of touch with Congress, and Congress is out of touch with the people. The leadership is . . . still trying to find 1935 answers to 1975 problems."

The speaker's fiery temper bristles when he hears such talk. "I dare any Member to exercise the most privileged resolution in the House," he declared, raising his voice, as he bounced from his chair. He stabbed the air with a forefinger rigidly extended from a tiny, tightly clenched fist.

"Let him introduce a resolution to expel the Speaker, and I'll show him how much power he's got! I'll show his people in his district just how much he counts for!"

In his own district, Albert counts heavily with the people. The main street of the main town of McAlester has been renamed the Carl Albert Parkway.

He returns their affection. Although his Washington activities are global in scope, his horizons are surprisingly limited to the parched scrub country of Oklahoma's third district.

For all his Oxford sophistication, Albert is nonetheless provincial in outlook. A world traveler, he holds a view of the world shaped by the humble towns and dirt farms of his Oklahoma district.

Pipe-puffing Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., told us she would always remember a moment in Russia with Speaker Albert. "We were singing songs in our dreary Moscow hotel," she said, "and the Speaker came in. He asked us if we could sing 'The Old Rugged Cross.' And as we sang it, you could just see all those small Oklahoma towns and farms rising up behind him."

The security of anyone in politics, of course, is fragile, but few men in Congress have more solid support from their home folks. Yet few men work for their home district with more dedication.

He even uses his Speaker's staff to work on Oklahoma matters, a practice that is not strictly proper but is common among congressional leaders who like to protect their personal power base.

Albert virtually lives in the ornate Speakers' suites, where he can be found usually from the dawn's early light until after dark. He is there Saturdays and Sundays, too — a small, lonely figure behind the massive desk.

And every day, sadly, the power and the prestige slip slowly from his hands. Most of his colleagues sorrowfully agree that Speaker Albert is heavily to blame for Congress' post-Watergate wallowing.

Just in jest

Although I consider myself a fairly well informed individual there are nay number of troublesome questions for which I have yet to find suitable answers. And so today I am listing a few of the more perplexing ones in the hope that readers of this column may be able to furnish some enlightenment.

— Whatever became of blotters?

— Who is responsible for putting the holes in Swiss cheese?

— Do people ever play drop the handkerchief anymore?

— Were men less sure of themselves before the invention of hair transplants?

— Why is it that this winter there isn't another shortage of antifreeze?

— If, as so many athletes claim, hypnosis helps them perform better, why don't we ordinary mortals also make use of such an easy way to end our workday problems?

— And finally, whatever became of those crocheted covers nice folks once put on the lids of their chamber pots? —Which raises another question. Are chamber pots used for anything other than flower planters these days?

Hoover's repute is under attack

WASHINGTON — "I don't have the facts, but at this stage I say it appears there was a conspiracy in the death of my husband," Mrs. Martin Luther King has announced. To her, the conspirators were the FBI and the CIA.

That Coretta King should make this statement comes as no surprise. What is shocking is that the media should give it page one prominence and serious consideration. It is one more part of the systematic suppression by the national press of the role of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in the "harassment" of Martin Luther King.

In this instance, the facts are documented and available to any reporter who wishes to delve in his newspaper's morgue. The documents are double damning because they were produced by those attempting to whitewash Bobby Kennedy and to place the blame on the shoulders of the FBI.

To begin with, in the early days of the Kennedy administration, Atty. Gen. Kennedy lobbied so strenuously for the unlimited use of electronic surveillance — the planting of microphones — in internal security cases that he was roundly scolded by the Washington Post for advocating "police state" methods.

The attorney general not only encouraged this form of surveillance but pressed for the increased use of telephone taps.

Bobby Kennedy, moreover, made it a practice frequently to listen to the tapes of telephone taps and planted microphones.

When Bobby learned, independently of the FBI, that Dr. King was in secret contact with a Communist Party functionary, he dispatched one of his Justice Department assistants to tell the civil rights leader in no uncertain terms that he must cease and desist. Were the facts to become known, Dr. King was told, it would be very embarrassing to the administration. Dr. King agreed and quietly shifted his contacts to another Communist.

According to a document in FBI files, the attorney general then ordered the FBI to explore the feasibility of initiating electronic surveillance and the use of telephone taps in the King case.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover argued against this on the ground that discovery of this surveillance would be damaging to the bureau and to the Justice Department, but the attorney general insisted.

Eventually Hoover agreed to a limited surveillance but took the precaution of getting Atty. Gen. Kennedy to sign the orders. This and other documents were made public in 1966 when Hoover and Bobby Kennedy, then a U.S. senator clashed on the subject of electronic surveillance, of which Mr. Kennedy denied knowledge. Ironically, the most damaging of this memoranda were released at the senator's request.

This is what the proven and provable record shows. The rest consists of wild charges such as those of Coretta King and several others; hearsay evidence which so quickly impresses the national media; and unsubstantiated allegations from those with an ax to grind.

If one were to charge, "I don't know the facts, but at this stage I say it appears there is a conspiracy to destroy the FBI by the national media and the enemies of the United States," he would be driven from public life. Conspiracy or not, there definitely is an attempt to blacken the reputation of J. Edgar Hoover, even though he can no longer defend himself.

Those now so hotly in pursuit of the FBI want a selective reading of the facts, with those tarnishing their heroes suppressed — and that's probably what we will get.

Divorced person needs psychiatrist's help

I have been divorced recently and have so many problems at this time that I am very much in need of help.

In the recent past I have not been able to support myself although I worked part time once in a while.

Now my nerves are just about to the breaking point. I cannot seem to pull myself together as I know I should. I know that I need some type of help before it is too late.

Since my divorce I have had no income of any sort except a little from my 19-year-old son. He isn't working enough to support both of us and I don't feel that he should.

Is there a free agency with someone like a psychiatrist on the staff? I know such service is very expensive but I do not have the means to pay for it.

I cannot aford to drive any great distance and hope you can find someone in the local area. I have consulted with a minister and this didn't give me the help I need. — C. R., Pomona

On March 4 I sent a check to Sal Products, Bethpage, N.Y., for one 4-ounce unbreakable jar of silver replate cleaner.

Although I wrote to the company in June to try to discover the reason for the delay, I have never received the cleaner. — R. S., Pomona.

We also wrote to Sal Products and, at our request, so did a consumer affairs associate of the U. S. Postal Service.

Our letter to Sal Products was written in August. We wrote to the Postal Service in October. The Postal Service wrote to Sal Products in November. Sal Products has been silent.

We are sorry we couldn't polish off your silver cleaner problem but Postal Service investigation may still bring results.

The Postal Service can't compel a firm to furnish merchandise but when postal inspectors believe a law has been violated, they turn over their evidence to a U.S. attorney for possible presentation to a grand jury and prosecution in the federal courts.

I have a $20 bill (authentic) which was printed on creased paper.

I am sure it is a collector's item. I just have no idea who collects such defective bills.

When the bill is stretched, a white, diagonal line appears on the front and back.

Any assistance you may give would be greatly appreciated. — J. W., Montclair.

Wayne Phillips of Old School House coins says there are some people who collect bills which are authentic and defective.

He hasn't had a request for such a bill in the past year or two but perhaps other dealers have.

Phillips advises you not to expect much over the actual value. He says a defective $1 bill may be worth as much as a defective $20.

For Thursday, Dec. 11

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll get the response you're hoping for today from one you love by proving your intentions to be sincere.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do your good deeds today secretly, without fanfare. Word of what you've done will reach others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you apply yourself today and use your ingenuity, something you thought might be hard to accomplish won't be all that difficult.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This should be a pleasant day for you, socially and careerwise. Business contacts you meet in a friendly atmosphere will prove valuable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be alert today for something beneficial that could suddenly develop. It will fit neatly into a long-range plan you've been concerned about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You should be much more fortunate today in getting others to grant you favors than you were yesterday. Make an appointment. Talk things out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll fare better today by working through trusted intermediaries than by handling a ticklish situation alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Devote as much time as possible through tomorrow to the most important project on your agenda. The goal is reachable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be a bit surprised today when a person you've known for some time shows she cares far more about you than you suspected.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a good day to invite a couple you're obligated to socially to your house for an impromptu get-together.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're very perceptive today. You might be able to spot a unique situation for personal gain if you look hard enough.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a profitable day if you're prudent and practical in dealing with material or financial matters.

Your Birthday Dec. 11

This coming year you will enjoy greater prestige and status in areas where you weren't previously acclaimed. A more active social life is also likely.

Ann Landers

That old familiar refrain

Dear Ann Landers: She is a beautiful woman (30), he is a handsome man (33). They have two lovely children. He is a hard worker, a good father, and generous with his money. They have a lovely apartment and a new car.

Six months ago she decided she was bisexual and became involved in an affair with a woman who lives in the same apartment complex. When the whole business came out in the open she said she was going to get help but so far she hasn't done it. Meanwhile, she makes a dash to her friend's apartment as soon as her husband goes to work. All the neighbors are wise to the arrangement.

Her kids hate their mother's woman friend, but I don't think they know why yet. Sooner or later they're bound to find out. What will this knowledge do to them? Maybe if the mother sees THAT in print she will mend her ways. Or perhaps her husband will figure out a course of action. Right now he is just waiting. Comment, please. — No Name

Dear N.N.: You write as if you know for certain these women are lovers. Were you there? If it is indeed a lesbian relationship, it will not be terminated by pressure from relatives — not even the disdain of her children. I would hope, however, that the women be circumspect. If they are carrying on, no one need know. Lesbians are less visible than male homosexuals because it isn't considered unusual for girls to be very chummy.

Dear Ann Landers: A reader asked what to do about his dog who became very upset during thunderstorms — broke the furniture, etc. You told him to check with his veterinarian and get some tranquilizing pills. I have another suggestion.

A dog's ability to sense an impending storm is much more acute than a human's. By the time the owner notices a storm approaching, the dog is already anxious and upset. A tranquilizer will not take effect until after the storm.

My suggestion is this: Have the owner get a tape recorder and equip it with a loop, or continuous tape. Record a thunderstorm's sound and fury. Then on a quiet day, play the tape back to the pet at a low volume for about an hour. Repeat the tapes on successive days and increase the volume. This would have a desensitizing effect on the animal. Sincerely yours — Lawrence M. Fox, D.V.M., River Grove, Illinois

Dear Doc: Many thanks for the helpful hint. And now, if anyone out there tries it, please let me know how it went.

Dear Ann Landers: You usually advise parents to MYOB when it comes to the weight problems of their children, but my problem is different from that of most mothers who yearn for their daughters to be thin.

Eighteen months ago, our daughter lost a lot of weight by systematically starving herself. She began passing out and having crying jags.

We were told to get her to a psychologist, which we did. She then started to eat again, felt better emotionally and now is 30 pounds overweight, hates the way she looks, but will not go back to the psychologist. She continues to gain. What can I do? — Distressed

Dear D.: Very little. The girl must want to return and let's hope she does soon. The psychologist got her over one hump; now she needs help to pull her back from the opposite extreme.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Getting a line on the action

While the leopard skin rugs in my walnut-paneled private office here at the Progress-Bulletin were being cleaned recently, I shared the office of our Action Line editor. I didn't mind the fact that there were no windows, but the brooms and buckets cluttered the cubicle and hampered my activities. (I'll smell of furniture polish for months!)

In the — er, intimacy of the quarters, Action Line and I often got our mail mixed up. The Action Line editor has, to my knowledge, written three of these columns, and I, on the other hand, have carried out exhaustive investigations for a number of A-L clients like so:

Dear Action Line: I am a veteran of the War Between the States, and I have been trying to get the Veterans Administration to approve my tuition to Mt. San Antonio College since the Battle of Chickamauga (1863).

Ans.: Dear Sgt. Lazarus — Happy you. Your tuition to take the airline pilots course at MSAC has been approved by the VA, and in addition, a check for $1,971,332.06 is on its way to you — back pay for AWOL at Bull run, plus $2.06 for ammunition at Gettysburg. Congratulations!

Dear Action Line: Please help me. I am at Wit's End, a small commune just off Claremont's Memorial Park. A man came to me recently with an offer to put a new roof on my house. I paid him $30 on account. He showed up the next day, explained that the work had to be done at his plant, and towed the house away. I have been living in a pup tent at the park since then, and I would like my house back. Signed, Sniffles.

Ans.: Dear Sniffles: Lucky you. Action Line traced down your two-story, fieldstone house in a suburb in Boston, Mass. It has apparently been seized by a nationwide house-napping gang and offered for sale at a swap meet at the local drive-in. It is being returned to you by air freight, collect. If you have $83,665, you will soon be at your own hearth again. Action Line is happy to have been of help.

Dear Action Line: A young lady called me on the telephone recently and said she represented a quiz show for a photo studio. If I could name the president on a $1 bill I would receive a valuable free offer. I promptly said "Benjamin Franklin." (I was a history major at Emerson Junior High School.) The woman said, "Congratulations! Send $25 candidacy fee and a copy of your Wasserman report to Box 17456297 Terminal Station, Los Angeles, and you will receive your free prize." I did as requested but have not heard from the organization. Signed, Perplexed.

Ans.: Dear Perplexed. It wasn't Franklin, you idot, it was Jefferson!

Dear Action Line: Two lovely chicks came to my house recently selling magazine subscriptions they said would win them votes for Rose Bowl queen. I bought a 20-year subscription to Literary Digest from the redhead in the peek-a-boo blouse and a 10-year subscription to Colliers from the blonde in the miniskirt. I have had no response. Can you help me? Signed, Dirty Old Man.

Ans.: Dear D.O.M. No.

Dr. Lamb

How to battle the pot belly

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Why do so many people, young and old, men and women, have protruding stomachs nowadays.

I'm over 60 and have rheumatoid arthritis. My feet, legs, and knees have become very painful to use, hence my exercise is limited. Until I acquired arthritis some years ago, I had a very flat stomach. Now it protrudes — feels swollen.

I know this is due in part to massive doses of aspirin and 10 milligrams of Prednisone daily. Can you recommend an exercise to fit my ability and that would help my stomach problems.?

DEAR READER — You see so many bulging abdomens these days because people eat too much, exercise too little and have few, if any, activities that help maintain the strength of the abdominal muscles.

The person in good health who wants to avoid this problem, or correct it, can get information on how to do it by sending 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of The Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will give you information on exercises you can use to help avoid this problem.

Regardless of the exercise program you use, if your abdomen is stuffed with fat you can't significantly decrease its size. The task is like trying to compress a plastic bag full of water into a smaller volume. It just won't happen. There is usually about as much fat inside the abdomen as there is outside. As you eliminate body fat from the outside you are also eliminating some packed inside your abdominal cavity.

A successful campaign to win the battle of the bulge includes both an exercise program directed toward your trunk muscles, and a proper diet program. Good posture helps, also.

Your problem is different because of your rheumatoid arthritis. Incidentally, those who want information on rheumatoid arthritis can follow the same procedure I mentioned for the information on the big middle, only ask for The Health Letter, number 4-11, Rheumatoid Arthritis. Your abdomen is distended with fluid from your medicines. Prednisone and other cortisone medicines tend to cause abdominal obesity.

Because of the complications of cortisone medicines, they are used only in selected cases. I can't say whether your case required cortisone or not, but as long as you are under the care of a specialist in rheumatoid arthritis, he can guide you to the best current therapy.

I am not hopeful that exercise will help reduce your abdomen any more than it will a person who has abdominal obesity which is not corrected. You may get some advantage by strengthening your abdominal muscles to a limited degree. You can practice tightening and relaxing your abdominal muscles while lying down, while sitting or even while standing. Repeated contractions will help you maintain the strength of your muscles. Don't overdo it at the start.

Depending on the status of your hips and general health, you might also be able to do situps or leglifts. These two types of exercise are the ones most commonly used to strengthen the abdomen.

Jacoby's bridge

Herbert response saves set

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Back in the late '30s, Walter Herbert, the conductor of the New Orleans symphony and a fine bridge player proposed the Herbert convention. It was hands such as the one shown today that gave Walter his idea. South opens two hearts and North makes the bust response of two notrump.

If South jumps to four hearts and West does not open a spade, South will be held to nine tricks. He will score his honors in rubber bridge. If South raises to three no trump he will be sure of his contract if East holds the ace of spades, if some other suit is led, or if the defense can't take five spade tricks. But the way the cards lie, East leads a spade and three notrump goes down.

Opening lead —

The Herbert convention provides that the next suit is the negative response to a strong two bid. North bids two spades and south can bid three notrump and make it against any lead.

If you do play strong two bids and want to improve your results a trifle, you can adopt the convention. However, you had better make sure that you don't forget it.

Jesus was voted favorite hero

Who is your favorite hero or heroine of all time? Surveytakers sometime back put that query to a batch of visitors to Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum in London. Jesus Christ got the most votes. Second most went to Winston Churchill. And John F. Kennedy came in third. They also asked that same sampling of people to name the person they most hated and feared. Listed in descending order were Richard M. Nixon, Adolf Hitler and Jack the Ripper. You may be interested to learn that Israel's Moshe Dayan showed up in fifth place on both lists.

HERRING

If a herring went in for weightlifting, it would be at its peak of physical form at age 10.

IT'S A MATTER of record, too, that a Buenos Aires court fined a couple of parents for naming their children Zoroaster and Jupiter.

CLIENT ASKS IF most of the girls who study to become medical doctors remain unmarried because of their careers. No, the majority not only get married, but wind up with at least three children. And unsurprisingly, a considerable number of them marry physicians.

HAVE YOU EVER heard of Bill Nash? If not, you will. Can bet you a small unspecified sum on that. Nash is a country-western singer out of Houston with more talent than age. Extraordinary voice. The girls in his audience don't swoon, they just stay and stay and stay and buy their own refreshments, the little rascals.

WEIGHT LIFTING

Q. "In weight lifting, what's the difference between the military press, the clean and jerk, and the snatch?"

A. In the press, the athlete lifts the barbell from the floor to the chest with both hands, waits for the referee's signal, then boosts the bell high over the head. In the clean and jerk, it's the same thing, but without the wait for the referee's signal. In the snatch, the bell is lifted from the floor directly over the head in one motion.

THE CHINESE BOUND women's feet for 1,000 years before that practice was outlawed in 1911. Historical footnotes give various reasons as to why. One such indicates those deformed feet forced the women to walk with an exaggerated hip movement. And this peculiar feminine gait, it's written, was much appreciated by Chinese men.

Thoughts

For God did not give us a spirit of timidity but a spirit of power and love and self-control. — II Timothy 1:7.

"It is only through labor and painful effort, by grim energy and resolute courage that we move on to better things." — Theodore Roosevelt, 26th U.S. President.

Author Irving Stone to appear at college

Irving Stone, renowned biographical novelist and his wife, Jean, will be guests at a luncheon and public reception on the campus of Azusa Pacific College on Friday.

During the luncheon, Stone will discuss his latest best seller, "The Greek Treasure."

The college will host a reception and autograph party at which Stone will sign copies of his newest novel from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The public is invited to the reception in the President's Dining Room of the college's Turner Campus Center.

Azusa Pacific College is honoring the Stones for their contribution of Lincolniana to the college's library. The Irving Stone Collection consists of the 200 reference works on Lincoln used by the author in the preparation of his novel, "Love Is Eternal."

The importance of the collection, according to Ed Peterman, the college librarian, is to be found in the unique combination of subject matter (Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln) and the author-collector (Stone).

The collection enables students to follow the progress of an author in the research for the composition of a manuscript which is being read by people the world over, added Peterman.

The new collection joins four other major special collections which have been acquired within the past two years at the college. These are the Azusa Foothill Citrus Collection on Local History, the Clifford M. Drury Collection on Protestant Missions in the Far West, the Macneil Family Collection of Local History, and the Msgr. Francis J. Weber Collection of American Catholic Church History.

For additional information on the reception or the Irving Stone Collection on Lincolniana, the public may call the office of public information at the college (213) 969-3434.

Mitten So Big

A Christmas Tale by D. Floreck and D. Baur

L.P. school task force

Creation of an independent task force charged with developing a plan to deal with current and future problems in the Hacienda La Puente Unified School District has been approved by the school board.

Formation of the group was recommended by Conrad Briner, a professor at Claremont Graduate School, to define the most significant problems with which the district must cope.

"Managers in our society haven't been trained to deal with institutions in a declining state," Briner explained. "School, as well as business leaders, are well versed in ways to manage growth, but few have had any experience in maintaining a quality product (in this case, education) while coping with the inevitable problems that result from shrinking resources (less money) or a declining market (fewer students).

"It will be the responsibility of this task force to come up with workable ways to meet these problems head on and develop short-and long-range plans that will allow the Hacienda La Puente schools to continue effectively meeting their responsibilities to children, parents, employes, and the entire community.

The task force will be composed of four community members, three teachers three administrators and three non-teaching classified) employes. It will report its findings to district Supt. Earl Denton and the school board.

Russell Ribb, assistant superintendent for business services, will serve as chairman of the group. He will be assisted by Irv Rem, administrator for planning and evaluation. Briner will serve as an adviser to the group.

The district's administrative council, made up of several principals and district management representatives, will select task force members as soon as possible. Briner says he expects the task force to make a preliminary report on its activities by February or early March.

Sewage grant for CBMWD

A $3,456,000 federal grant for construction of sewage treatment plant facilities has been received by the Chino Basin Municipal Water District.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., said the grant from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will aid the water district and its customers "for years to come."

The new grant will provide for expansion of the CBMWD's treatment plant on Central Avenue near the Prado Dam south of Chino, according to Theo Nowak, the district's assistant manager.

"This will expand waste water treatment from three million gallons a day to five million," said Nowak. It also will provide for a third stage of sewage treatment, he added.

The district currently is soliciting construction bids for the project. The EPA provides about 82 per cent of the costs, while the state gives 12½ per cent and the remainder comes from local sources, Nowak explained.

Ireland is everything to retiring newsmen

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of four articles on Ireland written by Hubbard Keavy, retired chief of the Associated Press bureau in Los Angeles who is now residing in Laguna Beach.)

By HUBBARD KEAVY

CLONBUR, Co. Galway, Ireland — The mystique of Ireland got to my wife. "How would you like to live here?" she asked during the four weeks we spent in the cities and towns and the quiet pastoral countryside. So I asked a handful of Americans why they had chosen this green speck in the North Atlantic as a place to retire. A variety of reasons.

The most lyrical was Richard K. O'Malley, my longtime friend and associate.

"What do I like about Ireland? Have you looked at the sky in the evening, or in the early flush of dawn? Or have you watched the gulls wheel under clouds that are gun-metal grey? Or felt the wind off the sea and seen the break of blue overhead? Where else can you find it, man, where else?"

O'Malley, a third generation Irishman, was all over the world as a newsman but never felt at home. "This is the first place I ever lived that I didn't plan on leaving some day."

Dick followed his father's career (longtime reporter on the Butte, Mont., Standard) into the news dodge and eventually devoted 31 years to The Associated Press as a writer and chief of foreign bureaus. While Dick was forever examining the other side of the mountain, I, a counterpart in The AP, stayed home to run a domestic bureau.

Dick and his wife Jeanne are only two of 12,000 Americans retired in Ireland. Another couple is Harry Casler and his Rosemary, who lived in a score of countries in his long career with the State Department and the U.S. Information Agency.

"I don't have hay fever here," said Casler. Reason enough for one who was often indisposed by irritating ragweed pollen. "I like the people, the clean air — in fact, everything."

Don Grant, whose last assignment for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch was covering the United Nations, is here because he and his wife prefer seclusion. Dick Condon, a Canadian newsman liked what he saw and felt on a visit, and came back to stay.

Walter Trohan, the Chicago Tribune's man in Washington for years, and Carlton Kent, the Chicago Sun-Times Washington Bureau chief, echo the sentiments of Grant and Casler. So does Bob Willoughby, a freelance photographer in Hollywood for years.

I found O'Malley, who has a peculiarly Irish gift with words, in his permanent home near Clonbur, a rural village of 150 souls. He was highly vociferous, in character as usual.

"I had strong ethnic ties," he says. "My father's parents came from up the pike in Co. Mayo. I was raised in Butte among people who had a strong feeling for the old country. Nearly all of my buddies had one or two parents or grandparents, who spoke Galeic, living with them.

"My old man was a Sinn Fein and campaigned for Eamon deValera's fund raising for the Irish revolution (against England) in the U.S. during World War I. He was briefly jailed for it. My own ambition at 14 was to join the Irish Republican Army." (Today the IRA terrorists claim responsibility for assassinations and bombings in the troubled north of Ireland and in London.)

Come on, Dick, even we visitors love the clouds and the weather and sea breezes and gulls. What do you really like best about Ireland?

"I'd say, if you don't call me a smart alec, Ireland!" And then fervently: "I love the people, their kindness and friendliness, the innate sense of the fitness of things.

"I know all the Irish types, from the empty-talking blatherskites to the soft-spoken political types to the shy men with depth in their eyes. Yes, and the Norse-looking men with broad smiles and shoulders and who are as guileless as children and to the black-eyed ferrity little men who'd do you out of your last pence if they could.

"But take them all in all and they're a grand race entirely, believe me. And the best thing about them is that they are Irish.

(Dick could have added a line my father used in a way that never gave offense: "If I was anything but Irish, I'd be ashamed of meself.")

Life is casual?

"Let me give you an example," Dick said. "I was in Tom Ryan's butcher shop talking salmon fishing when a man came in, listened awhile, then went over and took down a haunch of beef, sliced off a steak, weighed it, peered at the scale, wrapped it, left some money on the counter and walked out. Tom didn't even look at the money until another customer came in and then he just put it in his pocket without counting it.

"Yes, life is casual, but if anybody tries to tell you that the Irish are not hard working, hit him in the mouth. True, they may not start their workday until 10, but they're still at it long after dark. Rain or shine, they are with the cattle or the sheep, or cutting turf for fuel or putting in winter feed. Sure, you see guys in the pubs hitting the pints. You also see guys in the states lapping up the suds."

O'Malley not quite so trim as he once was (when he fought 54 professional fights) whose still thick hair has turned from red to grey, keeps up with men many years younger on shooting trips "jumping over those damned stone fences like a determined old dog."

Dick and Jeanne built a large home on Lough (pronounced loch but means lake) Corrib in a picture postcard area surrounded by acres of yard and conifers.

The O'Malleys, like most of the 300,000 Americans who visit Ireland annually, find the natives warm and witty, generous and gregarious.

For most of his three score and some, O'Malley was sustained by the dream of finding the perfect place — and he has it in "God's pocket," as the west of Ireland often is called.

"Where else can you find it, man, where else?"

My wife, as I have indicated, was enchanted and I must answer her question I believe I would like to live here. As a Sean O'Casey character might put it, "Isn't it a darlin' place?"

World's traffic experts study Singapore's commuting plan

SINGAPORE (AP) — Traffic jams have been eased but not eliminated and thousands of workers have made new commuting arrangements in the six months since Singapore restricted private cars downtown.

Traffic experts from around the world are coming here to study the operation.

Fewer vehicles are coming into the central business district in the morning rush hours, the Road Transport Action Committee said in a recent statement.

Side effects include the shifting of some offices outside the 2.5-square-mile restricted zone and a decrease in automobile association membership.

A master traffic control plan called the "Area Licensing Scheme" went into operation in June to force "high passenger utilization of vehicles."

Private cars with at least four persons are permitted free access. Lone drivers in private autos or those carrying fewer than three other persons have to pay a fee. Others park outside the downtown area and continue on shuttle buses or drive to work before 7:30 a.m. or after 10:15 a.m.

Taxis were at first exempt from restrictions along with other public transportation. In August they were reclassified and now have to pay the fee unless the cabbie picks up three riders to qualify under the car pooling minimum. Fees are added to the cab fare.

Authorities also are trying to determine how to curb casual car pooling in which motorists pick up hitchhikers or those standing at bus stops to make up the legal minimum load of four.

Motorists who can afford to commute as before buy a monthly permit that costs the equivalent of $24 to stick on their windshields. Others purchase daily permits for $1.20.

The latter are sold at roadside booths staffed by one man a mile or so outside the restricted zone.

Private cars and taxis without permits are not stopped, but police dictate their license numbers into a small cassette recorder to be transcribed back at headquarters later into a ticket.

In early June there were more than 200 violations a day, officials said. The recent average was 35 a day. The usual fine is $20.

About 73 per cent fewer private cars were coming downtown in the morning rush hour three months after the restrictions were imposed compared with last March. In the same period there was an overall decrease of 43.2 per cent in all types of vehicles entering the central business district, officials reported.

More than 7,000 permits are in effect each day, and more than 4,000 car pools have access.

Some who were prepared to pay the entrance fee were thwarted when the government simultaneously ordered a sharp increase in parking charges in the central business district. One garage that charged $1.80 to park all day before June now gets $5. Attendants say the garage has not been filled since prices were boosted.

To tighten controls even more, vehicle taxes and registration charges were increased earlier this year.

The Automobile Association says, "The additional burden imposed on motorists by the Area Licensing Scheme has resulted in a downward trend in our membership growth. A number of members who failed to renew their A.A. membership remarked that they could no longer afford to own a motor car."

Several companies have relocated outside the restricted zone. A spokesman for one firm said the traffic crackdown was not the primary reason but "it is one of the factors."

The newspaper New Nation said office space just outside the central core has "become very much in demand. Rentals have gone up as much as 10 per cent.... On the other hand, office buildings in the city center are not enjoying such occupancy rates."

Those who don't work downtown but who once drove across the restricted area from one side of Singapore to jobs on the other side have had to make detours or take public transport.

One disappointment to officials has been a "park and ride" plan originally envisaged as the key to keeping private cars out of the city center. The idea was that a commuter would leave his car in one of 10 big parking lots built on the fringe of the restricted zone and hop a shuttle bus the rest of the way.

The lots cost $3 million and three of them, with space for 2,000 vehicles, have been scrapped for lack of patronage. Motorists preferred instead to leave their cars at home.

The 88 new shuttle buses ran mostly empty until fares were reduced and their operators were allowed to extend routes beyond the vacant parking lots and into residential areas.

Angels trade Singer to Rangers

The Angels traded former Pomonan Bill Singer to the Texas Rangers today for first baseman Jim Spencer and $100,000.

Singer pitched for Pomona High, Post 30 and also played little league baseball here. He helped pitch the American Legion team to a state championship.

The 31-year-old Singer had lived in Diamond Bar until last summer when he moved to Villa Park.

Hampered by a chronic back problem, he was operated on during the 1974 season. This year, still recovering, he posted a 7-15 record with a 4.98 earned run average.

He struck out only 78 and walked 81 in 179 innings.

Dr. Frank Jobe had given Singer a set of exercises and general manager Harry Dalton had instructed him to work out only with catcher Andy Etchebarren.

Singer's mother, Margaret (Peggy) Singer, said Dr. Jobe had told her son his arm was in excellent condition with no deterioration of the type common to fast ball pitchers.

The fireballing righthander is one of the few hurlers to be a 20-game winner in both major leagues.

The 28-year-old Spencer, a left-handed power hitter, hit .266 in 133 games, with 11 homers and 47 RBI last year. He has a career batting average of .257. The 6-foot-2 Spencer broke into the majors with the Angels in 1969 and was traded to the Texas Rangers in 1973 with pitcher Loyd Allen for first baseman Mike Epstein and two other players. He hit .278 for the Rangers in 1974.

Singer has been on the disabled list four times during his 11-year major league career with the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Angels. He underwent two operations, one for a back problem, the other for an elbow injury.

Singer won 20 games for the Dodgers in 1969 and again in 1973 for California. He pitched a no-hitter against Philadelphia on July 20, 1970. His career record is 103-109.

Singer went to the Angels in 1972 in the deal that sent Frank Robinson from California to the Dodgers. Los Angeles also got pitcher Andy Messersmith in that trade.

Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi said that he expects Singer "to be the comeback of the year" player in the American League next season.

California General Manager Harry Dalton said the addition of Spencer gives the Angels greater depth, and indicated that the team might consider another trade involving the first baseman.

"It gives us another option on the trade market," said Dalton. "At least two clubs have already asked about Spencer and one made a firm offer. I don't know whether we want to move him."

Dalton was asked what would happen if Singer's physical problems prevented him from pitching for Texas in 1976.

"We will not stiff the Texas club," Dalton replied. "That's down the road. We don't think it will happen. The medical reports on Singer are very good."

Gail Goodrich breaks nose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gail Goodrich has a broken nose, Lucius Allen has a pulled back muscle, and the Lakers are hurting at guard.

The Lakers say Goodrich, who suffered a broken nose in practice Tuesday, is doubtful for Los Angeles' game against Philadelphia at the Forum Friday. But a team spokesman said Goodrich may be back at guard Saturday in Phoenix.

Allen, Los Angeles' other starting guard, is listed as probable for Friday's game, but the Laker spokesman said the lower back spasms which Allen has can recur at any time.

Donnie Freeman will start in Goodrich's spot against the 76ers, while Stu Lantz, the fourth guard, will be ready to fill in for Allen if needed.

Goodrich was injured on a rebound during a team scrimmage at Loyola. Laker general manager Pete Newell said he was taken to a doctor who popped the nose back into place.

"Gail had some membrane damage," Newell said. "And if it doesn't repair, it can hemorrhage when he breathes hard. So we have to be certain it's healed."

Devils, 'Cats post victories

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Pomona and Bonita highs handily won their opening round games in the Upland-Montclair Tournament at Montclair High and will play Garey and Duarte respectively tonight.

Pomona disposed of Azusa 59-47 and will play defending tourney champion Garey, who received a bye, tonight at 6:30 p.m.

Bonita knocked off Montclair 71-52 and will play Duarte, an 88-84 winner over Wilson at 8 p.m. at Montclair.

Devil coach Curt Donaldson said prior to the game with Azusa that "everybody must contribute to win".

Three players off the Pomona bench combined to score 21 points with Mike Jones leading the way with eight first half points and finishing with 12 tallies.

Forward James Knight led the starters with 12 points and as many rebounds. Center William Warren was right behind with 11 points and seven caroms.

The Aztecs, shooting 40 per cent from the floor in the first half, managed to grab a 13-10 first quarter lead.

Sparked by Knight's eight points, the Devils came back in the second quarter to take a 27-23 advantage into the locker room.

Donaldson's "tight man-to-man defense" took its toll on the Aztecs in the third quarter.

The Devil defense held Azusa scoreless for the first five minutes of the stanza, while the Pomona offense was accumulating its biggest lead of the night at 37-23.

Pomona held a secure 10 point lead (41-31) at the end of three quarters and retained that margin throughout most of the final stanza.

The only Aztec to reach double figures was guard Paul VanDuyne who scored 12 points in the losing effort.

Duarte and La Puente Wilson battled a see-saw contest for most of the evening with Duarte finishing strong at the wire for the win.

Center Beno Lee led all scorers with 33 points followed by teamate Mark Crump and Wilson's Richards with 24 points.

Bonita's win over tournament co-host Montclair was anything but artistic. Both teams played extremely sloppy ball in the first half with the quality improving in the second half.

The Bearcat starting five looked impressive at all five scored 10 points or more.

Forwards Scott Johnson and Aaron Bitran scored 16 points each and guards Mike Sears and Dave Drury scored 12 each. Low man on the starting five was center Steve Sly scoring 10 markers.

After the first quarter of the "sloppiest" half, Bonita found itself on top 12-8.

Lead by Johnson's 10 second quarter points the Bearcats built their advantage to seven, 30-23.

Bitran led the Cat prowl in the third quarter with nine points boosting the Bonita margin to 48-35.

Balanced scoring from the starters enabled Bonita to pull away from the Cavaliers to a 23 point lead with under three minutes left to play.

That's as far as the Cats got before Montclair grabbed their tails and scrapped back to lose by 19.

Ganesha plays as a team

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

"This time we came to play and we played as a team," said Ganesha high basketball coach Gary Fulkerson, assessing the difference between his team's loss at Charter Oak last week and the Giants' 73-48 romp over the same Charter Oak team Tuesday afternoon in the first round of the Upland-Montclair Tournament.

The Giants made it hard for observers at Upland's gym Tuesday to believe that Ganesha had lost its season opener exactly one week earlier to the Lancers by a 77-62 score.

"We did three things tonight that we didn't do last week," said Fulkerson after the game. "We controlled the tempo of the game with our defense, we controlled the backboards, and we shot much better."

As a result, the Giants will meet Northview today at 6:30 p.m. in a championship bracket game, while Charter Oak was scheduled to face Claremont in the consolation bracket at 3:15. Nogales was to face Upland at 4:45 in another loser's game, and Alta Loma will play Ontario in the evening finale at 8.

Claremont suffered a disappointing loss to Northview, 53-51, in Tuesday's opening round, Alta Loma got by Nogales, 69-64, and Ontario surprised Upland, 61-51.

But the Giants posted by far the most impressive win of the day at Upland, winning by 25 points.

Ganesha hit 36 of 79 field goal tries (46 per cent) to the Lancers' 20 of 53 (38 per cent).

Ganesha did not even seem to feel the absence of sophomore George Hawthorne, 6-foot-8 starting center, who collected his third personal foul less than three minutes into the game and saw limited action thereafter.

"We have good bench strength," said Fulkerson. "But Hawthorne has the potential to be a really superior player. If he had played tonight the way he did against (Charter Oak) last week (when he totaled 26 points), he would have scored a hundred points." Hawthorne scored two points Tuesday.

Senior forward George Terry led the Giants, hitting on 11 of 21 field goal tries for 22 points. Surprisingly, at 5-10, Terry also led Ganesha rebounders with nine.

Forwards Michael Williams and Dean Barlow chipped in 14 and 12 points respectively, and guard Ken Dudley played excellent defense. Dudley stole the ball six times.

The Giants forced 24 Lancer turnovers and committed 15 themselves. Ganesha easily outdid Charter Oak in rebounds, 44-32.

After spurting to a quick 12-5 lead, the Giants built a 40-28 halftime advantage and continually increased their margin in the second half. In the fourth quarter, Ganesha outscored the losers, 17-8.

Alta Loma did not have quite so easy a time with Nogales, but coach Jeff McCall's well-balanced squad took the lead for good early in the second period, after fighting to an 18-18 draw after one quarter.

In fact, McCall actually had his second "starting team" in the game when the Braves took their permanent lead. The Alta Loma coach sent out a completely different five to begin the second and fourth quarters than the one that started each half. Center Rich Davis led the Brave scorers with 11 points, but five of his teammates scored between eight and 10.

Nogales guard Angel Rosado took scoring honors with 27 points.

Mounties rally to beat Riverside

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Jeff Cox and Tom Pokorski spearheaded a second half rally Tuesday night to lead Mt. San Antonio College to a 73-66 victory over Riverside City College. MSAC's seasonal record is now 6-0.

Cox, a 5-11 guard for the Mounties, sank six out of six long range jumpers for the Mounties second half comeback, after they trailed at halftime 38-33. Pokorski aided MSAC's win with 21 rebounds of which nine came in the second half. Cox finished with 15 points.

Riverside jumped off to a 14-8 lead with a quick aggressive offense which enable them to drive in for several lay ups. They also bothered the Mounties with a back court pressing zone trap defense.

MSAC caught the Tigers at 18-18 with 10 minutes left in the half. The final 10 minutes saw both teams trade baskets by Paten Calloway, and John Jensen for Riverside and Jeff Nelson, Pokorski and Harding for MSAC. The half ended on a long jumper at the buzzer by Riverside's Cooper Hagan to give them a three point halftime lead.

Pokorski and Nelson were the top scorers for MSAC in the first half with 9 points apiece. Harding scored eight points and pulled down 9 rebounds.

Riverside's top rebounder was Calloway with 12 in the first half as the Tigers were led in scoring by Derek Melvin 11 points and Jensen with 10.

MSAC outscored the Tigers by 10 in the second half as it kept Riverside away from the hoop. At one stretch in the half the Tigers missed eight consecutive shots. The Mounties also kept Riverside from their fast pace offense by controlling both the offensive and defensive boards.

"We played a poor game," said MSAC Coach Gene Victor. "We were very flat most of the game but down the stretch we played good defensive ball as we became more interested in the game."

The Mounties who are noted for a balanced offensive attack had four men score in double figures. Pokorski was the Mounties top scorer with 20, followed by Cox 15, Nelson 13, and Harding 12. MSAC shot 50 per cent for the game (27 of 54) and they pumped in 13 of 21 shots in the second half for a sizzling percentage of 62 per cent.

Riverside shot 41 per cent for the game but they hit only 11 of 29 shots in the second half for a miserable percentage of 38 per cent. But the Tigers also were plagued with 12 turnovers which kept them from pulling away from MSAC early in the half when they built a four point lead at 48-44.

Cal Poly impressed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Cal Poly got a good look at one of the nation's top college basketball teams here Tuesday night and went away impressed.

Sixth-ranked Louisville extended its unbeaten record to 3-0 defeating the touring Broncos, 84-70, in front of 9,152 fans at Freedom Hall.

Poly's assistant coach Allen Van Winkle was certainly impressed.

"Louisville is by far and away the best team we've faced so far," Van Winkle said by telephone. "I feel they deserve their national ranking and are probably a better team than UCLA right now. They just came at us with their height advantage and jammed the ball down our throats. They tried very few outside shots."

Cardinal Coach Denny Crum, the former UCLA assistant, has gone on record as saying this year's Louisville team may prove to be better than last year's club which placed third in the NCAA finals at San Diego.

"I feel they are better this year," Van Winkle agrees. "They are an excellent team with a lot of poise."

Poly looked for experience against rugged competition on the trip and it has happened. The Broncs have lost their first three games against Houston, Texas and Louisville with two to go at North Dakota and North Dakota State Friday and Saturday night.

As a result, the season record has dipped to 2-3.

"Coach (Don) Hogan is not happy with our shooting percentage," Van Winkle reported. "We are going to have to shoot between 50 and 55 per cent to beat these big schools and we haven't done that."

Poly hit on only 42 per cent of its shots from the floor Tuesday night while Louisville connected on 48 per cent.

Louisville built an 18-point lead at 34-16 with 5:56 left in the first half before Poly rallied to cut the deficit to 42-32 at halftime. The Cards then outscored the Broncs, 10-2, in the first 2:44 of the second half to break it open.

Big 6-11 center Ricky Gallon paced Louisville by scoring 20 points in 22 minutes of action. Rick Wilson had 12 for the Cardinals while Wesley Cox and Larry Williams had 10 apiece.

Guard Joe Sills paced Poly again with 26 points to give him a total of 76 in the three road games. The St. Louis native made 12 of 27 shots from the floor and both free throws.

Hula Bowl names Bruce

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State football Coach Earle Bruce has been named head coach of the East Team in the annual Hula Bowl game in Honolulu Jan. 10, the school announced Tuesday.

Bruce said the Hula Bowl Committee would select his squad and assistants in the near future.

There was no indication who would coach the West Team.

Bruce said he was pleased to learn that one member of his bowl team will be Bob Bos, 6-foot-5, 250-pound Cyclone offensive guard and co-captain last season.

During his career as head coach, spanning high school and college competition, Bruce has 104 victories, 33 losses and three ties. In his two seasons here, each team finished with identical 4-7 records.

Bruce led his Tampa team to a Tangerine Bowl victory three seasons ago.

La Verne races to victory

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

It may not have been the "greatest show on earth" at La Verne's Supertent, but like a circus there was constantly plenty of action to watch.

The La Verne College Leopards raced by the L.A. Baptist Mustangs, 103-70, Tuesday night.

"We had good fast breaks, and we hustled 100%, but we played well in spurts," said Leo Coach Art Bias.

The Leos certainly did play in scoring spurts and by half-time they had built up a 49-38 lead, three players already were in double figures for the home team. Tim Gillette had 12 points, while Dwight Washington and Howard Robinson had 10 apiece by the intermission.

La Verne had held leads during the first half of 30-18, 36-20, and 45-35. L.A. Baptist helped the Leos increase their lead by turning the ball over 10 times, and the Mustangs upped that to 21 turnovers by the end of the game.

The Leos came out running and gunning again in the second half and padded their margin to 59-38. Meanwhile, the Mustangs could not even find the basket for four minutes and 29 seconds, and they finally had to slow down their offense to score.

La Verne was led by Washington, a 6-3 senior, who scored 22 points and had six steals for the game. Gillette, a 6-5 senior, canned 18 points and hauled down 20 rebounds, 13 in the second half.

The Mustangs, who had only lost by four points (85-81) to this same La Verne squad just five days ago, were led by Anthony Autry. Autry had 27 points, eight field goals and he sank 11 of 15 from the charity stripe.

L.A. Baptist outrebounded the Leos for the game 56 to 42, but L.A. had 11 more turnovers. The unusual tartan court, which is a padded cement surface, may have proved to be more of an advantage to the Leopards, since it is their home court. The floor is supposed to be easier on the player's legs.

"I would have liked to have held this team to under 70 points," mentor Bias added. "We fooled around when we got a big lead. We've got to get rid of some mistakes."

The Leos wound up with 49% from the field (49-100), while the Mustangs could only hit on 25 of 75 for 33%. La Verne sank 5 of 12 free throws, while the visitors were 26 of 26 from the charity stripe.

The Mustangs had two other players who scored in double figures besides Autry. Paul Rolfzen had 15 points and 16 rebounds, while Terry Catron tallied 16 points and grabbed 19 caroms.

With 9:15 remaining in the game, the home team had outscored the Mustangs 22-7 from the start of the second half, and held a 71-45 advantage, which only grew until the end of the rout.

La Verne cager Player of Week

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

La Verne College's Dwight Washington was selected the Valley Player of the Week for his efforts in leading the Leos to the consolation title in the Redlands Tournament last week.

The 6-foot-3 senior from La Puente scored 47 points and grabbed 25 rebounds in the tournament. He is a transfer from Mt. San Antonio College and a product of Nogales High.

Quoting the coaches:

ART BIAS, La Verne: "Dwight has been the player who has been carrying us. I felt we played OK in the Redlands Tournament. I'm satisfied with our play so far but we still have a long way to go. We hope to get it together by the time we open league play. We did a good job defensively but turned the ball over too much. Danny Carroll had his best game as a collegian against Los Angeles Baptist when he scored 18 points and grabbed 22 rebounds."

GENE VICTOR, MSAC: "I'm glad Dwight is doing well. We like to have our players stay at local colleges. We'll find out how we fare against quick teams this week. Everything went right for us in our win over Chaffey. Chaffey was tired against us and I feel they will be much improved when league play begins. We're much more experienced this season and may be quicker. We still need to work on our inside defense, our finish to the fast break and movement on offense."

DAVE WELLS, Claremont-Mudd: "La Verne is much improved over last year. They really took it to us. We'll need all of our pre-league games to get it going. We're learning a new offense and want to get more movement from our center's position. We also need to be more patient on offense and slow the game down a bit. Stu DuVall and Ron Kasdorf have been strong on the boards. We're looking forward to playing at home this week."

Citrus College guard Skeeter Wilson . . . former Red Devil starts for Owls

Owls try to be less hospitable

Coach Neil Edwards' Citrus College basketball team was a gracious host last week in the sixth annual Don Edwards Memorial Tournament. The coach hopes his team will be less hospitable in the weeks ahead, starting tonight.

The 2-3 Owls host Mission College at 8 p.m. The San Fernando Valley school is in its first season of athletic competition. Mission brings a 2-4 record into the game.

"In our next three games we will be trying to accomplish three things," says Edwards. "First, we will attempt to simplify things a little more and work much more on our passing game. We will also be trying to find the right combination of our first eight or nine players.

"We still have positions open and we need to improve our backcourt situation and front-line depth."

Citrus dropped two of three games in the tournament last week, beating the Cal State Fullerton junior varsity, 73-68, in the first round. The Owls lost to eventual champion Cypress, 84-66, and Grossmont, 73-53. Cypress also posted wins over East L.A., 90-82, and Cerritos, 48-47.

Sophomore forward Paul Walls represented the Owls on the All-Tournament team. Walls set a single-game scoring record in the tournament, pumping in 36 points against Cypress.

Prep basketball roundup

Chaffey bests L.A.

Both the Chino and Chaffey High basketball teams hit the road for cage tourneys Tuesday, with mixed results.

Chaffey opened play in the Arroyo Tournament by downing Los Altos 72-58. However, Chino lost its opener in the Lakewood Tourney, as the Cowboys were beaten by St. Anthony 89-59.

In other prep action Tuesday night, La Verne Lutheran opened its hoop season on a succesful note, beating visiting American Christian 49-46 in a contest played at LeRoy Boys' Home in La Verne.

Another game slated for Tuesday, Aquinas at Ontario Christian, was postpoined due to a schedule conflict on the part of Aquinas. A new playing date for that contest has not been agreed upon by the two schools.

Chaffey bounced out to a 8-0 lead against Los Altos in the opener of the Arroyo Tourney and went on from there to win the game. The victory pushes the Tiger season mark to 2-0.

Mark McQuaid led all scorers with 23 points, with teammates John Mattke chipping in with 17 and Anthony Munoz with 12. Los Altos, which had won the tourney last year, was led by Ron Hertel's 11 points.

The Tigers now will square off against Alhambra in tourney action today. Alhambra beat Blair 54-53 Tuesday.

The Chaffey-Alhambra matchup will be played at 4:30 p.m. at the Arroyo High gym. Loser of that game will be eliminated from the competition.

Chino did not have things nearly as pleasant at Lakewood, as the Cowboys were routed by St. Anthony in an opening round affair.

St. Anthony outscored the Cowboys 25-7 in the second quarter to take a huge 49-22 lead and the half, and from there it was all downhill for Chino. With the loss the Cowboys' season ledger now read 1-2.

St. Anthony forward Mike Ramsey led all scorers with 20 points, guard Joe Pickens topping Chino with 14.

The Cowboys will try their luck in the consolation bracket against Long Beach Jordan tonight. Jordan was beaten by Downey 59-55 in opening round action Tuesday.

The Chino-Jordan tilt will be played at 8:15 p.m. at the Lakewood High gym, the loser being eliminated from the tourney.

La Verne Lutheran duplicated its win total for all of last season Tuesday night by edging local rival American Christian in the cage opener for both teams.

The Trojans had won only one game all of last year but played well Tuesday, as guard Gregg Guenther led the way with 16 points while forward Dale Pomo added nine.

American's Rick Sherman topped all scorers with 31 points, but the Minutemen had no one else close to that total.

La Verne Lutheran will be back in action Thursday night in the opening round of the Chadwick Tourney in Palos Verdes. The Trojans will open against Village Christian at 6:30 p.m.

Forward Jack Gamulin scored 18 for Poly and Aaron Hopwood added 10. Gamulin hit on eight of 18 shots.

Louisville outrebounded Poly, 46-40, with Gallon and Wilson both grabbing eight. Gamulin paced Poly with eight.

"We were very cold the first half, Van Winkle said. "We went right from the plane to the gym. We were also somewhat in awe of Louisville at first. After we settled down, we played an excellent second half.

Men's loop organized

The Ontario Recreation Division is offering a men's basketball league to be played at Ontario High gym.

There will be three six-team leagues. Teams will play once a week on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday and will play a double round robin.

Minimum age for participation is 16. Roster forms may be picked up at the Recreation Office, 217 S. Lemon, Ontario. For more information call 986-1151 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Rams face Hadl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Hadl returns to Los Angeles on Sunday and he could foul up the home playoff hopes of his former teammates.

Traded last year to Green Bay, the veteran quarterback comes back with an underdog club to face the National Football Conference West champions.

Still, the Rams aren't definitely the hosts for the first playoff game against the eventual Eastern division winners. A loss to Green Bay might send the playoff eastward.

Hadl has completed 165 passes of 298 attempts for 1,799 yards and six touchdowns for the Packers despite their 3-9 record and the Rams know he can be dangerous.

"He is an outstanding football player,"

Wetenkamp sparks Spartans

By DOUG SPOON
PB Correspondent

LA PUENTE — Damien High used the 26-point scoring effort of Mike Wetenkamp, a third quarter scoring burst, and some much-needed free throws to defeat California High 58-50 here Tuesday night in the first round of the Bishop Amat-Bassett Basketball Tourney.

The game, played at Bishop Amat, was dominated by California through most of the first half, but Damien came out strong in the third period to grab an eight-point lead and the Spartans protected their advantage in the final quarter to earn the victory.

As a result of their win, the Spartans advance to the second round tonight against Mater Dei, which had a bye Tuesday. Tonight's game takes place at 7 in the Bishop Amat gym.

The Spartans, now 2-2 on the year, had trouble getting started in the first period and fell behind 18-12 going into the second quarter. They managed to outscore California, 16-11, in that period to draw within one point (29-28) at halftime, but the Spartans never led at any point in the half.

That first half was a case of the Condors making the most of their shots while the Spartans showed a poor field goal percentage. California attempted only 19 shots in the first half, but converted on 13 of them, a sizzling 68 per cent. Damien hit only 11 of 32 shots for a percentage of 34.

Things changed in the second half, as the Spartans' field goal percentage remained about the same (38 per cent) but the Condors' shooting mark dropped to 39 per cent.

As the Condors' shooting cooled off, Wetenkamp and guard Bill Duffy got hot for Damien. Wetenkamp scored 18 in the second half and Duffy had six points in the crucial third period, in which the Spartans outscored the Condors, 20-11.

Although the Spartans made only one more field goal in the game than the Condors did (23-22) as a result of California's hot and cold shooting, Damien was able to hold a fairly comfortable lead because of an advantage at the free throw line.

The Spartans hit 12 of 18 free throws as opposed to only six of 14 for the Condors, a factor which gave Damien the opportunity to simply take care of the ball in the waning minutes.

A jump shot by Wetenkamp midway through the third quarter gave the Spartans' their first lead in the game at 40-39. From that point Damien proceeded to score eight more points in the period while holding the opposition to one free throw. The quarter was capped off by a shot by Wetenkamp, who banked one in from halfcourt at the buzzer.

Both squads had their lowest scoring quarters in the final period, with each team getting ten points. The Spartans played good enough defense in that quarter, despite the loss of starting forward Dan Gifford who fouled out, to hold off the Condors.

Wetenkamp's 26 points was high for all scorers. Guard Norman Edwards paced California with 12 points, 10 in the first half.

Bill Veeck tries again

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Bill Veeck offered $10.3 million for the Chicago White Sox today and American League owners were expected to welcome the onetime P.T. Barnum of baseball back into their exclusive club.

"We've got all the money we need," Veeck said after arriving here shortly after midnight today.

Asked if he was optimistic that the AL owners would formally approve his purchase of the team, Veeck said: "I'd be silly to come all the way down here if I was pessimistic."

The welcome mat wasn't always extended to Veeck, who once shocked the cloistered group known as baseball owners with his exploding scoreboards, midget batters, ballpark nurseries for children and other stunts at the time foreign to the great American pastime.

At the same time that the American League found out that Veeck had met its condition for $1.2 million more in working capital over his previous offer, the National League discussed a $10 million dollar bid for the busted San Francisco Giants.

And while the leagues tried to settle the future of their distressed franchise, the trading beat went on. Three deals were concluded Tuesday, boosting to five swaps and a total of 15 players the count since the annual meetings opened here Saturday.

The Cleveland Indians made two trades Tuesday, purchasing catcher Ray Fosse from the Oakland A's for an undisclosed amount of cash, and sending catcher John Ellis to the Texas Rangers for two youngsters, pitcher Stan Thomas and rookie catcher Ron Pruitt.

Later, the Philadelphia Phillies spiced the dinner hour with a trade of outfielder Mike Anderson to the St. Louis Cardinals for right-handed pitcher Ron Reed.

The trading apparently was just beginning to get into high gear. The Pittsburgh Pirates reportedly still were talking about sending outfielder Al Oliver to Kansas City for outfielder Amos Otis in a swap that apparently involved other players.

The Pirates, tired of winning their division and losing the National League playoff, also were rumored to be working on a package with the New York Yankees that would involve second baseman Willie Randolph and Yankee pitcher Doc Medich.

Then, there was the recurring rumor that the Baltimore Orioles were hot on a deal that would dispatch Orioles' pitcher Ross Grimsley to the Chicago Cubs for outfielder Rick Monday. This dovetailed with the scuttlebatt that Orioles' outfielder Paul Blair was on the block.

The Philadelphia Phillies still were hot after starting pitching help despite the acquisition of Reed. Manager Danny Ozark admitted the Phils had made a pitch for Chicago White Sox 20-game winner Jim Kaat, the 37-year-old comback "Kid" of last season.

It was just last Wednesday that Veeck made his bid to regain the White Sox, a team he owned from 1959 through 1961, giving up the franchise for health reasons. The American League owners told him to get up another $1.2 million in cash and he was back in the baseball business.

Veeck has the additional cash, supplied by W. Clement Stone, the president of Combined Insurance Co. of America in Chicago, an executive reputedly worth $350 million. Stone also is known for his book on positive mental attitude, and several other tomes on how to get rich.

Stone, a self-made man type who started in the insurance business after World War II, also is reported to have been one of the major contributors to the presidential campaigns of former President Richard Nixon, in the neighborhood of more than a million dollars.

As for the Gaints, a Beverly Hills, Calif., mortgage banking firm made the latest offer to bail out owner Horace Stoneham, recuperating in San Francisco from a recent operation. Erle R. Jones, president of the firm, said the Giants had indicated acceptance of the offer—$2 million more than previously dangled by other interests.

Alta Loma, Ontario advance in tourney

The Braves saw a seven-point halftime lead shrink to 63-62 with 1:40 left in the game, but a layin by Danny Miller gave Alta Loma some breathing room and then guard Matt Roberts stole the ball twice and was fouled shooting during the last minute. Roberts made all four free throws to ice the victory, the fourth without a loss for the Braves.

Ontario coach Larry Larson used a starting five made up of four juniors and a sophomore, and his smaller, faster Jaguars ran the Highlanders ragged.

The Jags turned over the ball just 12 times to the Losers' 22, and used quickness to dominate the boards — 39 rebounds to 27 — despite having no one over 6-3 on the squad.

In fact, it was only Ontario's fouling that kept Upland in the game at all. The Highlanders scored 25 of their 51 points from the free throw line, while the Jags totaled just three points on foul shots.

Ontario's Mickey Donaldson and Upland's Dave Holgate, both forwards, led scorers with 14 points. Ten of Holgate's total came on free throws.

It was a case of too little too late for Claremont's Wolfpack against Northview. The 'Pack outscored the Vikings, 17-10, in the final quarter, but had played sloppy ball to fall nine points behind after three periods.

Claremont players were caught traveling seven times in the game, and turned over the ball 18 times to Northview's 15. The Pack made 22 of 50 field goal tries (44 per cent) while the winners connected on 23 of 46 attempts (50 per cent).

Center Derek Britton and guard Dave Brigante led Claremont scorers with 12 points each, followed by guard Chris Clark with 10. High scorer for the game was Northview forward Pete Shpak, who hit nine of 14 tries for 18 points.

Vols stunned by St. John's

By Associated Press

The St. John's Redmen have something to prove, and Tennessee is the latest to see their point.

"Our team doesn't want to lose a game," declared Frank Alagia, the 5-foot-8 senior sparkplug of the Redmen. "We weren't ranked in the preseason polls. One magazine said we'd be lucky if we made a postseason tournament. Well, we think we're a good team."

They convinced seventh-ranked Tennessee of their talents Tuesday night, beating the visiting Volunteers 79-70. Beaver Smith scored 22 points and Alagia added 15 as the Redmen built an 11-point lead in the second half, then held off a late comeback bid by the Vols.

In the only other game involving a nationally ranked college basketball team, No. 6 Louisville whipped Cal Poly 84-70.

"This rates wth the great wins we've had here on our court," raved St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca. "I'd love to end a season with a win like this....you wouldn't find me for two months.

"Alagia was perfect running the club. He didn't make a mistake. His play selection was excellent."

Tennessee Coach Ray Mears was also impressed by Alagia's effort. "He runs a team beter than anyone in the Southeastern Conference," Mears said.

"That's a nice compliment, because the SEC is as good as any conference in the country," responded Alagia, who also had seven assists and three steals in helping the unbeaten Redmen to their fourth victory.

Smith, meanwhile, did a job at both ends of the court. Besides shooting 10-for-15 from the field, he limited Tennessee ace Ernie Grunfeld to 19 points—four below his average—and more importantly to 6-for-17 shooting.

"I wouldn't wish Beaver on anyone," said Alagia. "He plays all the great ones, from Adrian Dantley (the Notre Dame All-American) on down. He's like a piece of tape, he sticks so close."

Grunfeld missed seven of his eight shots in the first half as St. John's built a 45-35 halftime lead.

In other major games, it was Rutgers 105, Boston Col. 82; Villanova 51, Princeton 49; Centenary 97, SW Louisiana 80; DePaul 83, Drake 72; Texas Christian 95, Iowa St. 83; New Mexico 85, New Mexico State 79, and Texas-El Paso 53, W. Texas 48.

Jim Sweeney to Fresno St.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — His persistence in recruiting should help rebuild Fresno State University's football fortunes, says new head Coach Jim Sweeney.

Sweeney, who resigned as Washington State coach last month, was named to the Fresno State job Tuesday to replace JR Boone, who compiled three losing seasons before he quit to go into private business.

"I don't think you will find many people in the coaching profession who think there is a more tireless recruiter than I am," Sweeney said in a telephone interview from Pullman, Wash. "I have recruited the world, but 70 per cent of my players at Washington State were from California."

Sweeney, 46, noted he has conducted clinics or talked to players at most California community colleges in recent years "and I think I have a lot of 'Sweeney boosters' among my former players who will help me recruit for Fresno State."

One or two of his Washington State assistants may be considered for posts here, Sweeney said, and he will come to Fresno next week to begin assembling a staff.

FSU Athletic Director Gene Bourdet, who also was Sweeney's boss when both were at Montana State in the mid-1960s, was high in his praise of the new Bulldog coach.

"I firmly believe that Jim Sweeney is one of the great football coaches in America and a proven winner on both the high school and college levels," Bourdet said. "There is no doubt in my mind that he can turn the program around immediately."

Sweeney was named NCAA District 8 coach of the year in 1971 and his team was ranked 18th nationally in 1972 with a 74 mark. However, since he took over in 1968, the Cougars have compiled an overall 25-60-1 record in the tough Pac-8 Conference.

Sweeney coached in the Coaches All-Star Game in 1971 and was head coach for the West in the 1973 East-West Shrine Game.

Boone was 10-24 at Fresno State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association after a successful junior college coaching career.

Vermeil accepts 'trip'

NEW YORK (AP) — UCLA Coach Dick Vermeil, who turned down two previous Rose Bowl "invitations," isn't about to refuse another trip to Pasadena.

Vermeil, an assistant coach at Stanford from 1965-68 before going to the Los Angeles Rams, UCLA and then back to the Rams, was invited by Stanford Coach John Ralston to attend the 1971 and 1972 Rose Bowls.

"But I wouldn't go then," Vermeil said Tuesday night at the National Football Foundation's annual awards banquet. "I said I'd only go to the Rose Bowl if I coached in it."

And now Vermeil, in his second season as UCLA's head coach, is getting his long-awaited Rose Bowl trip when the Bruins meet No. 1-ranked Ohio State on Jan. 1.

"I'm going because the kids are going," he said. "They're taking me. This is basically a squad that Pepper Rodgers recruited."

No matter who recruited them, the Bruins have made football the talk of the basketball-crazy Westwood campus. After all, what have the mighty Bruin cagers done for UCLA lately except lose by 20 points to Indiana?

"At UCLA, we expect to win championships in basketball, track, swimming, baseball, and the fact that we're going to the Rose Bowl helps us say we too can excel," Vermeil said. "The alumni are definitely showing more interest in the football program."

Vermeil moved from Stanford to the Rams in 1969, joined Coach Tommy Prothro at UCLA in 1970, followed him to the Rams in 1971-72, worked under LA Coach Chuck Knox in 1973 and then took the head job at UCLA last year. He was surprised at what he found, even though he was only three years removed from the college ranks.

"There definitely was a difference in the caliber of players needed to win with," he said. "The starters on the 1970 team would have to be better now. It seems like everyone's getting bigger and faster. Nobody's a genius; you have to have good players to win."

Ohio State has good players, but so does 11th-ranked UCLA, although the Bruins will be a decided underdog in the Rose Bowl against a team that walloped them 40-21 during the regular season.

"Ohio State has the same team, but we have a lot of new faces on defense," Vermeil said. "Ohio State's No. 1 characteristic is their great discipline. They're fundamentally sound and very physical. Not every one is slated for the NFL, but all are very good or they wouldn't be playing there.

"In the pros, we played the other teams in our division twice and thought nothing of it, but in college very seldom do you get a second chance at a team like we have. We'll use the first meeting as a basis to look at how we played them and vice versa, but we're not going to change very much, nor will they.

"Our biggest improvement has been on defense. We've gained confidence and experience and I'll be very surprised if we don't play them a good game."

Rams picked by 10

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The Oakland Raiders were rated seven-point favorites over Houston and the San Francisco 49ers were seven-point underdogs against Atlanta in next weekend's National Football League games, according to Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook listings Tuesday.

Picks for other games: Pittsburgh over Cincinnati by 7, Dallas over Washington by 2, Buffalo over New England by 7, Cleveland over Kansas City by 6, New York Giants over New Orleans by 4, St. Louis over Chicago by 12, Baltimore over Miami by 5, Denver over Philadelphia by 5, Minnesota over Detroit by 10, Los Angeles over Green Bay by 10, New York Jets over San Diego by 1.

Jaws take AYSO game

In a battle of undefeated American Youth Soccer Organization teams, the Claremont Jaws edged the Diamond Bar Bobcats, 1-0, in a Division Six game played before the Claremont High game at Pomona-Pitzer.

Mark McIntosh scored the goal for the Jaws with Scott Kerby getting the assist. The outstanding defensive players were Wynn Young and Tim Johnson.

Hafey wants showdown

LOS ANGELES — Art Hafey, the world's no. 4 rated featherweight, has openly challenged Danny Lopez to a showdown bout early 1976 if he gets past Rolando Pastor at the Olympic Thursday night.

"I KO'd Olivares, so did Danny. I KO'd Famoso Gomez twice, Danny lost to him so how does that qualify Danny getting a shot at Dave Kotey's featherweight title," says Hafey.

"If I beat Pastor Thursday at the Olympic and Danny refuses to fight me that means he's gutless."

Former Illinois receiver Rex Smith caught 11 passes for 190 yards in the 1952 game against Iowa.

Richest race at Hollypark

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Kentucky Derby may be America's most prestigious thoroughbred horse race but Hollywood Park has announced the richest race for 3-year-olds for its forthcoming season.

And it precedes the famed Churchhill Downs feature.

The Hollywood Derby is its name and it's scheduled for three weeks before the 1976 Kentucky Derby. It offers $200,000 in prizes and will be raced at 1⅛ miles on the Hollywood Park main track.

The Derby is set for April 10. F. E. "Jimmy" Kilroe, director of racing, said the new fixture, "in its new position two weeks after the Santa Anita Derby, will mean that the leading 3-year-olds, who may be Triple Crown bound, can race locally for more than $300,000 within a two-week period." The Santa Anita Derby is a $100,000-added race.

The idea, Kilroe said, was to kick off the Hollywood Park season in grand style, rather than simply wind up in a floarish as has been traditional. Thus the sophomore feature will be on the track's opening Saturday rather than late in the season after the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont have been run.

Hollywood Park will again offer a number of rich late-season races, however, including the $150,000 Swaps Stakes for 3year-olds after the Triple Crown is decided in the East. Kilroe said another $25,000 will be added to the purse if one winner of a Triple crown race enters and the purse will be increased to $200,000 if two or more of the Triple Crown winners enter. In addition, the $100,000-added Cinema Handicap also will be contested by the 3-year-olds during the Hollywood Park season. It'll be run in mid-July.

Kilroe said announcement of several other major changes on the Hollywood Park schedule would be made soon, including 3-year-old races such as the $60,000 Argonaut, the $50,000 El Dorado, the $50,000 Will Rogers and the $40,000 Coronado.

Big money for women golfers

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The 36-hole Triple Crown golf championship Saturday and Sunday is one of the few events of the year in which the last place finisher will still get at least $1,000 and perhaps as much as $6,000.

This last event on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour has the built-in lure of cash: only nine players will divide $50,000 or more. And the winner, in addition to a check for $15,000, will get a 1976 automobile.

The catch is that it'll be hard to recover from a poor first round. There are only two rounds and the first-round leader, in addition to holding a big edge toward the crown, gets $1,000 for leading at intermission.

The nine women were chosen from the top point winners at three international tournaments sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive Co., earlier this year — the Dinah Shore Winners Circle, the European Women's Open and the Far East Women's Open held last week in Melbourne, Australia.

The top point winner this year was Sandra Palmer, winner of the Dinah Shore and U.S. Women's Open titles. Following in order were Chako Higuchi, Carol Mann, Joyce Kazmierski, Jane Blalock, Joann Washam, Pat Bradley, Judy Rankin and JoAnn Carner.

Miss Bradley was the last one to make this field, by winning the Australian tournament. She birdied three of the last four holes there, just one year after joining the LPGA tour. She was the runner-up to Jan Stephenson for Rookie of the Year honors last year.

Miss Palmer, with $91,254 in winnings this year, could become the first women ever to win more than $100,000 in one LPGA season. Already she is virtually assured of breaking the all-time record for cash won in one year, Miss Carner's $91,972. All Miss Palmer has to do is finish to get the last-place prize.

The Triple Crown event will be contested at the 6,382-yard, par 72 Mission Hills Country Club at this desert recreation-oriented community for the second time. The first winner was Kathy Whitworth.

The final day of the tourney is to be televised nationally by ABC.

Sports briefs

SEATTLE (AP) — Jeff Heath, a baseball player who accumulated a .293 career batting average in 13 years, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 59.

Heath spent most of his professional career with the Cleveland Indians. He hit .343 in 1938, his second year in the majors, but was runnerup for the batting crown to Jimmy Foxx, who had .349.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Former major league catcher Russ Nixon was named Tuesday by the Cincinnati Reds to replace Alex Grammas on their coaching staff.

Manager Sparky Anderson said Nixon, a catcher from 1957 through 1968 with Cleveland, Boston and Minnesota, would coach first base with George Scherger moving from first to Grammas' third base post.

Grammas was recently named manager of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Nixon has been coaching the Reds' Tampa team in the Florida State League for the past five years. He was coach of Cincinnati's Sioux Falls affiliate in the Northern League in 1970.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Jim Bunning on Tuesday was renamed manager of the Philadelpia Phillies' Triple AAA International League farm team, which has been moved from Toledo to Oklahoma City for the 1976 season.

The 44-year-old former major league pitcher, who hurled a perfect game for the Phillies against the New York Mets in 1964, has been a manager in Philadelphia's minor league system for the past four years.

Bunning presently is managing Caguas in the Puerto Rican winter baseball league.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla (AP) — Preston Gomez, fired last season as manager of the Houston Astros, has been signed by St. Louis in a shakeup of the Cardinal coaching staff, it was announced today.

Gomez, who will coach third base, is one of three newcomers to the National League team's coaching staff under Manager Red Schoendienst, a team spokesman said.

Also joining the staff are Bob Milliken, Cardinals' farm system pitching instructor for the past five years, who will become pitching coach, and Fred Koening, manager of the Cardinals' Sarasota team in the rookie Gulf Coast League last season.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Colonels General Manager David Vance said Tuesday that the defending American Basketball Association champions have cancelled 11 remaining games that were scheduled to be played in in Cincinnati.

Vance said those 11 games will be played instead at Freedom Hall here.

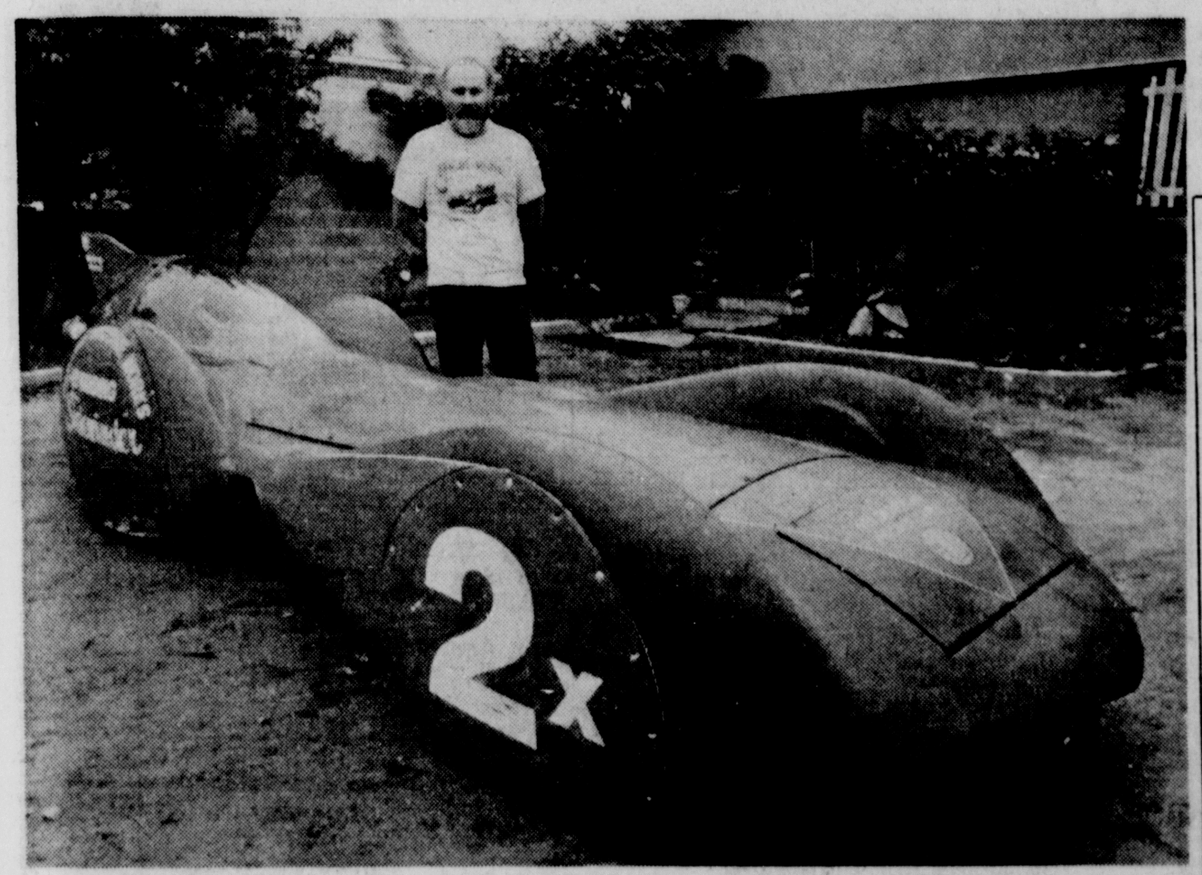
SPEEDSTERS — Pomona businessman Jim Lattin poses with three of his record-setting cars. Above are two Ford roadsters which set national speed records at the Bonneville salt flats in August. Below is the streamliner which Lattin recently purchased.



Pomona businessman has this record breaking hobby

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Jim Lattin has gotten deeper into speed driving.

The Pomona businessman (High-Grade Plating Co.) and two associates drove three cars to new records on the Bonneville, Utah salt flats in August.

Next year, Lattin plans to have four cars aiming at class records in the annual National Speed Week.

His latest acquisition is "The Redhead," the supercharged streamliner which still holds the X Streamliner record of 209 mile per hour. He is shopping for a sponsor now.

Lattin purchased the car from Ed Harding early this year. It was built by the Curtis Co. in 1963 at a cost of $61,000.

He plans to take it to El Mirage dry lake next April and test it. Currently the speedster has a flat head Ford engine in it. But Jerry Darien (Darien Fuel Injection) is building an Ardun overhead for the car.

Lattin has lived in the valley all his life and is the sole owner of High-Grade Plating, 1245 W. Second St. The business specializes in custom chrome work.

During the week, his time is devoted to his business, but on weekends he works on his own cars.

He and his associates, Ted Mitchell (T. Mitchell and Associates, Forensic Engineers of Upland) and Frank Hudson of Pomona took a 1929 Ford X class roadster, a 1969 turbocharged Ford (F street roadster) and a 1934 Ford (XX competition coupe) to Bonneville's famous salt flats.

On August 19, Lattin drove the '29 Ford to a "two-way flying mile-mile" average of 142.91 mph to set a new national record.

"You have to average the speed for each way over the course within one hour," Lattin explained. "I probably had to go 150 mph at times to average 142."

Frank Hudson took the '69 "F" roadster out and averaged 88.306 mph to set another national record August 20. The next day Ted Mitchell averaged 107.308 mph in the '34 three-window coupe, also a new national record for that class.

"Last year was our first try at it," Lattin said. "We took a 1953 Studebaker coupe. We didn't break any records, but we did figure out how to do it. Next year we plan to go again and take four cars.

The three record-breaking cars the trio took to Bonneville this year were fabricated at the High-Grade Plating shop this year over a period of six months.

Lattin got his tart as a drag racer.

"I've been in it for years," he grinned. "I ran at Irwindale and clear back to when Pomona, Fontana and Colton had drag strips. I'm almost to the point where I'm too heavy for it."

Lattin won the "C Gas" title in Pomona in 1955. He also has a 1932 Ford "street roadster" belonging to his son which the pair race at the Antique Nationals.

"That car was a consistant winner for six years," he said. "Last year was the first time it was ever beaten. But it won the street drag even this year."

Obviously, Lattin has thoroughly mastered his craft. No one should be surprised if the Streamliner breaks a record or records next year.

Gary Beck in Irwindale event

Irwindale, Calif. — Former World Champion Gary Beck of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada is the first entry in the Top Fuel category for the fifth annual "Grand Premiere" Drag Racing spectacular on Saturday and Sunday, January 3 and 4, at Irwindale Raceway.

Beck, who captured the world title in 1974, finished second in 1975 to superstar Don Garlits in the World Championship Top Fuel point standings. Beck, who captured this year's Fall-nationals in Seattle, hopes to start out the 1976 season on a winning note with the "Grand Premiere" title at Irwindale. Gary will again be seeking the World Championship in 1976 and should be the favorite with Garlits not attempting to repeat his 1975 performance.

In addition to Beck's accomplishments in 1975, Gary captured back - to - back U.S. Nationals Championships at Indianapolis in 1972 and 1973. In 1974, on his way to the World title, Beck captured the Winter nationals at Pomona, the Springnationals at Columbus, Ohio, and the Grandnationals in his home country, Canada.

Garlits considers Beck the toughest competitor he has ever faced in the Top Fuel class, and, in 1975, "Big Daddy" had to capture four nationals, including a record-breaking victory at the Supernationals at Ontario Motor Speedway, to hold off Beck's challenge.

Junior riders to get bikes

VALENCIA — Indian Dunes Grand Prix will be open to all classes from Minibikes to Old Timers, Sunday. The main emphasis will be on the Junior Riders. But other classes will be racing for regular purses and 100 per cent Trophies. The overall Junior winners will receive brand new 125cc Yamaha, Honda and Suzuki Motorcycles.

The two-mile course will include a Motocross Track, Sand Wash Hoop-Dee-Doos and Water Crossing over the Santa Clara River. The starting line will be in the wide sand area to accommodate the extra large starting fields. All classes will run a 45 minute race over the rugged Grand Prix Course.

Indian Dunes gates open at 7 A.M. with the Minicycle Class off the starting line at 8 A.M. followed by 100cc — Powder Puff and Old Timers at 9 A.M. 125 Intermediates and 125 Experts at 10. 125 Juniors at 11, 250 Intermediates and 250 Experts at 12, 250 Juniors at 1. 500 Int. & 500 Experts at 2, and the 500 Juniors at 3, rain or shine.

OMS reduces drag prices

Promotor Rodger Ward has reduced prices for his second drag racing program at Ontario Motor Speedway.

General Admission will be $3.00 for the races which are slated to begin Sunday at noon. "We have decided to go daytime for the next couple of months to provide more comfort for the spectators," said Ward.

Over 4,000 turned out for the initial program which was Saturday night, Nov. 8.

Sunday's slate calls for competition and modifieds along with bracket races.

Moto draws top talent

Auto racing

ANAHEIM — The cream of this country's motocross talent will be competing at the American Motocross Finals Saturday at Anaheim Stadium.

"This is going to be a battle between the best motocross racers in America," said promoter Mike Goodwin.

Goodwin also stated that the field of riders expected to compete in the event includes national champions Marty Smith, Jim Ellis, Tony DeStefano, Jim Weinert and Marty Tripes. $20,000 prize money will be divided by the winners.

Presence of these five riders guarantees a strong field for the first running of the American Motocross Finals. Smith, a Team Honda rider, is currently U.S. Motocross Champion in the 250cc, and Weinert (Yamaha) is 500cc champ. Jimmy Ellis, for Can-Am, was this year's winner at the Oly Superbowl of Motocross, and Marty Tripes, a Bultaco-riding legend at 19, has twice been Oly Superbowl victor.

"This kind of talent insures fierce competition," said Goodwin, "and we've made sure the course will be equal to the skills of these fine riders."

The course, estimated to cost $100,000 to design and construct, will cover the baseball field and beyond in Anaheim Stadium and will feature drops, jumps, steep climbs, and demanding sets of hairpin turns.

"It's going to be a brutal course," said Goodwin. "We took the most difficult conditions from a number of courses that exist in nature, and we engineered them together into one, man-made monster. It's like a combination of a roller-coaster and a stream bed. It'll be hell to ride on. These motocross racers will love it."

A fifteen-year-old motocross sensation from Arizona, Vic Darelik, Jr., has also qualified.

Darelik, who won the Arizona Open Class Motocross Championship for 1975, is the youngest rider to qualify for the $20,000 American Motocross Finals.

Jockey Walter Blum retired in 1975 with 4,383 winners. He began riding in 1953 and his mounts earned more than $1 million in purses for 12 years between 1963 and 1974.

The young Yamaha-riding champion from Phoenix joins a top field of American champions in the race.

Love it, they may not. But, with $20,000 and the American Motocross Finals crown at stake, the 25 riders who will be competing in Anaheim on December 13 will give the "man-made monster" all the speed and skill they possess, and the competition will be with the best racers from all across the nation.

Tennis serves

WHEN ARTHUR ASHE WALKED AWAY from his match with Ilie Nastase in Stockholm last week, he merely became another in a growing crowd of angered Nastase opponents. Players and the officialdom of tennis don't know how to put an end to the outbursts and insufferable antics of the temperamental Romanian. All except one. Clark Graebner, a top U.S. player a few years back, once found the answer during a tournament in Europe. Enraged by Nastase's behavior, Graebner stalked to the net and growled: "Stop that bleep-bleep stuff right now or I'm going to come over and deck you right here on the spot." Exit Nastase. End of match, end of antics.

OVER THE YEARS THE LOCAL AREA has spawned athletes who've gone on to No. 1 national rankings of one type or another (former record-holding pole vaulter Bob Seagren, Heisman Trophy winner Glenn Davis). But currently there's another top banana. Hat's off to Glendora's Lea Antonoplis, who is No. 1 in the recently released U.S. Tennis Association rankings for the Girls 16-and-under division.

It's a ranking Lea won't get to defend. In January she turns 17, so moves up to the 18-and-under level. It's not exactly a terrifying ascent, since the Glendora High junior also picked up the USTA's No. 3 ranking in that older division.

Not that junior tennis is the only thing on her mind these days. She just earned a share of the mixed doubles title in the local San Jose Hills Racquet Club tournament as the partner of Valley Racquet Club pro Mike Meissenburg. After competing in the Fiesta Bowl juniors tournament starting Dec. 27 in Phoenix, Lea will aim for the top. When the Virginia Slims circuit opens early next year in Portland, Ore., she'll enter the circuit's satellite tournaments in hopes of winning a place in the main events ("I'll take my school books along").

She also plans a trip to England and the Junior Wimbledon competition in June and in between all the major tournaments she'll perform again on the Glendora High varsity, with whom she posted a 27-1 record last year.

Last October at Mission Viejo, Lea gave her serve and volley game the acid test. Her opponent was Chris Evert and there was no doubt about who drank the acid. Evert, the human backboard, won 6-1, 6-1, but Lea takes the kind of positive view that makes you believe indeed the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Antonoplis does have a firm grip on her destiny.

"I didn't go in there to win," she says. "I intended to learn something and I improved a lot because of it."

MUST BE THAT THE TWO-HANDED BACKHAND is here to stay, after all. Look at what happened just last weekend. First, Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors — the queen and king of two-handed strokers — won the big mixed doubles match in Las Vegas. Then in the San Jose Hills tournament at Mt. San Antonio College, the singles champs turned out to be of that same ilk — former Los Angeles Strings player John Fort and tiny left-hander Stacy Margolin.

Miss Antonoplis was only one of several valley players who did well in the two-weekend event for open and C players. In fact, the C women's finals involved two area players in a tight match, with Pat Hardin of Glendora winning the title over Tracy Senior of Montclair, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. Sue Reed and Ann Baker, both Covinans and members of the sponsoring club, advanced to the C women's doubles finals where they lost to Audrey Smith of Van Nuys and Terry Westmore of North Hollywood, 6-3, 6-2. In C men's doubles the Hacienda Heights team of Jerome Torres and Dennis Skinner lost the finals contest against Rufus Howard and Rodney Bough, Altadena twosome, 1-6 7-6, 7-5.

In other championship matches not previously reported, Tim Giller of La Mirada won the C men's singles title over Widjanarko Oei of Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-7, 7-5, and Teresa Cervantes of Pico Rivera and Richard Hom of Norwalk defeated Vicki Scheuble and Pete Colias, Simi Valley pair, 7-5, 7-5 in C mixed doubles.

NO CHANGE IN THE FIRST PLACE POSITIONS in the Claremont tennis leagues, resumed last week after a holiday layoff. In the Saturday morning action Bob and Penny Daoust continued to hold a big edge in mixed doubles while Herb Hoskins and Jerry Bradley clung to the thinnest of margins in the men's doubles. The Daousts lead with 140 points, with Mike Bechard and Mary Fry second with 114 and Jim Jamieson and Bylle Whedbee third with 118. Hoskins and Bradley have the same one-point advantage over Dave Griffin and Jack Verheyden, 128-127, but something has to give this Saturday when the two teams clash head-on.

Jerry Gollin retains first place in men's singles with 123 points to Rick Escudero's 116 and John Moore's 115. Penny Daoust leads women's singles with 112 points, Sylvia Connelly having 94 and Sandy Walker 92. And Mrs. Daoust is even more of a runaway in women's doubles, where she and Isabelle Alba have 140 points. Mrs. Walker and Gerry Madorsky are far back in second with 116. B league leader is Barbara Sawyer with 102, ahead of the three-way second place tie among Mary Ann Zeffery, Nina Howard and Lorraine Harrison, 96 each. Carol Means leads Marilyn Howie, 99-96, in C women's.

ANOTHER BIG CHANGE AT THE POMONA VALLEY TENNIS CLUB. Besides the previously announced clubhouse construction and court additions, the facility on Upland's 15th Street will undergo a most basic change. Come Jan. 1, it'll have a new name — the Upland Racquet Club. Club pro Mary Hershey says one reason is that the community of Upland is prestigious enough to put some magic in the name.

The club, meanwhile, is doing well in the Inland Tennis League. A 15-6 win over visiting Redlands Sunday gave the locals a 2-0 record. Hersey won the top men's singles match, 107, over Don Leonard and the home team's Carolyn Soper tumbled Nancy Knees, 10-5, in the No. 1 women's match. The club's B team went to Redlands on the same day and defeated its counterpart there, 13-8.

Men's track coach at Dominguez Hills

Watson eager to start

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The track coach is barely 5-feet tall and 110 pounds, but athletes at Dominguez Hill State College shouldn't have any trouble relating to her stern training rules.

"I don't think I'll have any problems," said the coach, sporting a luminescent grin. "When I recruit, the kids get a chance to see in advance who I am. And if they have any hangups about me, they won't participate in the program."

Despite her size, Martha Watson isn't likely to get many rejections.

The American record holder in the long jump, Miss Watson has competed at three Olympic Games and many other U.S. international teams.

Now 29, the affable Miss Watson was named last week as the school's head track and field coach—for both men and women. It's believed the first time a woman has been named to coach men at the collegiate level.

The prospect doesn't bother her at all.

"I've dealt with men before in other jobs," she said. "I've worked with them in recreation and at track meets."

Teaching won't be a new experience for Miss Watson. For four years, she worked as a probation officer for misguided teenage girls in nearby Lakewood, where she also competed for the Lakewood International Track Club.

In the last year, she has been coordinator of girls and womens sports for the city of Carson.

Mike Kolsky, Dominguez Hills' new athletic director who also is only 29, chose Miss Watson because of her rapport with young athletes.

Last August, after Miss Watson and two others earned berths on the U.S. Pan-American Games team, a fourth girl, only 14, who had failed to make the team, sat far from the awards table sobbing quietly. Miss Watson walked over, put her arm around the girl and said softly, "Don't worry. There's a lot more years left in your career." On overseas tours, Miss Watson usually is the one who watches over the young girls.

"Actually, I haven't got a team to coach yet," she said. "I'm going to start recruiting on campus first, and then go to some of the local high schools. We haven't got any scholarships and we don't even have dorms."

Miss Watson, a world-class long jumper and sprinter, admits she knows little about things like the mechanics of the pole vault. "I'm going to spend a lot of time reading and talking to other coaches," she said. "At first, I'm just going to have a conditioning program. And Dave Rodda has offered to come out and help, too."

Rodda, the Lakewood International coach, said Miss Watson "won't have any trouble relating to the kids. She's great that way. And she won't have any trouble working out, staying in shape for the Olympics next year. That's something we had to make sure of before she accepted the job."

Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds paced the National League in runs scored in 1975 with 112, one more than Dave Cash of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mills applies at Utah State

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Utah State University is accepting applications until this evening for its head football coaching job, and one of the applicants so far is Chuck Mills, the Aggie coach from 1967 through 1972.

Mills, a former Pomona College coach, left USU for Wake Forest at Winston-Salem, N.C., of the Atlantic Coast Conference. He led Utah State teams to a 38-23-1 record during his years there.

The new coach, whom Athletic Director LaDell Andersen says he wants to name by next weekend, will replace Phil Krueger.

Krueger plans to leave after the first of the year to become an assistant under John McKay with the expansion Tampa Bay club in the National Football League.

Utah State so far has about four dozen applicants, most of them coaches now serving as assistants at major universities.

Penguins push unbeaten mark

The Penguins continue to dominate the standings of the Ontario Hockey Association.

They posted a 9-3 win over the Bruins last week at the Ontario Ice Bowl to push their unbeaten record to 7-0-0. Ken Berry led the way for the Penguins with three goals and an assist, while teammate Ron Kennedy had one goal and four assists.

Bruin goalie Jerry Keating kept the score as close as it was by stopping 44 Penguin shots on goal.

In other action in the OHA, the Flyers downed the Kings 10-7 as Vince Nuskin registered three goals and two assists for the winners and the Canadians beat the North Stars 12-5 as Kevin O'Keefe pulled the hat trick with three scores for the Canadians.

North Star skater Tom Wright accounted for four of his teams' five tallies.

The Move To Impeach Santa

CHAPTER THREE
By Robert J. Boyle

Santa was awfully quiet during dinner that night.

He was still pondering the problem of who he would get to represent him at the impeachment hearing at the UN.

Mrs. Claus said to him, "Santa, you've hardly touched your warm burgers. And your snow crystal soup is getting cold. What's wrong?"

The elves around the table looked up at him, too.

"Come on, eat," they said.

"I'm just not hungry tonight," he said.

"I know what's worrying you, Santa," Juniperperper said.

"Yes, I bet it is that darn impeachment thing," Jasper said.

"Don't worry about it," Jasman said. "There will always be Santa Claus."

"Yes," Jinkersnipes said. "You can't lose. You have the best lawyer in the world, James St. Goodness."

"That's one of my worries, elves," Santa said. "Jimmie can't represent me. He knows Evel Whone and has represented the Baadlands so it would be a conflict of interest."

"Who will you get to represent you?" Jinkersnipes asked.

"I don't know," Santa said. "But it is nothing to worry yourselves about. Christmas is the main thing and we'll have to work very hard to finish all the presents we will be giving this year."

"Santa," Juniperperper said. "I know who can represent you."

"Who?" asked Santa.

"I will," Juniperperper replied. "I know I can do it Jinkersnipes can help me."

"You," a flabbergasted Santa asked. "Juniperperper, you have no legal background."

"Yes, I do, Santa," he said. "Before I came to the North Pole I studied law at Blizzard University. In fact I once defended the Tooth Fairy from an unfair labor practice charge."

"I didn't know that," Santa said. "Did you win the case?"

"Certainly, Santa," Juniperperper said. "I proved that the Tooth Fairy had to work at nights. Naughty Princess said that it was unfair to make the Tooth Fairy work at nights and filed charges. But I showed the NFRB that the Tooth Fairy could only work at nights because that is when children sleep."

"What's the NFRB?" Jinkersnipes asked.

"The National Fairy Relations Board," Juniperperper replied.

"But Juniperperper," Santa said. "The UN is vastly different than the NFRB. It will be a lot tougher."

"But I'm sure I could win," Juniperperper said. "And Jinkersnipes could help me with research. I could get the other elves to help me, too."

"Gee, I don't know," Santa said. "They will have some very important lawyers on their side."

your first assistant. If you need any other elves to help you, just ask."

The other elves around the table cheered.

Mrs. Claus smiled and said, "Now that that is settled, let all of you get settled and eat your dinner. Santa, I'll get you a warm warm burger and another bowl of snow crystal soup."

"Sounds good," Santa said.

After dinner, Santa told the other elves to go into

"You?", a flabbergasted Santa asked

"I know, Santa," Juniperperper said. "But you can bet that when we elves appear before the UN we will be noticed, too. You know that no one would work harder in your behalf than the elves. We would work night and day for you."

"You're right there," Santa laughed. "Maybe your dedication will mean more than all the fancy lawyers and their arguments."

"Then I can do it, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Mmm, all right," Santa said. "Juniperperper, I officially appoint you my chief defense lawyer and I assign Jinkersnipes to be the TV room for hot chocolate and vanilla while he, Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes met to plan his defense.

Santa and the two elves went to Santa's private study.

"This is really nice," Juniperperper said. "I love your red leather couch and your red leather chairs, and that huge fireplace makes it nice and warm in here."

"Yes, it is nice," Santa said. "The elf Jodfer designed and built it for me several years ago. He made such wonderful toy forts for children, he asked for the chance to design this room. I'm glad that I allowed him the chance."

"Is that why you're giving us the chance to defend you?" Juniperperper asked.

"That's one reason," Santa said. "But I do have confidence in you."

"Santa, when will the impeachment hearings begin?" Jinkersnipes asked.

"December 12," Santa replied.

"That means they will have to be over by December 24 so you can make your trip Christmas eve," Juniperperper said.

"You're right," Santa answered. "We'll have to work hard because we haven't much time."

"We can make it," Juniperperper said.

"Santa, if the case goes against you that means there won't be any toys for boys and girls this year," Jinkersnipes said. "It means that there won't be any fun in Christmas."

"Don't talk like that," Juniperperper said. "We will win and there will be fun in Christmas."

"I certainly hope so," Santa said. "I wouldn't know what to do if I didn't have Christmas to look forward to. I would be lost."

"Well, all would be lost," Jinkersnipes said. "That is why we must win."

"We will, we will," Juniperperper said. "Now let's get to work."

Deputy acquitted, fired

VICTORVILLE (AP) — A former San Bernardino County sheriff's deputy has been acquitted of killing a neighbor's cat with a shotgun, but it was too late to prevent him from being fired by the sheriff.

Roger Loy, dismissed by Sheriff Frank Bland on Sept. 8, was acquitted Friday of charges he illegally destroyed an animal and discharged a weapon within 150 feet of a dwelling.

Mrs. Barbara Woodruff, a neighbor of Loy's, had signed the complaint stating he killed her cat.

During the trial, Loy testified he was asked by other neighbors to shoot the animal because it was believed to be a stray and a nuisance.

After his initial firing, Loy was ordered reinstated by the county Civil Service Commission because Bland had failed to provide written notice of the intent to fire. He was rehired last week and promptly fired again after the sheriff properly complied with Civic Service regulations.

D.B. homeowners elect new leader

Martin A. Spiegel of 22702 E. White Fir Lane, Diamond Bar, has been elected 1976 president of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association.

Carl Winfred is the new vice president, George Resh is secretary and John Kuiken is treasurer. Two new directors are Ron Forestel and Dale Baldwin.

Spiegel said committee assignments for directors the coming year will be announced at a board meeting which will be held Jan. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

"There are several priorities that this new board will be working overtime to accomplish this year," said Spiegel. "One will be a serious and definitive report on the Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) that may be the future form of government best suited for our community."

If approved, MAC would serve as a recommending body to the county Board of Supervisors.

Spiegel promised top priority to the enforcement of the restrictions that govern appearance and maintenance of property in the community.

Winfred said the community needs involved citizenry to keep Diamond Bar a "special community."

Malpractice law in effect Friday

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's new medical malpractice law takes effect this Friday. No celebrations are planned.

Instead, an insurance company is planning a huge rate increase. Thousands of Southern California doctors are getting ready to walk out. Trial lawyers are preparing to file suit against the law.

And that suit may succeed in overturning at least one key provision of the law, state Insurance Commissioner Wesley Kinder said in an interview last week.

The measure, by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, was passed during a special session of the legislature which ended Sept. 12. By law, it takes effect 90 days later.

Kinder said the bill eventually could cut malpractice insurance premiums by 30 to 33 per cent from what they would have been without it. But he said its $250,000 limit on awards for pain and suffering may be vulnerable.

"It seems to be a denial of equal protection," he said. "It applies to only one class of plaintiffs. If I'm injured in an auto accident, the sky's the limit, but not in a malpractice claim.

"Perhaps a better answer would be to extend the limit" to automobile insurance and other liability fields, Kinder said.

But that would run into opposition from the politically powerful California Trial Lawyers Association, which fought Keene's bill unsuccessfully in the legislature and is getting ready to battle it in court.

"We are seeking the proper case," said Elmer Low, the association's president. "I think it will probably have to go to the state Supreme Court."

Low said attorneys' groups are challenging malpractice laws in many of the 22 states which have enacted them. In Idaho, he said, a trial court recently overturned a law limiting malpractice awards to $150,000.

Meanwhile, some 9,500 Southern California doctors are awaiting Kinder's decision, expected early next week, on a 486 per cent premium increase by Travelers Insurance effective Jan. 1.

Many have threatened to withhold all but emergency services if the increase stands. A slowdown has already begun in some areas.

Some doctors are threatening to stop low-profit treatment of Medi-Cal patients. Others are reportedly planning to move, join the military, or quit practice entirely.

The increase would raise annual premiums for doctors in the highest-risk fields, such as neurosurgery, to more than $36,000. Kinder challenged it as excessive and is reviewing the company's defense of its figures.

Whatever his decision, he said, doctors are likely to be unhappy.

"The rates have been woefully inadequate for the last 10 years or more, and a sharp increase is inevitable," said the insurance commissioner, echoing findings of a state auditor general's report.

"Even if we say, instead of $36,000, maybe $26,000, I don't know if that's going to make much difference with the doctors...They've been getting quite a bargain in past years, and if my insurance increased in that amount I'd be protesting too."

Kinder said he can't do what the doctors want: make insurance companies take the reforms in Keene's bill into account now.

"Even if we knew it was absolutely confirmed in court as of today, there are so many other factors that I don't know that we could require anyone to reduce rates," he said.

"For example, the frequency of claims has been going up about 10 per cent a year, and with all the publicity there are going to be more claims. It's generally recognized there is probably only one claim for every four incidents of malpractice.

"So we don't know whether the reforms can offset an increase in claims plus inflation."

Besides the $250,000 ceiling, Keene's bill shortens the malpractice statute of limitations, limits attorneys' contingency fees, and adds a minority of non-physician members to a strengthened state Board of Medical Examiners. The idea is to cut insurance company losses by curbing multimillion-dollar awards for noneconomic losses, reducing the number of suits years after treatment, and cracking down on the few doctors whose frequent malpractice cases are paid for by the entire medical profession and its patients.

Insurance companies say the reforms won't be reflected in their premiums for at least a year. The California Medical Association, which supported the bill, says two to three years is a better estimate.

"We're enthusiastic about the bill, but right now doctors are concerned about their premiums," said a CMA spokesman, who asked not to be quoted by name.

"The CMA is not calling for a strike and will not. But we recognize there may be some individual physicians who decide they can't pay the premiums and may elect to withhold their services temporarily or permanently."

The spokesman said the doctors' best hope at the moment is doctor-owned insurance companies. Two are already operating in Northern California, and others are being started elsewhere.

Kinder said doctor-owned companies may handle an increasing amount of insurance as commercial firms leave the field. But he said doctors shouldn't expect the companies to cut premiums drastically, because they have to operate the same as a commercial company.

What about the demand of some doctors for the state to simply roll back premiums to the January 1975 level?

"I wouldn't mind that, if we could do it," Kinder said. "Then if that works, we can roll all our prices back to 1965 and cure all our inflation."

Bus passes for elderly, handicapped

The West Valley Transit Service Authority is selling senior citizen and handicapped person bus passes for West End residents this week.

Passes will be issued for a $3 fee today at the Ontario library, Thursday at the Chino library and Friday at Upland City Hall, from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

The passes are accepted on all buses operated by the WVTSA and the connecting San Bernardino Transit System Route 14. The county transportation department personnel will issue the passes which allow the holder to ride and transfer free of additional charge.

Interested persons may obtain additional information by calling the West End transit office, 988-1215.

Claims prison record will aid candidacy

MOUNTAIN VIEW (AP) — David Harris, the former Stanford University student body president who served a 20-month prison term for refusing induction into the armed forces, is running for Congress.

Harris, 29, announced Thursday he will seek the Democratic nomination to the seat now held by liberal Republican Paul N. McCloskey Jr.

The onetime anti-Vietnam war leader described himself as a "straight Democrat" and fiscal conservative and said he felt his prison record would be an advantage.

"I think," he said, "it's time we had a congressman who went to jail before he went to Washington — instead of after."

Deputy D.A. will speak

Joel Hoffman, deputy district attorney in charge of the Citrus Judicial District in West Covina, will address the San Gabriel Valley Law Post Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

Hoffman plans to discuss the function of the district attorney's office and will address the group in Division 4 of the Citrus Municipal Court.

Sponsored by Judge William Martin, the Law Post is designed for high school and college students who are interested in a career in the legal profession. The minimum age for membership is 14.

Burrell chosen

Ben Burrell, traffic referee for the West Valley Division of the Municipal Court, Monday was reappointed to a second one-year term on the Joint Powers authority for the Chino Civic Center by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

More prisoners want to act as own lawyers

By RICHARD BENKE
Associated Press Writer

The odds are against them, the courts discourage them, and prosecutors and public defenders disapprove of their legal dabbling. Still, jailhouse lawyers are growing in large numbers.

They have something they want to say. They are broke and can't afford a lawyer. They don't like their court-appointed public counsel. They want to learn about the law. They have lots of time.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, convicted of attempting to assassinate President Ford, chose to represent herself "in propria persona," as lawbooks call being one's own attorney. The court heard her views on ecology and a variety of other subjects before the privilege was revoked.

Other notables handling their own cases have included Symbionese Liberation Army members Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, convicted of murdering Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster; and former University of California philosophy professor Angela Davis, who was acquitted of murder charges stemming from allegations she supplied the gun used in a San Rafael, Calif., courtroom shootout.

Judges prefer to keep such cases to a minimum, fearing too many will clog the court calendar with lengthy semicompetent legal wrangling.

"The court discourages it (self-representation)," said Joan McIntosh of the public defender's office in Fresno, Calif. "It puts the courts in the position of teaching defendants the law." In the past, jailhouse lawyers had to convince a judge they were competent to handle their own defense, but as a result of a ruling handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court last June, a defendant need only be warned of the possible consequences if he proceeds on his own without a lawyer.

"Now you can have it for wanting it," said Stuart R. Rappaport, chief of the trial division of the Los Angeles public defender's office. But he warned: "Almost anybody who represents himself is going to be convicted."

Since the Supreme Court ruled on June 30 that Anthony Pasquall Faretta of Los Angeles had the right to be his own attorney the number of jailhouse lawyers has tripled in Los Angeles County.

In other urban areas, the recent trend also has been toward more prisoner self-representation, according to a spot survey by The Associated Press. Cumulative nationwide figures were not available.

"It's very fair to say that more residents of state prisons are seeking (their own) court relief following their conviction than in past years," said a prison official in Massachusetts, where a prisoners rights suit three years ago resulted in the creation of law libraries in jails and prisons throughout the state.

Jailhouse lawyers interviewed complain that public defenders are overloaded with cases and go along too readily with judges and prosecutors in bargaining for a guilty plea by the client.

"A defendant is going to demand every right in court," said Los Angeles County prisoner Dennis Rutherford. "I fired my lawyer, got a new hearing on my own and I won the issue that he lost."

"The public defender assumed I was guilty," said Joseph B. Garcia, 27, of Santa Monica, Calif., who got part of the robbery case against him dropped after firing his court-appointed lawyer.

"I made a deal and went to prison twice at the suggestion of the public defender. Never again," said Roy Newsome, 31, of Los Angeles, now on trial for escaping from a courthouse.

Rappaport denies he helps "railroad" defendants but agrees court-encouraged plea bargaining can undermine a defendant's confidence in his lawyer. "It compromises our position," he said. But he maintains jailhouse lawyers bring most of their troubles on themselves out of ignorance.

Some increase in prisoners' filing petitions, especially habeas corpus legal briefs asking release from custody, has been noted in New York, West Virginia, Missouri, Ohio and Nevada, although apparently no formal statistics on such cases are being kept.

The incidence of jailhouse lawyers in Illinois "mostly comes in political trials where someone wants to get his message across," said Henry Sheffler, an official with the Cook County public defender's office.

"I would guess political activist types charged with crimes will try to represent themselves because they want to interject whatever political ideology they have into the case — a forum for their own political beliefs," said Kenneth Wells, head of the public defender's office in Sacramento, Calif.

Most prisoners interviewed said they act as their own attorney for lack of money to hire private counsel.

"It's money," said Barry Mintzes, spokesman for the Michigan Department of Corrections. "Most of the inmates are able to file as indigents, so they don't have to pay court costs in filing."

The number of jailhouse lawyers in Los Angeles peaked at 55 following several court rulings favoring "pro per" defendants, those who represent themselves "in propria persona."

The boom ended when the Superior Court issued a memorandum of understanding cutting back on pro per privileges in 1972. Since the memorandum the number of inmates asking to represent themselves had fallen off substantially until the Faretta ruling last June.

"The judges got together and decided what was really necessary to conduct a defense," said Los Angeles County Jail Capt. James C. White, "and they substantially cut back the special privileges" — free phone calls, a paid investigator, paper and pencils, a typewriter and access to the jail law library.

One pro per defendant, Doyle Terry, convicted murderer of a Long Beach policeman, "even had coffee in his cell," said White.

Terry was a "law student" of jailhouse lawyer Caryl Chessman, the California Red Light Bandit turned author who was executed in the gas chamber in 1959 after 13 years of self-filed appeals.

"Terry was responsible for the first big pro per court order," said White. "Because of Doyle Terry we had the pro per law library and the general philosophy that pro pers could do everything real lawyers can do except go home at night."

Now Mary Poppins has 'written' a cookbook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press
Food Editor

The creator of Mary Poppins — that famous storybook nursemaid who chamrs her charges with her magical capacities and strict discipline — has her own rules.

When I asked her to autograph my copy of "Mary Poppins in the Kitchen," which her publishers had sent me on her behalf, she wrote: "Cecily Brownstone, with Greetings from P. L. Travers."

But when I asked her whether she would also autograph a neighbor's copies of "Mary Poppins" and "Mary Poppins in the Park," which I had brought along, she said firmly: "I didn't give these books, so I can only sign them." And she did exactly that. She crossed out the printed "P. L. Travers" on the title pages and wrote her name underneath — a curlicue linking the P and L and a canopy topping the T.

We were in the huge kitchen of the New York carriage house of Maurice Moore-Betty, an internationally known culinary consultant, celebrating the publication of "Mary Poppins in the Kitchen: A Cookery Book with a Story." For this book Miss Travers gathered recipes British children and their nannies have enjoyed over the years. Moore-Betty added more recipes and put them all in shape.

There was so much going on in that kitchen I didn't know where to turn first. Besides Miss Travers and her editor and Moore-Betty and his two assistants, there were eight 9- and 10-year-olds from the Bank Street School for Children plus their teacher, photographers and other newspaper writers. The children were clustered around Maurice, helping him make Apple Crumble and Candy Kisses. As they worked at a large counter, crumbling the Crumble and shaping the Kisses, they kept saying Mary Poppins would do this or Mary Poppins would do that. I longed to record their remarks about that remarkable character, but I was also greedily eager to talk with Miss Travers, one of the greatest of all writers of children's books. She was seated at a table a little distance from the counter. I made my choice. I sat down beside her.

"How did 'Mary Poppins in the Kitchen' happen?"

"My agent suggested the idea and after turning it around in my mind I decided to write the book."

"Are you going to write another Mary Poppins story?"

"If she comes back and tells me to. I never know what she'll want me to do. She never explains beforehand. Why should I go against her wishes?"

"Do you ever cook?"

"All the time."

"What do you like to cook best at present?"

"Chile con Carne. Very hot."

"How did you meet up with Chile con Carne?"

"I first ate it in Virginia." (In British fashion, Miss Travers said "et.".)

"What recipe do you use — the one from Virginia?"

"No, from the New York Times. But I add a few things of my own. I'm a great one for cooking with herbs. And I put a little sugar in everything. It brings out the flavor. I cook by ear. I change all the time."

"Do you think Mary Poppins would like Chile con Carne?"

"Yes, but she wouldn't have it too spicy for children."

"What cookbook does Mary Poppins use — Mrs. Beeton?"

"Oh no! Mrs. Beeton says 'Take 12 eggs and throw them away.' Mary Poppins uses 'Mary Poppins in the Kitchen.' I could have put in more recipies but I wanted to make them alphabetical and that limited me." (The Mary Poppins kitchen book has from one to five recipes for each letter from A to Z.)

The children were so eager to cook with Moore-Betty that they didn't pay any attention to us. But when the Apple Crumble was safely in the oven and the Candy Kisses were bedded down on a layer of powdered sugar, two of them — Cassie Garbus and Ralph Soll — came to talk with Miss Travers. Cassie asked, "Did you choose Julie Andrews to play Mary Poppins in the movie?" "Yes, together with Mr. Disney." "Does Mary Poppins have any children?" Ralph wanted to know. "No," Miss Travers answered in her brief, definite way.

At last the Apple Crumble and Candy Kisses were served. There was also Dundee Cake and Ladies' Cookies, cider for the children and a pot of tea for the grown-ups. Miss Travers accepted her cup gratefully and relished a slice of the superb Dundee.

Of course I wanted to talk more about Mary Poppins with Miss Travers. But I minded my manners and said, "I'm tiring you, aren't I?" "Yes, just one more question," Miss Travers answered and fixed her eyes on mine. So I asked one more and then our conversation was over. Miss Travers is like Mary Poppins: "You can't look at her and disobey her."

(The recipes mentioned above are in "Mary Poppins in the Kitchen: A Cookery Book with a Story" published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich.)

Football, ham good together

Whole hams and ham steaks, either cooked in the oven or prepared over an outdoor grill, prove just right for those who like their food and their football games. Hams take little preparation time and offer a variety of eating choices, from sandwiches to casseroles to scrambled eggs and soups.

GLAZED HAM WITH SAUCE

- 1 whole ham (about 10 pounds)
- Whole cloves
- 2 jars (10 ounces each) grape jam
- 2 teaspoons prepared hot mustard
- 2 teaspoons orange peel cut in slivers
- ¼ cup raisins

Place ham, fat side up on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes per pound for fully cooked ham, 18 to 20 minutes per pound for one which must be cooked before eating. Approximately 30 minutes before ham is fully cooked, remove ham from oven and score fat surface of ham lightly, cutting uniform diamond shapes. Insert whole cloves in the center of each diamond.

Combine grape jam, mustard and orange peel in a saucepan. Heat, stirring occasionally, until jam is melted and smooth. Baste ham with sauce. Bake 30 minutes longer. To serve remaining sauce with ham, add raisins and simmer several minutes to blend flavors. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

HAM STEAK IN CHABLIS

- 1 ham steak, 1-inch thick
- 8 whole cloves
- 2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- ¾ cup Chablis

Place ham steak in baking dish. Stud sides with cloves. Spread mustard on top and sprinkle with brown sugar. Pour wine over ham. Bake uncovered in 375-degree oven 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

It's a new line of party dips

Holiday entertaining

A new line of Knudsen Party Dips are on the market in time for Holiday entertaining. All seven popular flavors — French Onion, Blue Cheese, Clam, Green Chili, Garlic and Avocado (guacamole, both regular and hot) — are made with real sour cream.

In fact Knudsen real Sour Cream and other brand name ingredients such as American Original Clams and Ortega Chilies give them the flavor and body of homemade dips. And an inner seal on the carton protects the flavor and freshness.

Homemakers will find many other uses for these convenient delicious dips. The French Onion and Blue Cheese make flavorful toppings for baked potatoes and hamburgers.

The Green Chili is ready to use on tacos, enchiladas, burritos, and tostadas.

The Clam Dip can be used with fish as a change from tartar sauce. And all five can be used as salad dressings, giving the salad maker a lot of interesting variety.

For quick and easy snack trays spread these party dips on crackers or party breads, or stuff celery, cherry tomatoes, or other hollowed-out raw vegetables for bite-size tidbits.

HOW TO KNOCK A COLD AND CURB A COUGH ALL IN ONE CAPSULE.

It's called Dimacol.® And it goes one step further than ordinary cold capsules —it controls the cough, too.

Dimacol relieves your cough while it treats your cold.

Dimacol has ingredients that help clear your stopped-up nasal and sinus passages, loosen phlegm and bronchial secretions, and suppress coughs for 6 to 8 hours.

No sedatives or narcotics.

There are no sedatives in Dimacol to make you drowsy during the day. Dimacol contains no narcotics. And it's safe when taken as directed.

The medicine doctors prescribe and recommend.

You're not familiar with Dimacol. But your doctor is. It has been available for over 2 years.

During that time, Dimacol has been prescribed or recommended by physicians well over half a million times.

Available without prescription. Ask your pharmacist.

You'll find Dimacol in better drugstores and pharmacies. Look for it in the cold and cough remedy section. Or ask your pharmacist for assistance.

Homemade sweets extend warmest greetings

What a delightful way to say "Merry Christmas" when you're offering the traditional homemade Christmas sweets. Making good things to eat is certainly a part of the Christmas spirit.

Knowing that it just wouldn't be Christmas without a variety of sweets, especially when you are using those delicious tasting semisweet real chocolate morsels, the following recipes should be kept in mind.

These sweets are easy to make ahead of time. They are excellent as Christmas gifts, wrapped in colorful paper and tied with ribbon bows.

HOMEMADE SWEETS

CHOCO-CHERRIES

- 2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 measuring teaspoon salt
- 1 measuring teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 measuring teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 6-ounce pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ½ cup drained, chopped maraschino cherries

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In small bowl, combine flour, salt and baking soda; set aside. In large bowl, combine butter and sugar; beat until creamy. Blend in vanilla extract. Blend in flour mixture. Stir in chocolate morsels, nuts and cherries. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 7 dozen.

CHOCOLATE ORANGE WALNUTS

- 3 cups sugar
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2 6-ounce packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- 4 cups coarsely chopped walnuts
- 1 measuring tablespoon grated orange rind

In large heavy saucepan, combine sugar, water and orange juice. Cook over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil for 3 minutes (or until candy thermometer registers 230 degrees C.). Remove from heat and cool 5 or 6 minutes (or until candy thermometer registers 200 degrees C.). Add chocolate morsels and stir until mixture is smooth. Quickly stir in walnuts and orange rind. Spread in aluminum foil-lined 15 inch by 10 inch x 1 inch pan. Chill in refrigerator at least 1 hour. Cut into 1 inch squares. Makes 12 dozen candies.

CHOCO-NUT DAINTIES

- ¾ cup butter, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1½ measuring teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 egg
- 2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 measuring teaspoon salt
- 2 6-ounce package (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- 2 cups very finely chopped nuts

COOKIE: Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In large bowl, combine butter, sugar and vanilla extract; beat well. Beat in egg. Blend in flour and salt. Mix in ½ cup Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels. Shape into 2-inch logs, using a level teaspoon for each. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 10 to 12 minutes.

Let cookies cool while making Chocolate Coating.

CHOCOLATE COATING: Melt over hot (not boiling) water remaining 1½ cups chocolate morsels and 1 tablespoon shortening, stirring until chocolate melts and mixture is smooth. Dip ends of cookie into chocolate coating and roll at once in nuts. Place on waxed paper until set. Makes 7 dozen 2-inch logs.

The Reuben has a tasty cousin

Reuben's Restaurant in New York City, in its day known all over the country for its wonderful sandwiches, still holds sway. Although Reuben's departed from the scene some years ago, chefs recall the good things that originated there. One of these was a sandwich made of corned beef, Swiss cheese, sauerkraut and Russian dressing.

When we heard that a lecturer in the food and beverage department of the school of hotel administration at Cornell had developed a Reuben Turnover, we promptly asked for the recipe. Tried in our kitchen, our tasters were ready and willing to give it 10 stars! Along with a soup or salad and a fruit dessert, these turnovers make a hearty and delicious lunch or supper.

REUBIN TURNOVERS

Pastry, see below
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 2 tablespoons minced scallion (green onion tops)
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups well-drained loosely packed sauerkraut
- ½ pound (8 slices) Swiss cheese
- ½ pound (8 slices) cooked lean corned beef

Shortening or oil for frying

Prepare pastry; cover.

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the mayonnaise, chili sauce, scallion and paprika; add the sauerkraut and mix well. Tamp down in bowl and mark off into 8 equal portions.

Cut pastry ball into 8 equal wedges. On a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out one of the portions into a 7-inch round. On one side of the pastry round place a folded-over slice of cheese, a slice of corned beef (folded over if necessary) and a portion of the sauerkraut mixture. Lap the other side of the pastry over the filling so edges meet. Pinch edge to seal, then press edge with fork tines to crimp. Roll out and fill the remaining portions of pastry the same way.

Heat shortening in a deep-fat fryer, electric skillet or heavy saucepan, having the utensil no more than 1-3rd full, to 375 degrees on thermostat of utensil or on a frying thermometer. Fry turnovers, without crowding and turning once, until golden-brown — 4 or 5 minutes. Drain on brown paper, Serve at once. May be made about an hour (no more) ahead and reheated in a hot oven.

Makes 8 very large turnovers.

COOKING IS FUN

Pralined walnuts delight nibblers

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: At an evening gathering some delicious pralined walnuts were served with coffee. Because I had met my hostess only once before, I didn't like to ask for the recipe. Can you dig it out? — NIBBLER.

DEAR NIBBLER: I can and I have. The recipe is so quick and easy I'm sure you can duplicate it successfully. With the new crop of walnuts in the market now, yours is a timely request. — C.B.

PRALINED WALNUTS

- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 cups walnuts
- 1 cup sugar
- 1-3rd cup water
- ¼ cup light corn syrup

In a small mixing bowl stir together the salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; add walnuts and toss together well. In a heavy 2-quart saucepan stir together the sugar, water and corn syrup; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to a boil. Continue boiling, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 235 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a teaspoon of the mixture dropped into a cup of very cold water forms a soft ball that flattens on removal from the water — about 5 or 6 minutes. Remove from heat and add the walnut mixture; stir until syrup mixture begins to thicken and look opaque. Pour in a spreading motion onto a well-buttered cookie sheet; at once, using 2 forks, separate nuts into small clusters. Cool completely and store in a tightly closed plastic bag in a tightly covered tin box. Makes about 1 pound.

Note: Large broken pieces of walnuts with some halves, just as they come from a 1-pound see-through bag, are fine to use in this recipe.

'Rockefeller' means spinach in food circles

Oysters Rockefeller was the original dish. But since then, other foods cooked with chopped spinach have taken on the name Rockefeller, too. And Shrimp and Rice Rockefeller is a nice variation on that theme . . . baking rice and shrimp in a well-seasoned sauce with chopped spinach.

Shrimp, delightful though they may be, are expensive to serve all by themselves. But when combined with rice (which costs less than 3½ cents per half-cup serving) and other tasty and flavorful ingredients, just ¾ pound of shrimp will serve 6 to 8. Then give it an elegant name, and all will be impressed!

Rice is equally at home with less expensive meats, like chicken, and it even makes meatless dishes into something special, too, as in the recipes that follow for Chicken and Rice Casserole and Green Chiles Casserole. These are just a few of the ways that rice can help to make the most of the money spent for food without sacrificing flavor or nutrition.

SHRIMP AND RICE ROCKEFELLER

1 cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
12 ounces peeled, deveined raw shrimp, cut in half lengthwise
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
¼ cup sherry
3 cups cooked rice
1 can (8 ounces) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and drained
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Add shrimp and continue cooking until slightly pink, about 2 minutes. Stir in soup, Swiss cheese, and sherry; heat until soup is warm. Add rice, water chestnuts, spinach, lemon juice, and 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Season to taste. Turn into a greased shallow two-quart casserole. Sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake, uncovered at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, or until hot and bubbly. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

GREEN CHILES CASSEROLE

1 cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 can (4 ounces) chopped green chiles (less, if desired)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese

Saute onions in butter until transparent. Add remaining ingredients, reserving 1 cup cheese. Turn into a greased shallow two-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE

2 slices bacon, diced
1 cup cloves garlic, crushed
1 can (14½ to 16 ounces) tomatoes, chopped (about 2 cups)
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup cubed process American cheese
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas, thawed
3 cups cubed cooked chicken
3 cups cooked rice
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 to 4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Saute bacon, onions, and garlic until bacon is crisp. Add tomatoes, soup, and cheese. Heat, stirring constantly, until hot and cheese is melted. Stir in peas, chicken, rice, and seasonings. Turn into a greased shallow 2½-quart casserole; top with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

LIMPE-STYLE CRACKERS

One of the best variations of Crazy Crackers we've dreamed up:

1 cup white flour, stir to aerate before measuirng
½ cup medium rye flour, stir to aerate before measuring
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon powdered fennel seeds
¼ cup real (not imitation) mayonnaise
½ cup plain yogurt or commercial sour cream
1 tablespoon molasses
Grated rind of 1 orange, 1 tablespoon

Stir together the flours, soda, salt and fennel. Cut in mayonnaise until course crumbs form. Stir in yogurt, molasses and orange rind. Press firmly into a ball; cut into 8 equal parts. On a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll each portion to an uneven 8-inch round — 1/16th inch thin. With a fork prick all over at 1-inch intervals. Sprinkle lightly with extra salt. Bake 2 at a time on a large ungreased cookie sheet in a preheated 400-degree oven until blistered, spottily browned and dry — 6 to 7 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes 8 huge crackers.

Maple Walnut Cake

Maple Walnut Cake

One square layer is halved to make a loaf.

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter or margarine
5 cups sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg
1/3 cup milk
½ cup chopped medium-fine walnuts

Maple Frosting, see below

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter, sugar and vanilla; thoroughly beat in egg. Stir in sifted dry ingredients in 3 additions, alternately with milk, just until smooth. Stir in walnuts. Turn into an 8 by 8 by 2 inch cake pan that has been lined with buttered wax paper. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 25 minutes. Loosen sides and turn out on wire rack; remove paper; cool. Cut in half and fill and cover top and sides with Maple Frosting, putting together to resemble a loaf.

Maple Frosting: Beat together ¼ cup butter or margarine with ½ cup confectioners' sugar and 1-3rd cup maple syrup (preferably grade B or C); gradually beat in 1 cup confectioners' sugar or enough of it to make good spreading consistency.

Before baking, compare costs

Baking your own rolls costs less than buying the same items at the local grocery, but homemade biscuits and pancakes cost slightly more than those prepared from mixes calling only for the addition of a liquid.

According to an article in the Family Economics Review, published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, homemade yeast rolls cost 2.7 cents per serving as compared with 3.5 cents per serving for yeast rolls prepared from a mix. Brown-and-serve rolls cost 6.4 cents per serving. Ready-to-serve rolls are the most expensive, averaging 10.6 cents a serving.

Baking powder biscuits prepared from a mix are 3.6 cents a serving, with homemade biscuits averaging 3.8 cents per serving and refrigerated biscuits, 4.3 cents a serving.

Pancakes made from a mix to which only water was added were 7.9 cents a serving, while mixes calling for egg, milk and oil averaged 14.7 cents per serving. Homemade pancakes are 12.8 cents a serving, while the frozen variety are 32.6 cents a serving.

The article defined a serving as two biscuits, three pancakes or one roll.

To help cut the cost of baked goods, the consumer should:

— Compare prices in several stores.

— Look for "specials."

— Compare different brands.

— Look for markdowns on ready-to-eat baked items.

— Note what ingredients must be added to mixes.

Baked goods are part of the breads and cereals group of USDA's Four Food Group system for balancing the diet. Other groups are milk, meat, and vegetables and fruits.

Nutritionists recommend choosing breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or restored, or made from whole grain or enriched flour. Bread made with milk, and cereal eaten with milk offer additional food value contributed by milk. Foods that belong to this group other than common breads and cereals are grits, cornmeal, rice, tortillas and pastas.

Nutritionists advise eating a variety of foods daily.

Heavenly Cake recipe, picture together at last

Travelers to Italy are sometimes puzzled when they spy Zuppa Inglese listed under desserts on menus. As any tourist possessing an Italian dictionary or phrase book knows, zuppa means soup.

Zuppa Inglese, one of Italy's elegant desserts and a specialty of many fine Italian restaurants in this country, literally translates as English soup. In reality, however, it is an irresistible liqueur-soaked cake which probably started out as a variation of English trifle. Of course, if the cook pours the liqueur with a generous hand, a soup spoon might be more appropriate than a dessert fork when the time comes to enjoy this beloved dish. In any case, Zuppa Inglese is scrumptious eating and a fabulous way to finish dinner.

Our version, Zuppa Amaretto, or Heavenly Cake calls for layers of yellow cake or sponge cake to be sprinkled with Amaretto di Saronno, the legendary Italian liqueur that's turning up at more and more parties these days. Other embellishments include a luscious custard, apricot preserves, whipped cream and candied fruit.

The great thing about this dessert is that a hostess can devote just as much time to it as her schedule allows. If she wishes, she can prepare the layers from scratch. If every minute counts, then she can purchase the layers and get creative from there on in. Either way, Zuppa Amaretto is certain to be a success.

Another popular Italian dessert that begins with a Z is zabaglione or zabaione, depending upon which spelling you prefer. It's particularly delectable when made with Amaretto di Saronno and served atop vanilla ice cream.

HEAVENLY CAKE

2 9-inch yellow cake layers or sponge cake layers
¼ cup cornstarch
½ cup sugar
2 cups milk
2 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon each vanilla and rum flavoring
¾ cup Amaretto di Saronno
1 jar (12 ounces) apricot preserves
2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream
¼ cup Amaretto di Saronno
1 3 cup chopped mixed candied fruit

Split each cake layer into two thin layers. In a saucepan, mix cornstarch and sugar. Gradually stir in milk and beaten eggs. Stir over low heat until pudding bubbles and thickens. Cool and then stir in vanilla and rum flavoring. Cover and chill. Place 1 cake layer on a cake plate or serving platter. Sprinkle with 1/3rd of the Amaretto di Saronno and spread with 1/3rd of the apricot preserves, followed by 1/3rd of the custard. Continue layering, ending with plain fourth cake layer. In a bowl, whip cream and Amaretto di Saronno until stiff. Spread mixture over the top and sides of the cake. Sprinkle outer edge of top with candied fruit. Chill until ready to serve.

HOT AMARETTO ZABAGLIONE SUNDAES

4 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
¾ cup Amaretto di Saronno
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Beat egg yolks and sugar with wire whisk or rotary beater in top part of double boiler until light in color. Place over simmering water and gradually add Amaretto di Saronno, beating constantly. Continue to beat until mixture begins to thicken. Serve hot over vanilla ice cream. Makes 4 servings.

Judge bows to science

LOS ALAMOS, N. M. (AP) — Paul VanderMaat, in front of a judge to answer a speeding ticket, argued that the ionized air that precedes a thunderstorm affects a speed radar unit.

He said that he was charged with traveling 33 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour speed zone, but that a thunderstorm struck in the area some 15 minutes after he was ticketed.

Municipal Judge Raymond E. Hunter said that made sense, likening it to static on the radio and saying that static electricity in the air could bend the otherwise straight radar beam and result in a false reading.

He found VanderMaat innocent.

Both are theoretical physicists at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

The speed of light, established as an astronomical constant by the International Astronomical Union in 1964, is 299,792.5 kilometers per second.

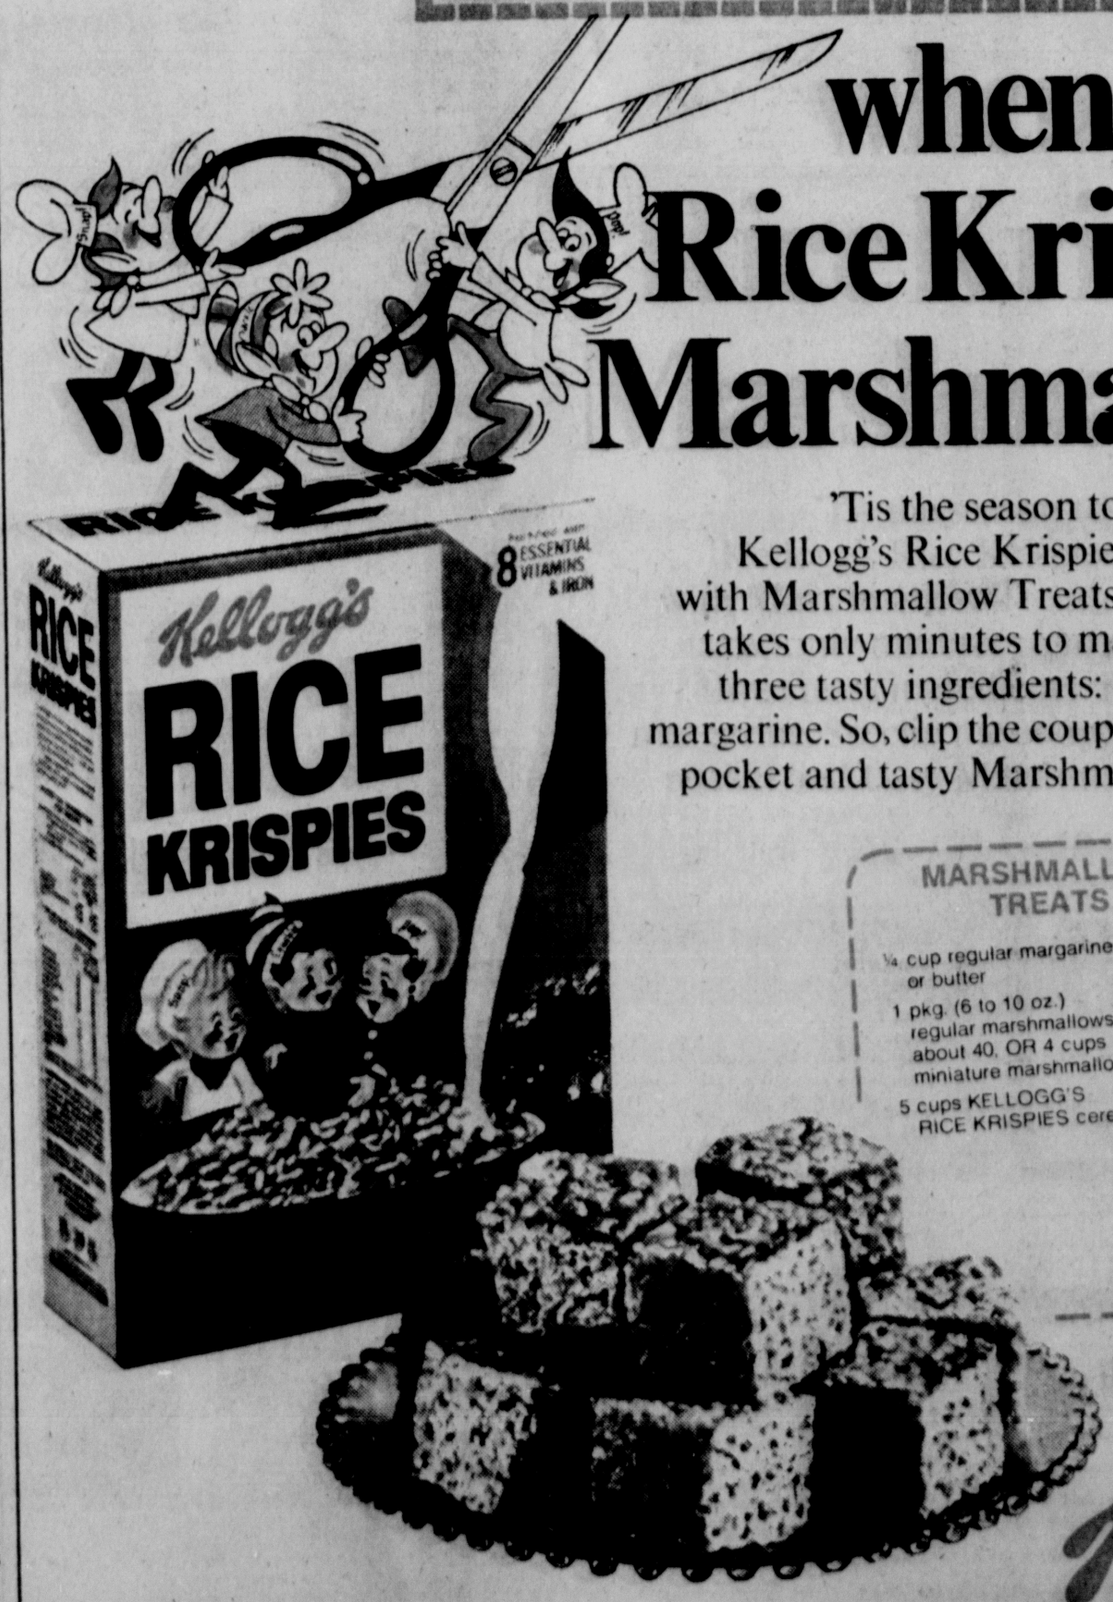
when you put Rice Krispies in your Marshmallow Treats.



'Tis the season to enjoy an extra savings on Kellogg's Rice Krispies and extra-good Holiday eating with Marshmallow Treats. This delicious, crunchy confection takes only minutes to make. Requires no baking. Uses just three tasty ingredients: Rice Krispies, marshmallows and margarine. So, clip the coupon and easy recipe. Put a dime in your pocket and tasty Marshmallow Treats on your Holiday table.

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

¼ cup regular margarine or butter
1 pkg. (6 to 10 oz.) regular marshmallows, about 40, OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Melt margarine in large saucepan over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.
2. Add Rice Krispies cereal. Stir until well coated.
3. Using buttered spatula or waxed paper, press mixture evenly and firmly in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: 24 squares, 2 x 2 inches

NOTE: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow creme may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Proceed as directed in step 2 above

Apple pie may face fight to hold it s position

It's downright un-American to challenge the supremacy of Apple Pie as America's number 1 dessert favorite. But it could be toppled from that position. The number of apple recipes is topped only by the number of apples that are coming to market now.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reports the commercial apple crop this year to be the largest on record. According to marketing specialists with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, the total apple crop is expected to reach 172 million bushels.

Different apples do different things. Each variety has its own distinctive taste, texture, and color. The names most frequently seen and most generally available on the market include Red and Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, Jonathan, McIntosh, Winesap, Northern Spy, York Imperial, Cortland, Stayman, Newton, and Gravenstein.

Usually the firmer fleshed apples are preferred for baking, while tart or slightly acid varieties are used for pies and sauces. But, it's a matter of individual taste.

Whatever the variety or color, all apples adapt to just about any cooking method — bake, boil, broil, fry, or simmer. They're versatile for any meal and all the snack times in between. They can zip up a salad, pretty up a meat dish, add zest to a breakfast, and put a smile on your face.

APPLE RICOTTA REFRIGERATOR CAKE

- 1 frozen pound cake
- 1 pound ricotta (Italian cottage cheese)
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, grated
- 1 cup freshly grated raw apple
- Few drops almond extract
- 1 cup whipping cream
- ½ cup broken walnuts

Thaw pound cake; cut crosswise in thin slices. Combine ricotta and sugar; mix well. Stir in chocolate, apple and almond extract. Spread generously between cake slices, putting together in loaf shape. Chill several hours or overnight. Just before serving, whip cream; frost top and sides of cake. Sprinkle walnuts over top. To serve, slice on the diagonal. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

APPLESAUCE AMBROSIA

- 1 can (1 pound) applesauce
- 2 bananas, sliced
- 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges
- ½ cup slivered roasted almonds
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- Whipped cream

Combine all ingredients except cream; chill. Serve in dessert glasses topped with whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

FOOD FOR NO FRILLS FLIGHTS

The new "no frills" flights offered by a number of airlines are sending passengers scurrying aboard with a brown bag lunch in hand . . . hopefully, not off on their vacations with food poisoning. But, unfortunately, the "brown bag blues" have reached the sky.

The "brown bag blues" is the name for headache, abdominal cramps, vomiting, nausea, fever, and diarrhea which may develop within 12 to 36 hours after eating contaminated food. These symptoms last from two to seven days. Food poisoning is caused by harmful bacteria that thrive well in lukewarm foods — exactly what most bag lunches contain.

It's all too easy to be a little careless in preparing a bag lunch, especially in the rush of getting ready for a business trip or vacation. Lunch becomes a piece of chicken hurriedly wrapped in plastic and shoved into the nearest brown bag. Sound familiar? The moderate temperature inside the bag is perfect for bacteria growth, whether a few thousand feet up in the sky, or right down here on earth. Unless certain precautions are taken in preparing and handling the lunch, the brown bag blues may turn your vacation into a bout with food poisoning.

Harmful bacteria are easy to control with a few simple precautions. Safe brown bag lunches begin at home with careful preparation. Heat, cold, and cleanliness are the three best weapons against food poisoning.

Make sure all meat and pultry products used in lunches are thoroughly cooked to destroy bacteria that may be present. That's the heat. But there is always the possibility of recontamination. That's when you need cleanliness. Clean hands, clean countertops, and clean utensils are especially important in preventing the spread of bacteria. Always wash your hands, cutting boards, and utensils after handling raw meat or pultry and before handling cooked meat or pultry. Recontaminated cooked meat, especially if it is warm, provides an ideal haven for bacteria to grow. Put it in the refrigerator soon after cooking, don't let it cool at room temperature. There's your use of cold.

Also, don't fix lunches if you have cuts or sores on your hands unless you wear plastic or rubber gloves.

These three guidelines — keep it hot, keep it cold, and keep it clean — when applied to the preparation of brown bag lunches — can eliminate a lot of what passes for "the flu" or "some bug that's going around."

Leave your brown bag lunch in the refrigerator for as long as you can before going to the airport. If your flight is long, it might be a good idea to use a freezer gel container — or make one from a plastic margarine tub, cleaned out, filled with water, and frozen. Put your iced container in the lunch bag in the morning and it will keep the food cool until lunch time. Just make sure you put the lid on tight — or you may end up with safe but soggy sandwiches!

An insulated lunch box or pail — one that can be easily cleaned out — is the best way to carry your lunch since it can hold the chill from your freezer gel devices longer. Second best to the lunch pail is an insulated paper sack designed especially for lunches. If you use grocery bags you may be asking for trouble; they could be contaminated from raw meats or other food products.

Although some airlines offer hot and cold beverages for sale on board, you may want to bring hot soup or other hot dishes. When brought to a boil, soup is too hot for bacteria, but if left to become lukewarm it is an excellent place for bacteria to grow. Therefore, it is important to keep the soup piping hot in a thoroughly clean, insulated thermos bottle.

If you don't want to complicate your travel with a thermos or lunch pail, there are alternatives. You might try freezing certain types of sandwiches, though you may experience some loss of quality. Frozen sandwiches thaw in time for lunch, yet spread their coolness to other foods. Frozen, foil-wrapped turkey or chicken make a welcome change from sandwiches. Hard cooked eggs, with the shell left intact to preserve the natural sterility of the eggs, are good too.

Whenever refrigeration isn't available, it is important to give extra consideration to foods for portable lunches. Canned foods are excellent — if the can is properly sealed and is not dented or bulging.

Gift-making made easy with make-ahead mix

A gift from your own kitchen is something no one else can give. Even though the holiday season is the busiest of all, using a convenient baking mix will help you with your gifts.

Bake-It-All Mix combines flour, salt, baking powder and pre-creamed shortening in proportions that are right for all kinds of baking from cookies to quick breads. Once made, the Mix can be kept in the cupboard ready to use.

An afternoon spent baking will yield a variety of tasty treats for wrapping and delivering to friends or for offering to drop-in guests.

Kids of all ages will welcome a platter of peanut butter criss-cross cookies and frosted chocolate drops. For a heartier cooky-type treat, bake a pan of gumdrop bars or gingerbread. Either one can be cut into squares and packed into a pretty tin for gift giving.

A loaf of date-apple bread on a little cutting board makes a tasty, use-again gift. Attractive choices for giving or serving are a fruit-filled danish-style coffee cake or a raisin-studded yeast batter coffee cake. All are made with the Bake-It-All Mix.

BAKE-IT-ALL MIX

- 2 cups shortening
- 9 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ cup (4 tablespoons) double-acting baking powder

Combine sifted flour, salt and baking powder. Stir well. Sift into a large bowl or pan. Add shortening. Use a pastry blender to distribute shortening throughout dry ingredients until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal and small peas. The Bake-it-all Mix is now ready to use or store in a canister on your cupboard shelf. A cool area is desired.

FROSTED CHOCOLATE DROP COOKIES

- 3 cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- 2 eggs
- Scant ½ cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Break eggs into bowl; beat. Stir in milk, sugar, chocolate and vanilla. Add mix. Beat well, until batter is smooth. Drop from a teaspoon onto a cooky sheet, 2 inches apart. Bake in a 350-degree oven 10 minutes. Cool. Frost and decorate as desired.

GUMDROP BARS

- 2 cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2/3 cup packed brown sugar
- 2/3 cup finely cut gumdrops

Break egg into bowl; beat. Stir in water, vanilla, sugar and gumdrops. Add mix and blend thoroughly. Spread batter into an 8- by 8- by 2-inch pan, bottom rubbed with shortening. Bake in a 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Cut into bars.

GINGERBREAD

- 2 cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ cup milk
- 1 egg
- ½ cup dark molasses

Combine mix, sugar and spices in bowl. Add milk and beat until well blended, almost smooth. Beat in egg, then molasses. Pour into an 8- by 8- by 2-inch pan, bottom rubbed with shortening. Bake in a 350-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes.

DATE-APPLE BREAD

Yield: 9 by 5 by 6 3-inch loaf

- 3 cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¾ cup applesauce
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped dates

Combine all ingredients except mix. Add mix and beat to blend thoroughly. Turn into 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan, bottom rubbed with shortening. Bake in a 350-degree oven about 50 minutes. Let stand about 10 minutes, then turn out on rack to cool. Twelve hours' storage improves flavor and texture.

DANISH-STYLE COFFEE CAKE

- 1½ cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1/3 cup fruit preserves
- 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts
- 1 tablespoon raisins
- 2 tablespoons Bake-It-All Mix
- 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar

Add milk to 1½ cups mix and stir until all of mix is moistened. Turn onto a sheet of waxed paper and knead well 6 times. Place dough on lightly floured pastry cloth or board and roll to make an 11- by 7-inch rectangle. Transfer rectangle to cooky sheet. With a knife, make angled 1-inch parallel slits along each of the long edges, starting ½ inch from the edge. Combine preserves, nuts and raisins for filling. Spread about a fourth of the filling along each inside edge of slits. Fold slit sides over to meet in the center. Seal ends and spread remaining filling over the center where edges meet. Combine 2 tablespoons Mix and brown sugar. Sprinkle generously over filling. Bake in a 425-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve warm.

BATTER COFFEE CAKE

- 2 cups Bake-It-All Mix (do not pack)
- ½ package dry yeast
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 egg
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup raisins, chopped
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Frosting

Stir dry yeast into 1 cup mix. Bring milk to boiling point. Cool to lukewarm and add sugar and water. Add to mix-yeast mixture and beat well. Add egg and vanilla. Beat well. Add remaining mix to make a stiff batter. Beat thoroughly until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place until bubbly, about 1 hour. Meanwhile combine raisins, sugar and cinnamon. Stir into raised batter. Drop by spoonfuls into two 8-inch round pans, bottom rubbed with shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in 375-degree oven about 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from pan. Drizzle frosting over top, if desired, and serve.

WARM GIFTS FROM OVEN

Salad oil cuts foam

To cut down foam when cooking dried beans and peas, try adding a little salad oil to the cooking water.

Try slow cooker for jambalaya

The hottest selling kitchen appliance in America now is the crock cooker or slow cooking pot. While noted for cooking all day without attention, the low-temperature involved makes it perfect for cooking shrimp.

All shellfish, and especially shrimp, become tough and tasteless if cooked at high temperatures for too long. The 200-plus degree heat of the slow cooker brings out the best in dishes like Shrimp Jambalaya which combine a variety of flavors in historic Creole style. It's a perfect party idea which will cook without attention for half a day during this busy season.

And the dish is a classic. Jambalaya, derived from the Spanish word "jamon" for ham, was introduced in New Orleans by the Spanish in the 1700s. Native Creole cooks added the abundant local shrimp to the recipe and eventually substituted bacon for ham. Many versions are enjoyed today, but this is a festive way to prepare the Jumbo Bay White Shrimp from Mexico's Gulf of California found frozen in the market all year long.

Traditionally, the cooked seafood and rice mixture is served blended together. But for entertaining, a beautiful buffet idea is to cook the rice separately and form it into a large ring on a heated deep platter or large bowl. Spoon the shrimp and sauce into the center and garnish the dish with sprigs of green parsley.

For prolonged buffet service, remember that the uncover-ed slow-cooker, set on low, will act as a food warme and hold the Shrimp Jambalaya well for several hours. The food will not overcook if the lid is left ajar or off.

CROCKED SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

- 1½ pounds Jumbo Bay White Shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 4 slices bacon, diced
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1 green bell pepper, chopped (optional)
- 1 4-ounce can pimiento, diced
- 1 28-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
- 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ teaspoon marjoram
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups cooked rice

In a skillet, saute bacon until almost crisp. Stir in onion, garlic, and pepper, cooking until soft. Remove from heat. Stir in pimientoes, tomatoes and seasonings, blending well. Place shrimp in bottom of crock cooker and pour over sauce mixture. Do not stir. Cover and cook 4 hours at low heat. (Do not lift lid.) Turn heat to high and stir in rice. Cover and cook 30 minutes. Serve hot.

STOVE TOP RECIPE

Use the same ingredients as in the crock cooker recipe. Saute bacon, onion, garlic and pepper in the bottom of a heavy kettle. Add pimientoes, tomatoes and seasonings and bring to a boil. Stir in shrimp and reduce heat to low. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Stir in rice and cook a few minutes longer to be sure rice is hot.

Special diets need experts' solutions

When you are in the hospital and on a special diet, the doctor and dietitian worry about what you eat. But when you are sent home and told to stick to your special diet, you may face a severe problem of what you should eat and how much of it. That question in the past 10 years has been answered partially by special diet books prepared by medical and nutritional experts.

"Today these diet books by known experts make it possible to carry on at home a hospital diet for such diseases as diabetes, kidney and heart trouble, etc," states Ralph A. Nelson of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

"These expertly written books may drive off the market those books by self-styled doctors and fad enthusiasts who often do harm by their imagined medical knowledge. This certainly is a boost for people entrusted with providing daily special food for themselves," says Dr. Nelson who is associate professor of nutrition in the department if internal medicine.

Dr. Nelson further says, "Food that is safe to eat, food a patient can enjoy, diets that are made up largely from regular supermarket items — all carefully woven into proper diets for specific diseases — so that the patient at home can now look forward to 'a meal; rather than a collection of items that either bores or becomes almost inedible.

That is why I actually am happy over these new developments. Today, the special know-how of the physician, nutritionist and dietitian are all being used together and the patient can continue his hospital diet in his own kitchen."

The Mayo Clinic Renal Diet Cookbook recently has been published by Dr. Nelson and three other specialists at the Mayo Clinic.

When you consider that eight million people in the United States have some form of kidney disorder, the need for this book is obvious. Beside Dr. Nelson, the authors are Dr. James C. Hunt, Dr. Carl Anderson and Joyce Daly Margie, a research nutritionist formerly with the Department of nutrition and nephrology of the Mayo Clinic. Dr. Anderson's specialty is renal (kidney) diseases. Dr. Hunt is chairman of the department of medicine. These specialists spent 10 years compiling The Mayo Clinic Renal Diet Cookbook.

World grain production keeps pace with people

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite record wheat and corn crops in the United States this year, world agricultural production over-all has just about kept pace with a 2 per cent increase in population.

But the Agriculture Department says that an encouraging note was the 5 per cent gain in agricultural output of developing nations that actually outpaced population gains in those countries.

The department's Outlook and Situation Board said Wednesday that the figures for world output, for developing or developed countries, did not include the People's Republic of China. But officials said "indications also point to a good agricultural year" in that country.

Production dropped slightly this year in developed countries because "the substantial recovery of U.S. and Canadian production was not enough to offset a sharp drop in the Soviet Union and more modest setbacks in Western and Eastern Europe," the report said.

Most of the world's 1975-76 grain harvest is completed, officials said. Total grain output is expected to be about 2.5 per cent above last year, although that is not as large a gain as predicted eight or nine months ago, before prospects declined in the Soviet Union and other areas.

Even so, "the continued growth in grain consumption will probably require a further small drawdown in world grain stocks" and leave world reserves at a relatively low level by the time new crops are ready next year, the report said.

Meat production continues to climb in major exporting countries of the southern hemisphere — which includes Australia, New Zealand and those in Latin America — and is presenting a surplus problem in those countries.

One versatile recipe fills many holiday needs

The joyous holiday season is almost here. Soon holy wreaths will be hung on doors, Christmas trees will glisten with tinsel and ornaments, and Santa will pay his annual visit. This is the season for parties and merrymaking, for feasting and baking.

But how do you bake all those Christmas goodies and still have the time and energy to enjoy the holiday season yourself? It's a perennial problem — but this Raisin Bonanza Batter can help.

It's easy and so versatile! From one recipe you can make cake or cookies, steamed pudding or an aged fruitcake. Double the batch and you've got two treats — one to keep and the other to give as a nice gift.

Raisins are basic in your holiday baked goods, but don't limit them to Christmas foods only. They can be stored and used later in salads, sauces and desserts — or they're great just for snacking.

Keep raisins in a sealed container and in a cool place. If properly stored they will keep their color, flavor and nutritional value up to 15 months. Raisins also freeze well.

RAISIN BONANZA BATTER

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg
1½ cups raisins
¼ cup chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon grated orange peel (optional)
2 eggs
1½ cups unsweetened applesauce (15-ounce jar)
½ cup cooking oil

Sift dry ingredients (9) into large mixing bowl. Blend in raisins, nuts and peel. Add remaining ingredients; then beat just until smooth. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch bundt or tube pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes more, or until cake tests done. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Invert onto cake rack and cool completely. Before cutting, sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired.

Variations

BAR COOKIES; Spread batter in greased 13x9-inch cake pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cool slightly before cutting.

AGED FRUITCAKE Brush surface of warm cake with 2 tablespoons brandy. Wrap in cheesecloth, then in foil. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Store in refrigerator or freezer until needed, repeating the brandying process each week, if desired.

White House unveils new consumer program

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least one agency of the Agriculture Department plans to set up a speakers' bureau as part of a new drive by the Ford administration to keep consumers better informed of goings on in government.

The consumer program was unveiled by the White House last week. The USDA is among 17 departments and agencies included in the plan, seen by some critics as a move to justify Ford's expected veto a bill that would set up an independent consumer agency.

Over-all, the USDA's "consumer representation plan" calls for each department agency to be responsible for "using appropriate procedures for informing consumers about ongoing activities as well as emerging issues."

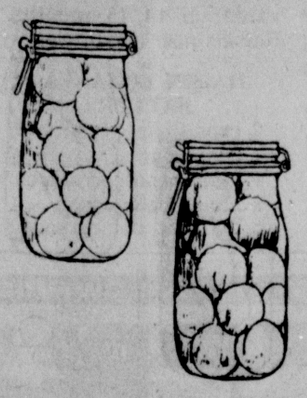
Besides giving "full consideration" to consumer views in making decisions, each agency will be held accountable for telling the public "the rationale behind those decisions" by using whatever means available to spread the word.

The department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) says that in addition to existing methods of informing consumers — including news releases, briefings and official publication in the Federal Register — further steps should be taken.

Among those, APHIS said, is a plan to "establish a formal mechanism to provide speakers to interested groups at relatively short notice" on a variety of subjects. The agency's functions include meat and poultry inspection, animal and plant quarantines, and disease and pest control programs.

"The speakers will be key APHIS officials who will be selected for their knowledge and speaking ability as well as their willingness to keep current on APHIS programs and speak on very short notice," the agency's plan said.

Also, the agency said, "dialogue with consumer reporters" will be increased. "While some informal contacts have been maintained, the communications with this important channel to the consuming public will be expanded and made more permanent," officials said.



But there are obstacles to all this, the agency's proposal said. It will cost more money, for one thing, and current budget restraints are holding down prospects for any significant expansion.

"At present, budgets are strained just to keep up with current programs," the report said. "We suggest that department officials remain sensitive to the growing need for consumer representation in agency programs and give favorable attention to budget requests which seek to implement plans to meet the need."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising affluence in the oil-rich Middle East has produced brisk sales of Australian mutton and lamb to those countries, the Agriculture Department said today.

Sales of Australian mutton totaled 45,000 metric tons in calendar 1974 and may rise to about 70,000 tons this year, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a weekly report. Sales of live sheep also are up, along with lamb meat.

The report, by U.S. agricultural attache Harlan J. Dirks stationed in Canberra, said that strong sales to Saudi Arabia, Iran and other countries in the region "played a vital role in keeping Australian sheep prices from tumbling to the same extent as those for beef" last year.

Favorites returning to favor

Dependable old winter vegetables, such as parsnips, are coming back into fashion again after being bypassed for frozen, canned and subtropical imports by all too many of us the past few years. Price is one good reason, but a new appreciation of natural foods is a compelling second.

Parsnips with Almonds au Gratin will come to your table as a fragrant, hot vegetable casserole, the sliced parsnips enhanced with an herb-flavored cheese sauce and chopped almonds. Serve it whenever you might serve a potato casserole — with broiled or sauteed meats or with a platter of cold sliced meats for Sunday supper.

PARSNIPS WITH ALMONDS AU GRATIN

- 1 pound parsnips
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- ½ teaspoon sweet basil or marjoram
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
- 3 tablespoons chopped almonds

Scrub parsnips and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, cool, pare and slice. Arrange slices in 1½-quart baking dish. Melt butter in saucepan; remove from heat and stir in cornstarch. Add milk and bouillon cube. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Crush herbs and stir into sauce. Combine 2 tablespoons grated cheese with the chopped almonds and set aside. Add remaining cheese to sauce; stir until cheese is melted. Pour over parsnips. Sprinkle with reserved cheese-almond mixture. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes or until bubbling hot and brown. Serve at once. Makes about 6 servings.

LUNCHBOX SPECIAL
Baked Beans Cole Slaw
Banana Bread Beverage

ELAINE DOTY'S BANANA BREAD

- 1 cup stoneground coarse wholewheat flour
- ¼ cup wheat germ
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1¼ cups finely mashed or pureed bananas (2½ medium, ripe or green-tipped)
- ¼ cup plain yogurt
- ½ cup raisins

On wax paper stir together the flour, wheat germ, baking soda and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg. Stir in the dry ingredients in several additions alternately with the banana mixed with the yogurt, just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in raisins. Turn into a buttered 8 by 4 by 3 inch loaf pan and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until well browned and loaf shrinks from sides of pan — about 50 minutes. Turn out on rack; turn right side up and cool.

What's the question? UC may have answer

What can you do with all that beautiful fresh-caught fish your husband proudly brought home? When do you pick an avocado? Want to raise a goat or two? Do you know what, where, and how much to plant in your first garden? Would you like to know what prepared foods you can freeze and how to do it?

The answers, and other useful information, are in the publications listed below. They are published by the University of California, Division of Agricultural Sciences, based on the latest research done by the Division, and are free of charge. Books and other publications containing more extensive information sell at moderate prices. Order the publications of interest to you from the Cooperative Extension office in your county. Allow two to three weeks for delivery.

The carrot has its own cookbook

What can I do with the lowly carrot? "The Carrot Cookbook" transforms a ho-hum, humdrum Cinderella vegetable into a gourmet's delight with over 200 mouth-watering recipes, many adapted by Ann Saling from the exotic cuisine of several contients, where she lived as a Navy wife and pursued her favorite hobby of cooking.

Low in calories, rich in carotene, this good-for-you garden root adds color, texture, and a sweet, unobtrusive flavor to a variety of imaginative recipes — from Chilean Chicken-Stuffed Avocado to Overnight Carrot-Beer Waffles to Gold Dust Pecan Pie. Available all year long, carrots are simple to grow and store. So spice up your life and your table with the Cinderella vegetable from the carrot patch!

"The Carrot Cookbook" uses the convenient format of listing ingredients first, followed by measurements, so that the cook can see at a glance if everything is in stock.

Recipes sections best describe the contents: appetizers, beverages, and breads; cakes, cookies, candies, desserts, and pies; meatless main dishes; main dishes with meat, pultry, or seafood; pickles, relishes and marmalades; soups sandwiches, and salads; vegetables, side dishes, and stuffings.

An introductory chapter provides simple growing and cooking hints and briefly explores the history of the carrot — historically, carrots have long been considered an aphrodisiac, so don't say we didn't warn you!

"The Carrot Cookbook" is available at leading booksellers or direct from the publishers: Pacific Search Books, 715 Harrison St., Seattle, Washington 98109.

Flavorful sandwich

Treat your family with this flavorful sandwich for lunch or after-school snacks. Blend softened cream cheese with diced prunes for a delicious spread to serve on rye, wheat or white bread. The tender prunes add just the right touch of moistness and interest to make this cream cheese spread a sure bet to please the whole family. Great on toast, too.

Gentle roasting of 2 gastronomes

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

Ever since the 1890s when a Baltimore lady wrote "How To Cook A Husband" and it was published in a newspaper, "recipes" of that sort have proliferated. These have appeared in homespun cookbooks, produced for charitable purposes, by groups in towns and cities all over the country. Now two such folksy contributions have come out of the U.S.A.'s largest and most sophisticated city — New York.

A few weeks ago the New York Wine and Food Society gave a dinner at the Pierre Hotel to pay tribute to America's best-loved gastronomes, Julia Child and Jim Beard. The dinner program was titled "Julia and Jim ... A Gentle Roasting" and contained two "recipes." Slightly emended because of space limitations, here they are.

HOW TO ROAST
JULIA CHILD

Take 1 charming woman from Pasadena, Calif., and add 1 degree from Smith College. Mix well and pour into the OSS. Blend immediately with handsome Paul Child and let simmer until World War II is over. Then permanently blend Julia and Paul and allow flavors to develop in the U.S. Embassy in Paris for six years. Season with courses at the Cordon Bleu and a sprinkling of French chefs. Add Simone Beck and Louisette Bertholle until L'Ecole des Trois Gourmandes is formed in France's capital.

Return Julia-Paul mixture to Cambridge, Mass., and whip in TV performance. Add TV producer Ruth Lockwood and allow to bubble until the glorious "French Chef" programs result. Let stand for several years.

Stir in interviews on television, radio and in publications plus distinguished awards such as Peabody, Emmy and Ordre du Merite Agricole. Add well-done Knopf books — "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" (2 volumes), "The French Chef Cookbook" (also in paperback by Bantam Books) and "From Julia Child's Kitchen."

Results ... a superb gastronomic creation to delight everyone. Serve warm with a lovely glass of wine. Bon Appetit!

HOW TO ROAST
JIM BEARD

Take 1 fresh young boy who's just eaten 1 whole raw onion, season with a childhood in Portland, Ore., where he learns the intricacies of cooking in his family's hotel and allow to ripen thoroughly.

Lift gently and place in New York to simmer. Season with 4 tablespoons of catering firm, "Hors d'Oeuvre and Canapes Inc.," and sample delicious results.

Add numerous cookbooks — "Delights and Prejudices" (Atheneum), "American Cookery" (Little, Brown) and "Beard on Bread" (Knopf) to name a few. Toss with magazine articles, newspaper columns and radio and TV appearances.

Mix in 1 Greenwich Village brownstone, large sprig of teachers and hundreds of eager students. For extra flavor, add dashes of California and Oregon each summer.

Pour in a large variety of wines and spirits from major concerns for appraisal and 1 large dash consultancy with Joseph Baum for Restaurant Associates (Four Seasons, Brasserie, Zum-Zum and the now departed Forum).

Garnish with good plays, opera and friends and allow to roast until perfect. Serve with your finest wine. Bravo!

And what did Julia and Jim eat and drink at the dinner prepared with t. l. c. by Pierre Chef Joseph Melz and the cooperation of six distinguished New York restaurants — La Caravelle, Four Seasons, Coach House, Trattoria da Alfredo, Lutece and Le Cygne? Hors d'oeuvre varies (Mumm's Cordon Rouge Brut); Consomme; Striped Bass (Saint Veran 1973); Mignonette de Veau, Courgette Florentine, Malfatti Parmesan (Chateau-Lascombes 1967); Brie en Brioche (Clos de la Roche 1962); Souffle Glace Framboise (Chateau Climens 1967); and Cafe and Mignardises (Mumm's Extra Dry).

No other than Joe Baum, America's most gifted restaurant and hotel consultant, gave the toast: "To Julia and Jim. May they, their warm kitchens, their loving friends and their appetite for life go on forever."

CHRISTMAS FUDGE CUT-OUTS

In large saucepan combine 4 cups sifted powdered sugar, 2-3rds cup evaporated milk, 1 tablespoon butter and ½ teaspoon salt. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat and add 12 ounces (2 cups) semisweet chocolate morsels. Stir until morsels melt and mixture is smooth. Spread evenly in foil-lined pan, 13x9x2 inches. Chill until firm, about 1½ hours. Lift out of pan and peel off foil. Allow fudge to soften several minutes, then cut into various shapes with cookie cutters. Using a pastry tube, decorate with white or colored frosting if desired. Makes 2 pounds.

Keep cool fillings

When you are making sandwiches for a lunch box, don't let the fillings stand around at room temperature while you make a long phone call or do some other chore. When you use warm fillings you increase the chance of food spoilage and endanger health.

Young and Connick vows exchanged

Miss Colleen Star Connick of Upland and Robert Ray Young of Pomona were married recently in the Mt. Baldy Village Church in Mt. Baldy.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Connick of Ontario and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young were married in a ceremony read by the Rev. Richard Hammersla.

Honor attendant was Leonett Mascari of Ontario.

Bridesmaids were Rhonda Young of Ontario and Bonnie Malette of Ontario.

Ushers were Jim Henson of Pomona and Barry Mc Cormick.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the Eagles Club. When the newlyweds returned from a wedding trip to Oregon and Yosemite, they established a home in Upland.

MRS. ROBERT YOUNG

Awards presented to TOPS

Pomona Valley Republican Women's Club, Fed. will install officers at a meeting at the home of the E. C. Harrisons in Pomona on Thursday.

Pomona Councilwoman Georgia Grove will install the officers.

Taking office at the event, scheduled from 2 until 4 p.m., will be: Mmes. Alex Duarte, president; Clarence Jackman, first vice president; C. Arnold Stevenson, second vice president; Jimmy Dooley, third vice president; A. W. Kelly, fourth vice president; W. D. Hill, recording secretary; William Southworth, corresponding secretary; and Carson Hawk, treasurer.

Vocal solos will be presented by Mrs. Carson Hawk who will be accompanied by Mrs. Robert Middleton.

Refreshments will be served by the outgoing board headed by Mrs. Paul Weisand. The Christmas tree decorated with candy canes and cookies will be presented to the children's section of a local hospital after the meeting.

Reports will be given on the two conventions recently attended by members. Attending the Southern Division and Los Angeles County meetings were: Mmes. Paul Weisand, Marvin Grove, E. W. Harrison, Jack Fulton, Hollis Page, Alex Duarte, A. W. Kelly, W. D. Hill, Clarence Jackman, Ted Gronowick and Frank Carroll.

MRS. ALEX DUARTE

The club was presented the Diamond award from the national federation. Mrs. Grove was honored at a "Winning Spirit Luncheon," a tribute to Republican women who were elected to city councils, boards of education or were appointed to state or national commissions.

Christmas party set Thursday

The annual meeting and Christmas party for Pomona Valley Chapter of Executives' Secretaries, Inc., will be held Thursday at the Sycamore Inn, Cucamonga.

The holiday event will begin with the 6 p.m. informal hospitality hour and will be followed by dinner and business session, according to the program director, Mrs. Phyllis Outhier.

Members will bring unwrapped gifts for boys or girls. The gifts will be contributed to Santa Claus Inc.

Representatives from the Pomona, Ontario, Upland, Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas areas will elect a new slate of officers and directors for the coming year. Annual reports will be presented by all directors and committee chairmen.

Section meeting planned

The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley Book Review section will meet at 2:30 p.m., Dec. 24, at Hillcrest Homes C wing lounge in La Verne.

Mrs. Helen Forney will review "This Happy Place," by Bentz Plagemann.

Holiday dinner planned

The American Association of University Women, Claremont Branch, will hold its annual holiday dinner in honor of the new members of the group. Theme for the evening will be Country Christmas.

"The Session," a group from Azusa Pacific College, will provide entertainment with instrumental and vocal music. The entertainment will end with an old-fashioned sing along led by the Azusa group.

Dinner is scheduled at 7 p.m. at the Claremont United Methodist Church Round Building.

Christmas tea set

The Women's Community Club will hold their annual Christmas Tea on Thursday at 1 p.m. in the club house at 172 W. Monterey Ave., Pomona.

Hostesses for the tea will be Mrs. Inez Mueller and Mrs. H.I. Anderson. A gift exchange will follow the program. The Sunshine Girls will present a Christmas program.

OES unit will meet Saturday

An Old Fashioned Christmas in New England is the theme for the Pomona Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, meeting to be held Saturday in the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m.

Receiving special escort will be Mrs. Lawrence Manchin and Joseph Bellot, past matron and patron of Pomona Chapter, and Mrs. Doramae Hart, deputy grand matron of the Grand Chapter of California and a past matron of Claremont Chapter.

Annual chapter reports will be presented and there will be group sining of Christmas carols.

Decorations appropriate to the evening theme will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cook. In charge of refreshments will be Mrs. Maiuu A'Ce, Mrs. Arline Steiner and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Croix. Guest book hostesses will be Mrs. Elizabeth Mock and Mrs. Lucile Jerde.

A gift exchange in the dining room will climax the evening entertainment.

Valley Shrine party set

Pomona Valley Shrine, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, will meet at 4 p.m., Thursday, in the Pomona Masonic Temple.

The group will reconvene to induct new members at 8 p.m., and later in the evening a Christmas party will be held in the dining room. All members who wish may bring a gift for the gift exchange.

Auxiliary schedules meeting

The regular executive committee meeting of the Charles P. Rowe Unit 30 American Legion Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. Alfred Danis, 1870 N. Claremont Pl., Pomona on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served and a Christmas gift exchange will take place. Assisting Mrs. Danis will be Mrs. Edward Galipo and Mrs. Eleanor Lytthans.

Don't be afraid to mix multi-colored scarves and print blouses. Just make sure the colors are complementary.

Holiday party scheduled

The Claremont Junior Woman's Club will hold their children's annual Christmas party at the Claremont Woman's Club, 343 W. 12th St., Claremont at 7 p.m., today.

Refreshments will be served and a visit from Santa Claus is expected. Children will bring a variety of food and canned goods for a Christmas turkey basket to be donated to a needy family in Claremont. Homemade Christmas ornaments and greeting cards will be placed on a Christmas tree which will be given to the Los Angeles County Probation Camp.

On Saturday, the Juniors will hold their annual Christmas party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Grigsby to honor prospective members. The event will take place at 9 p.m.

Membership in the Juniors is open to all women, 18-35 years, who enjoy philanthropic work and service to their community. For further information, please call 624-8661.

Gift giving

If you like to make gifts for friends, think about a homemade poncho for the active, sportsminded woman. Use an army blanket, folded in half lengthwise with a vertical slit for the head, edges bound in a synthetic binding and sides measuring out to the wrist when the arms are extended.

Family Circus

"It costs too much for Mommy and Daddy to buy, but we'll ask Santa for it."

Newcomers set trip Thursday

The San Dimas Newcomers Club has planned an outing at Descanso Gardens in La Canada Thursday.

Transportation will leave at 9:30 a.m. from San Dimas City Hall Parking lot. Persons interested may call Paula Enriquez, 213-967-4427.

Big band sound in comeback

Orchestra leader Orrin Tucker will bring back the sound of the big bands of the '40s and '50s with the opening of the Orrin Tucker Stardust Ballroom in Hollywood Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The new dance hall at 5612 Sunset Blvd. will also offer a movie arcade in the lobby, refreshments and entertainment. Guest conductors who will lead their bands later include Xavier Cugat, Freddie Martin, Harry James, Woody Herman, Alvino Rey, Frankie Carle and Count Basie.

Ballroom dancing will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and Sunday afternoons and evenings. Other week nights will be devoted to rhythm & blues, Latin and country-western dancing and entertainment.

Tickets are $2 on week nights, $2.50 on weekends.

The Mills Brothers will perform Dec. 29-31. The program, including cocktails and dancing is $15 Dec. 29 and 30, and $17.50 on New Year's Eve.

Jazz group to play

Five jazz stylists will make up the featured band at the monthly meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz-East at the Riverside Moose Lodge, 5797 Picker St., at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The band is made up of Nappy LaMare, banjo; Red Murphy, guitar; Chuck Thomas, saxophone; Mike DeLay, trumpet, and Willie Martinez, clarinet. They will be accompanied by Cliff Beard, piano, and Paul Heiberger, drums.

Admission is $1.50. Refreshments are available.

'Selma'

Casting mars new musical

By MAE TATE

"Selma," the musical at Hollywood's Huntington Hartford Theater through Dec. 21, falls short of its potential in showing the influence of Martin Luther King Jr. upon the civil rights movement of the 1960s.

The failure to rise to the difficult theme is largely the result of poor casting for the lead of King and his wife, Coretta Scott King.

Tommy Butler as the minister and peacemaker and Denise Erwin as his helpmate are the poorest performers in an otherwise excellent cast.

Admittedly, Butler has a difficult role in that he is grappling with the image, style and memory of an unique man. He lacks the eloquence of King, and rather than rising to the stature of the man plays him as a giggling rather mundane character. His singing sounds more like bluesman Lou Rawls than a black preacher.

Rubert Williams, who plays NAACPer E. D. Nixon and is understudy to Butler's King, opens his mouth and an echo of King's voice comes out. Williams should be cast as King for he possesses the strong voice and manner that were a natural cloak for the human activist.

Miss Erwin is impossible with her giggling and fluttering eye-lashes.

The supporting cast is excellent with Sip Culler leading in his white face portrayal of the bigot sheriff. Tall, physically beautiful and arrogant in his white suit and hat and cowboy boots, Culler is dynamic and striking.

True to form, Culler magnifies the hostile attitude and approach common to the bigot. A central figure in the first act, he powerfully opens the second act in the purple robe and hood of a Klu Klux Klan leader, singing the bigot's viewpoint in "Sensitive Situation."

Lee Duncan is convincing as the angry black militant Marcus. His repentance and change of heart later is a bit unbelievable, and smacks of re-writing reality to accomodate current attitudes.

Ernie Banks, cast as the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, resembles the real Abernathy. His exuberant presentation causes a switch in the stature of King and Abernathy. The latter in life was dwarfed in the shadow of King's greatness. Banks, however, plays Abernathy more powerfully in "Selma."

Alenza Powell in the solo "Poison Hiding in the Church" following the bombing that killed four little black girls in a Birmingham church sings a mournful and desperate cry for patience and deliverance. Ruth Brown as Mahalia Jackson rolls the words of the black national anthem off her tongue, and brings the feeling from the gut level. She wraps the audience in a spell of remembered awe.

"Selma" is reminiscent of tortured troubled times for black and white America. In retracing the steps of the civil rights movement with an outstanding musical by Butler, "Selma" illustrates how far we've come and how far we have yet to go "until America becomes mother to all her children, black, white, yellow and red."

GETTING THE POINT — Tony Randall as Felix has some words for Jack Klugman as Oscar in "The Odd Couple," playing through Jan. 10 at the Shubert Theater in Los Angeles. The Neil Simon comedy was a Broadway hit and a successful movie and TV series.

Citrus to do 5 shows

The Citrus College Children's Reader Theater will present "Free To Be You and Me" in the Little Theater five times this month.

The program, which features a wide variety of songs, stories, poetry and playlets designed to appeal to children, will be held at 2 p.m. Dec. 13 and 14; at 8 p.m. Dec. 19; and at 2 p.m. on Dec. 20 and 21. Tickets, obtainable at the door, are 50 cents for children and $1 for adults.

In the cast are Mary Herbener, Mary Mulvey, Kathy Selke, Lisa Earp, Joe Futerman, Steve Stoerman, Mitchell Santell and John Eddinger.

The production is directed by Carol Bernthal, speech and drama instructor, and student Victoria Haag.

In addition to the performance at Citrus, the group will present the program at local elementary schools Dec. 15-18 and at the Monrovia Library at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 17.

Recital set at Bridges

Sandra Fenton, principal bassoonist of the Pomona College Symphony Orchestra, will give her senior recital in Bridges Hall at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday. Admission is free.

Miss Fenton studied with Frederick Moritz, for 48 years principal bassoonist in the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

The program includes two trio sonatas for bassoon, flute and harpsichord by the 18th century French composers Boismortier and Loeillet, for which Miss Fenton will be joined by Edna Sugihara, flute, and Lynne Rogers and John Steele, Ritter, harpsichord.

Also on the program are two concertos for bassoon. For the Vivaldi Concerto in A Minor, Peter Hewitt will provide harpsichord accompaniment, and for the Concerto by Von Weber, Ritter will accompany at the piano.

The metric system is sometimes called the "decimal" system because it is based on the number 10 as in our number system.

The metric system is easy for most people to use, since it is easier to multiply and divide by 10, 100, and other powers of 10 than to work with the numbers and fractions we now use in changing inches to feet, ounces to pounds, and so on.

As for adding and subtracting, the decimal system is by far the speediest and least troublesome.

And metric decimal fractions (such as 0.25) are much easier to handle than ordinary fractions (such as ¼). With the metric system, there's no need to remember that there are 5,280 feet in a mile, or 128 ounces in a gallon, or other cumbersome measures.

You can quickly change from one metric unit to the next higher or lower unit by moving the decimal in the appropriate direction for each step up or each step down. That's all there is to it!

UNFLAGGING ENERGY — Sailmakers Pat Smith and Richard Hayes needed all the energy they could muster to stitch through 314 yards of this gigantic Old Glory. Measuring 43 by 65 feet and weighing 75 pounds, it was created for the Galena Park, Tex., School District at a cost of $1,250 with students helping pay for it.

UCLA survey

Expansion of business due to continue

LOS ANGELES — (BW) — Business expansion, which started about six months ago following the most sever recession since the 1930's, will continue through 1976 and into 1977, according to the forecast released by the UCLA Graduate School of Management.

Dr. Robert M. Williams, director of the UCLA Business Forecast, and Dr. Larry J. Kimbell, Director of Forecasting Models, announced their findings at the university's 24th annual business forecast.

Consumer spending will continue to provide the main thrust to the economy. The forecast assumes that the lower tax rates on personal incomes adopted last May will be extended through 1976.

This stimulus to consumer spending will be reinforced by the declining rate of inflation, which will increase the real purchasing power of family incomes.

Investment in residential and other construction and in producers' durable equipment will increase moderately. Business inventories, which were reduced sharply in 1975, will be increased again as sales continue to improve in 1976.

Net exports of goods and services will continue to be positive, although the highly favorable trade balance recorded in 1975 will be reduced in 1976.

While the government sector will continue to expand in 1976, the huge federal deficit and the severe financial problems faced by many state and local governments will discourage efforts to increase public spending.

More specifically, gross national product is predicted to rise by $163 billion or 11 per cent in 1976 compared with an increase of $80 billion or 5.7 per cent in 1975. However, correcting for inflation, "real" GNP will increase 5.6 per cent in 1976 compared with a decrease of 2.9 per cent in 1975.

Total industrial production is expected to increase by 9.6 per cent in 1976 compared with a reduction of 8.6 per cent in 1975. Private housing starts are predicted to increase from 1,184,000 in 1975 to 1,458,000 — still far short of the level exceeding 2,000,000 in the years 1972 through 1973.

Automobile sales are forecast to rise from 8.7 million in 1975 to 9.5 million in 1976 compared with the record level of 11.5 million in 1973.

Wholesale prices are predicted to rise 7.4 per cent in 1976 compared with increases of 9.4 per cent in 1975 and 19 per cent in 1974 at the peak of the inflationary cycle.

Consumer prices are expected to rise 6.5 per cent in 1976 compared with increases of 9.2 per cent in 1975 and 11 per cent in 1974.

Civilian employment, which fell from an average level of 86 million in 1974 to 84.8 million in 1975, is predicted to reach a record 86.9 million in 1976.

However, the labor force continues to expand, and the unemployment rate is expected to fall slowly from an average of 8.5 per cent in 1975 to 8.1 per cent in 1976 compared with 5.6 per cent in 1974 and 4.9 per cent in 1973.

Wages, as measured by average hourly earnings in all manufacturing industries, are predicted to increase by 8.3 per cent in 1976 compared with 9.2 per cent in 1975 and 8.1 per cent in 1974.

Interest rates on three-month treasury bills are expected to average 6 per cent in 1976 compared with 5.8 per cent in 1975 and 7.8 per cent in 1974, the year of record interest rates. The more stable long-term interest rates, as measured by the yield on Moody's AAA Bonds, are predicted to average 8.7 per cent in 1976, compared with 8.8 per cent in 1975 8.6 per cent in 1974.

Corporate profits after taxes are expected to establish a record $86 billion in 1976 compared with $77 billion in 1975 and $85 billion in 1974.

Stock prices, as measured by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, are predicted to fluctuate in a range of 800 to 1000 in 1976 compared with a range of 632-882 in 1975.

The prediction of higher stock prices next year is based on forecasts of higher corporate profits, fairly stable interest rates, and increased investor confidence as the business expansion continues.

The apparent resolution of New York City's financial crisis should be a positive factor in all securities markets.

The national economy is expected to expand each quarter in 1976. The UCLA forecast also calls for economic growth in 1977, in contrast to some other current forecasts which predict a slowdown in late 1976 or 1977.

The California economy, like that of the nation, will continue on a recovery path next year. California personal income performed slightly better than national personal income in the early phases of the recession, but is now lagging slightly behind in terms of recovery.

Also, the rate of unemployment in the state, chronically higher than the nation, is now over 10 per cent compared with a rate of about 8.5 per cent for the nation. Both unemployment rates will decline in 1976 to 9.4 per cent for California and to 8.1 per cent for the nation.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4503 PUDDINGSTONE DRIVE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Road Commissioner of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 180, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033, until 9:30 a.m. on December 23, 1975; and then will be publicly opened and read in Room 193 at the above address for the construction of curb, gutter, base and pavement, fence work, drainage structures, removals, earthwork, and other incidental and appurtenant work estimated to cost less than $325,000 all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans, Specifications, Notices and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are on file and open for inspection at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, compiain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Dated December 2, 1975.
